HIGH BENCH AGAIN FULL

North Carolina Judge Named

Hoover Selects J. J. Parker as Sanford's Successor in Supreme Court

Republican Nominee Young; No Untoward Opposition Expected in Senate

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—The nomination of Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to be associate justice of the Supreme Court, succeeding the late Edward T. Sanford of Tennessee, was forwarded to the Senate today by President Hoover.

The second appointee of Mr. Hoover to the highest tribunal is on the bench of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the Fourth District, embracing Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North and South Carolina.

Like his predecessor, Parker is a Republican.

YOUNGEST IN 100 YEARS

Judge Parker is 44 years of age and is the youngest man to be nominated to the Supreme Court in 100 years. He is the first man from these States to go to the high court in seventy years. Only two other men as young as he have served on the Supreme Court—John Jay, the Chief Justice, who was 44 years of age, and Joseph Story, who was 32 when he was appointed.

Hailed with hearty indorsement by the two Democratic Senators from North Carolina, the Parker nomination appeared tonight to face no untoward opposition by the Senate, which recently engaged in a bitter controversy over confirmation of Chief Justice Hughes.

Chairman Norris of the Judiciary Committee announced he will refer the nomination to a subcommittee for consideration Monday at the regular meeting. That is the usual procedure, he said. The whole committee probably will be ready to make a report to the Senate a week from Monday.

DATA "FAVORABLE"

Senator Norris and Senator Borah of Idaho, who led the contest against Hughes's confirmation, said tonight they know very little of Parker's qualifications. Both added that such information as they have received was "favorable."

Senators Simmons and Overman of North Carolina were outspoken in their indorsement of Parker. They had recommended a Democrat, Justice Stacy of the North Carolina Supreme Court. They said if a Republican was to be chosen that "Parker is the best man."

"We wanted a Democrat," said Senator Simmons, "but we made it clear to the President that if a Republican is to be appointed we wanted it to be Judge Parker. I think that is the attitude of the North Carolina delegation, of the bar, and of the people of the State.

"Judge Parker is a young man, a very fine lawyer and he has made

PARK FUND ESTABLISHED BY OIL KING

J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., Will Give West $16,000,000 for Forests, Says Report

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has established a $16,000,000 fund for western national park forests, it is understood here. Col. Arthur Woods is directing the disposition of the fund.

The Rockefeller project, it is understood, calls for governmental cooperation on a fifty-fifty basis in the purchase of forest lands to be saved from commercial lumbering. The first objective is to be the outskirts of Yosemite National Park in California.

Dr. Charles Lathrop Pack of Lakewood, N. J., American tree expert who directed reforestation in France, Italy and England after the World War, said that Rockefeller "came to the front" after discussions both with him and his son, Arthur N. Pack, president of the American Nature Association.

Mexican Line to be Crossed at 8 a.m. and Capital of Sonora Will be Night Stop

BY HARRY CARR
"Times" Staff Representative

NOGALES (Ariz.) March 21. (Exclusive)—The Automobile Club pathfinding expedition will shove off tomorrow for Hermosillo. Cattlemen coming from the south report that the roads have dried and are in fairly good condition. The caravan of five cars will cross the line at 8 o'clock in the morning and expect to be in the capital city of Sonora some time during the evening.

The President of Mexico has asked to be informed of the hour of starting and Gov. Elias has arranged a reception and banquet for the expedition on its arrival.

AID PROMISED

A letter came today to E. E. East, chief engineer in charge of the party, from Senor Luis Castillo Ledon, Governor of the State of Nayarit, in which he sent a number of blueprints giving explicit information as to the road conditions. His letter also stated that beginning at the quaint, old garrison town of Acaponeta and on down through Nayarit, the municipal officials had been instructed to give the party every possible assistance and every guarantee of protection and help.

As a farewell to the United States we were tendered a luncheon by the Rotary Club of Nogales today afterward a review by the Twenty-fifth Infantry which is in garrison at this place.

REGIMENT EXCELS

I have seen most of the famous troops in the world from the household guards in London to the Kaiser's Alexander regiment, every officer of which had to be a baron and the officers of the first company had to be barons whose titles went back to the year 1000, but I can truthfully say that I have never seen a finer body of soldiers than these colored boys of the old Twenty-fifth Infantry. Most of them are veterans of two or three enlistments. A soldier in this regiment is looked upon as a recruit until he has worn the castle and palm on his hat for four or five years. They shoot circles around every other regiment in the Army outside of West Point.

GHOULS ADD TO MYSTERY OF DANCER

Attempt on Gaby Deslys Tomb Complicates Puzzle of Her Identity

PARIS, March 21. (Exclusive)—A new mystery was added today to the mysteriods case of Gaby Deslys, the former famous French dancer, whose identity is the subject of an involved litigation when it was learned that during the night someone had tried to open her tomb in Cemetery Saint Pierre here.

The motive of the ghoulish attempt is incomprehensible, since it is well known that the former dancer's jewels and valuables were not buried with her. A possible explanation is that the grave raiders were seeking a new clew in the riddle of the dancer's identity.

Since her death several claims have been made for the fortune she left; the first claim was that she was the daughter of an American in Marseilles, where the dancer was supposed to have been born, and the second was that of a Hungarian family, who claim that her real name was Hedwige Navratil. To add to the complications a woman named Hedwige Navratil turned up in Bordeaux. A few days ago Mrs. Edna C. Stiles of Pasadena, Cal. announced she was the daughter of Gaby.

National Pool Controls Third of Wool Clip

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—L. B. Palmer of Columbus, O., president of the National Wool Marketing Corporation, a group of wool cooperatives, told the directors at a meeting today that the corporation is practically assured control of the country's wool.

"The goal of 100,000,000 pounds of wool, or one-third of the nation's annual clip, is assured." Palmer reported, "and within a month there will be co-operative units affiliated with the national corporation in every wool-producing center in the country. Nine State co-operatives have already affiliated and plans are under way in seven States and two districts for further affiliations."

PIGEONS PERIL FRUIT CROPS

Hundreds of Thousands Swarm in from Mountains to Feed on Bakersfield Ranches

BAKERSFIELD, March 21. (Exclusive)—Hundreds of thousands of wild pigeons flutter down like a huge cloud every morning and arise every evening over a territory more than five miles square, comprising the large Di Giorgio ranch and smaller farms in the Arvin district, threatening this year's fruit crop and a tremendous acreage of grapes, L. A. Burtch, agricultural commissioner, reported here today.

So serious is the migration that ening off the birds. First flights over the ranch did not prove successful, the birds making short flights and then alighting after the plane roared on. It also almost ended disastrously for the plane when the landing gear caught on a high-tension wire.

WILL FEED THEM

Capt. Brownlow said today that his plan will be to feed the birds by scattering quantities of corn in the region where they settle at night, mostly on Bear Mountain, where their daily migrations have been observed. Patrols of men will move about the Di Giorgio ranch armed with shotguns and fire blank cartridges to frighten the flocks off whenever they appear.

As the birds are protected by both State and Federal law no killing of them will be tolerated and the whole area will be patrolled by game wardens. Any person found with a dead pigeon in his possession will be prosecuted for a misdemeanor, it was said.

the birds are breaking off young shoots from the trees under their sheer weight as they settle in flocks over the orchard and vineyard land of the ranch. The increase in numbers of the pigeons has been so great this week that the county has appealed to the Fish and Game Commission for aid, as the birds are protected.

PLANE UNAVAILING

Capt. O. P. Brownlow of the Fish and Game Commission made a trip posthaste to the city last night, arriving in time today to make an early inspection and take charge of the situation.

Ed Champness, manager of the vast Di Giorgio ranch, desperate over the menace to his potential grape and fruit crops extending over an area five miles square, has chartered an airplane, piloted by Ross Peacock, to swoop down over the great fields in the hope of fright-

AMERICANS CAPTURED

Ten Missionaries Held in China

Catholic Group Trapped by Communistic Orientals in Town of Kanchow

Dispatch of Troops Sought; Officials in Washington Announce Warning

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—The State Department today announced receipt of word from China that ten American Catholic missionaries are trapped in Kanchow by Communist Chinese.

The announcement was based on a telegram received from a missionary named Young at Mananfu in which he asked that help be sent quickly.

The American Consul-General at Canton informed the department that he immediately took up the case with the local government, which asked Gen. Lieu at Mananfu to send troops.

REMOVAL URGED

Father John J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, was informed by the department that the United States believes it is unsafe for missionaries to remain in Southern Kiangsi without the protection of Chinese soldiers.

The department said that, although it appears that the withdrawal of these missionaries cannot be undertaken at the present moment, it appears desirable that they should leave as soon as possible and should be kept out of that territory until safe conditions are restored.

LIST OF NAMES

The following are the American Catholic missionaries stationed at Kanchow on January 1 and it is believed they are still there:

Mary C. Beggs, Emmetsburg, Md.; F. L. Cahill, Germantown, Pa.; J. J. Corbett, Boston; Vincent Louise Delude, South Boston, Mass.; Clara Louis Groell, Anselma Jarboe, Emily P. Kolb, Helen C. Lucas, Sarah A. O'Neill and Anne Strable, all of Emmetsburg, Md.

J. L. O'Shea (apparently the bishop,) Deep River, Ct.; Ancis J. Straubie, Rochester, N. Y.

ANGELENO TELLS OF ANTIBANSON POLICY

Reports received in Washington of the trapping of ten Catholic missionaries at Kangchow, China, have not been forwarded to him, Father James J. Keller, superior of the Maryknoll Home for Oriental Children in Los Angeles, said yesterday. He confirmed press reports of the names of the trapped group, who he said have been in Kanchow for some time under charge of Bishop J. J. Shea.

Father Keller stated that a policy has been adopted against paying any ransoms for the freedom of missionaries in China. He explained that the policy was adopted to discourage such kidnapings, and declared so far it has proved successful in lessening the number of captures.

WASHINGTON AREA HIT BY WINDSTORM

Autos Blown from Roads and Buildings Unroofed by Seventy-Mile Gale

SPOKANE, March 21. (AP)—A seventy-mile-an-hour gale blew automobiles off the highway, unroofed barns and caused considerable damage to canals in the region around Wapato, in Central Washington, it was reported here today.

The gale blew up great dust clouds, forcing cessation of farm work and families near newly plowed fields said they were forced to remain indoors for the duration of the storm.

At Pasco a wind of slightly less intensity raged for several hours, but aside from covering the countryside with dust, little damage was reported.

In other sections of Eastern Washington and Northern Idaho heavy winds, rains and some snow were reported.

Three Men Die in Powder Blast at Army Arsenal

DOVER (N. J.) March 21. (AP)—An army officer and two civilian employees were killed late today in an explosion of smokeless powder at the United States Army arsenal at Picatinny, near here.

Those killed were: Capt. U. B. Fiddler of the Ordnance Department; Frank Stevens and Stephen Deevey.

Stevens and Deevey were chemists at the arsenal.

Col. James Train, commanding officer, said the men were experimenting with a new kind of smokeless powder.

VETERAN CAFE MAN DIES

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Michael J. Shanley, one of six brothers whose name for a generation was synonymous in New York with good food served in a chain of restaurants, died suddenly here today of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was 63 years of age.

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, March 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I can picture the great old man Balfour as I remember seeing him at the Washington disarmament conference in '22. You couldn't miss him; it was the professional diplomat, the trained statesman, just coasting along with a lot of amateurs. He could sink a blue print with more emotion than we could a battleship. He knew that on account of England's numerous coaling stations all over the world that it was fast light cruisers they needed, so he with "great reluctance" agreed to limit battleships. But he thought it was up to us to make it a success if we had to sink the Robert E. Lee, and did. Balfour was made "Lord" when he returned home for what he did here. I always thought he should have been made king.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

MOVE MADE FOR BILL ON MEXICANS

Johnson Meets With Snell, Seeking Special Rule, But Success in Doubt

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21. (Exclusive)—Representative Johnson of Washington, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, and author of the bill restricting immigration from Mexico and other countries of the Western Hemisphere, today conferred with Chairman Snell of the Rules Committee over the prospects for obtaining a special rule giving the measure right of way in the House.

Nothing was divulged by either Johnson or Snell of the results of the meeting, but indications remain that the rules chairman and other House Republican leaders will not permit the legislation to come out on the floor this session.

If anything touching on the subject of Western World immigration is enacted this session it is expected to be the McNary resolution, introduced at the behest of the Federal Farm Board, providing for inquiry by a Presidential commission into the entire agricultural labor situation in the United States to show the need or lack of need of Mexican and Canadian labor in our essential industries. Hearings on this resolution are now expected to begin before the Senate Agricultural Committee within the next ten days.

Possessions of Ford's Fiddler Lost in Flames

NORWAY (Me.) March 21. (AP)—Maine's champion fiddler, "Grandpa Mellie" Dunham, who became famous in 1925 when he was invited to Dearborn, Mich., to play for Henry Ford, and through the latter's efforts won a vaudeville contract, lost all his prized fiddles and many other cherished possessions today when fire destroyed his century-old farmhouse on Crockett's Ridge.

"Grandpa Mellie" and his helpmate, "Grandma," escaped from the flaming farmhouse with their three grandchildren.

Mellie estimated the value of the fiddles, relics and antiques at $5000.

Mellie is 77 years of age, and "Grandma" 72.

ORMSBY IN GRAFT NET

Oakland's Grand Jury Indicts

Mrs. McPherson's Former Attorney and ex-Deputy Linked to Rum Bribe

Commissioner "Accused" in Paving Scandal and on Care of Show Horse

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

OAKLAND, March 21. (Exclusive)—Alameda county's graft investigation took a new turn today when the grand jury voted unexpected indictments against J. L. Davis, former deputy sheriff, and Cromwell L. Ormsby, former attorney for Aimee Semple McPherson, charging them with collecting bootleg protection money.

The jury also voted the predicted "accusation" against Commissioner William H. Parker, setting forth seven counts of "corrupt misconduct in office."

The indictments, charging bribery and conspiracy to ask and receive bribes, were based on testimony, it was ascertained, by Ornato Santucci that he had agreed to pay Davis and Ormsby $3000 a month for unmolested operation of a liquor still on a hog ranch at Russell City, a small town on the bay flats between Elmhurst and Alvarado.

STILL INSPECTED

Santucci, whose evidence was reinforced by Manuel Pisani, John Tognotti and Guido Roggi, testified that before beginning operations the still was inspected by Davis and Ormsby and received their O.K. In September, 1927, the first $3000 payment was made, it was asserted.

But on October 27, when the second payment was overdue and Davis and Ormsby were becoming insistent, according to the testimony, Dist.-Atty. Warren's detectives raided the place, arresting Santucci, Roggi and a man named Fornacari.

The raiders had to fight off about 200 hogs to reach the still and in the midst of the raid gasoline storage tanks exploded, presumably from a short circuit in the electric wiring, injuring several of the District Attorney's men.

GRAFT CHARGED

The Parker "accusation" charges the commissioner in the first count with corruptly conspiring between September 30, 1927, and April 1, 1929, with Ray Lamberson, his secretary, and John C. Garbutt, Floyd Van Noy, E. Q. Norman and Fred G. Haase, patent paving men, to cast his vote for patent paving and that in return he was to receive ½ cent a square foot to be divided with Lamberson. The seventh count is similar except that Van Noy and Haase are not mentioned.

The other counts charge:

That Parker corruptly suppressed evidence between January 10 and May 16, 1929, showing that Frank Phillips, city paving inspector, had received the notorious "P. Rose" checks on the Columbian Park Drive paving, that the commissioner failed to inform other members of the Council and that he failed to call vital witnesses in the investigation.

FAILED TO REPORT

That Parker failed to discharge Phillips and failed to report the matter to the City Council "for the corrupt purpose of preventing the truth from becoming known," thus allowing the paving assessment to be confirmed.

That the commissioner willfully and corruptly kept the Spirit of Oakland, his show horse, in the corporation yard, while city employees groomed the animal on the city's time.

That receipts of the street department were kept in two bank accounts which did not draw interest, for the city on the average daily balance of $10,000 and that the banks did not put up security for the deposits as required by law.

Davis and Ormsby surrendered to Sheriff Driver and were admitted to $3000 bail each by Superior Judge Wood.

WIVES LOVE TO BE BOSSED

Confess They "Mind" Their Husbands, Although Obey Has Been Deleted as Marriage Vow

CHICAGO, March 21. (Exclusive)—Here is something handy to keep around the house. It was compiled by a bachelor who has no personal interest in the matter and inspired by the statement of Mrs. Charles H. Swift, the former Claire Dux, opera star, who said "Wives should do as their husbands tell them."

It develops that every wife and prospective wife questioned agrees with Mrs. Swift.

"Just because 'obey' has been left out the marriage ceremony does not mean that human nature has changed," said Mrs. B. F. Langworthy of Winnetka. "Women still look up to their husbands' wishes as their superiors in matters of judgment, while men continue to put their wives on a pedestal for goodness."

Mrs. Samuel Peterson of the Delaware Towers, prominent in Gold Coast circles, exclaimed: "Do I obey my husband? Of course, I do! Nobody knows it better than he does."

"It's wisdom for the wife to obey, or at least to seem to do so," according to Mrs. Louise A. Rogers, assistant to the president of the Women's City Club, while Mrs. Elsie Palm declared that obedience is the glory of married life.

"It's so much nicer to have a man do the deciding," she explained. "He pays the bills, so why shouldn't he choose the road?"

Miss Beatrice Nevills, representing the maids, declared for having "obey" put back in the marriage ritual. "Every girl wants a man who will be her boss," she declared.

The ladies said a lot more but lack of space does not permit of enumerating.

Besides, their added remarks were in the form of qualification, and the disinterested reporter feels they would weaken the case for the married male.

VERDICT DOOMS WOMAN SLAYER

Irene Schroeder Slated for Chair in Pennsylvania

Unmoved as Jury Foreman Delivers His Message

Defense Plans Motion for New Trial on Monday

NEW CASTLE (Pa.) March 21. (AP)—Death in the electric chair was the verdict returned by a jury here tonight in the case of Irene Schroeder, 28 years of age, tried for the slaying of Highway Patrolman Brady Paul. The jury's decision was first-degree murder, without mercy, which automatically carries the death penalty.

The verdict was returned at 9:25 o'clock, after the jury had retired at 6:44.

Mrs. Schroeder never flinched as the verdict was brought in. She did not even turn pale. Members of her family could be heard sobbing after the jury foreman had spoken. Among the spectators in the crowded courtroom many could be seen with handkerchiefs to their eyes.

The blond defendant sneered as she was led from the courtroom.

Laughing as she entered the courtroom to hear the ten men and two women read their decision, Mrs. Schroeder chatted with Sheriff and Mrs. Charles N. Johnson while she awaited reading of the verdict.

JURY POLL CALLED

After the foreman had announced the verdict, Attorney Thomas A. Dickey and Benn Jarrett, after consulting Irene, moved the court that the jury be polled.

Then in turn, the clerk asked each of the twelve jurors what verdict had been reached. Each one replied:

"Guilty of murder in the first degree and fix the penalty of death."

Mrs. Schroeder looked straight ahead as the jurors were polled.

Then, still sneering, she was hurried away to her cell in the County Jail, through crowds of curious and camera men with booming flashlights.

Paul was fatally wounded December 27, last.

STATE'S DEMAND

The trial, which opened here the 10th inst., terminated with the State demanding the extreme penalty and Thomas W. Dickey, counsel for Mrs. Schroeder, asking that if a first-degree verdict be returned it contain a recommendation for mercy. That would automatically provide a life sentence, Dickey explained. He did not ask acquittal. It was his contention Paul was wounded by a shot from the pistol of Private Ernest Moore, companion patrolman.

In his summary Dist.-Atty. Powers charged "the State lost one of its defenders" and "a mother lost a son."

The charge, given by Judge Hildebrand, occupied about an hour and outlined the various verdicts the jury might bring in.

Stating that the defendant had been hurt as a child, Dickey asked if there was not some cure "for a woman like this?" He also asked "should she be taken away from Donnie, her 4-year-old son?" The attorney added that the "commonwealth will say she is not fit to see him, but—she is his mother."

"ONE OF UNFORTUNATES"

Attorney Ben Jarrett of the defense termed Mrs. Schroeder as "one of God's unfortunates."

Led from the courthouse in charge of Deputy Sheriffs, Mrs. Schroeder demonstrated to crowds of curious that death apparently means nothing to her, and she appeared the least excited of all.

Seated on the bunk in her cell in the little Lawrence County Jail, but a few minutes after hearing the verdict, Mrs. Schroeder carried on in light-hearted repartee with W. Glenn Dague, Wheeling automobile salesman indicted with her for the killing of Paul.

Dague, who was walking about outside his cell on the floor below, called to her.

"How are you feeling, Irene?"

APPARENTLY UNWORRIED

With crowds outside the jail yelling the terms of the verdict so that their words were clearly audible to the prisoners, Mrs. Schroeder replied:

"Come on up and see."

"I would if I could," was Dague's response.

"Why don't you?" Mrs. Schroeder countered.

"Oh, just because," Dague shouted back.

"Go to bed, you old devil," said the woman as the exchange was concluded.

Defense counsel announced tonight that a motion for a new trial will be made on Monday morning before Judge Hildebrand, who presided at the trial. If a new trial is denied, it was said an appeal will be taken to a higher court.

The jury, it was learned, took three ballots in arriving at a verdict at 9:25 o'clock after having received the case at 6:44 p.m.

Anti-Saloon League Will Take Field Against Bay City Mayor for Governor

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (Exclusive)—The California Anti-Saloon League will oppose the candidacy of Mayor Rolph if that official becomes a candidate for Governor, Dr. Arthur Briggs, State superintendent of the organization, announced today.

"We could not do otherwise than oppose the candidacy of Rolph," Dr. Briggs said, "but we do not believe that he will enter the contest for the Governorship nomination."

"Coquetting with the situation," but "not seriously" is the way Dr. Briggs views the Rolph attitude toward the coming race.

Dr. Briggs declared the Anti-Saloon League might remain out of the coming campaign should Rolph not be in the field. He said the question of political indorsements is a matter for the entire board of directors of the league to decide. The directors held a meeting last week but no decision was announced as to political plans for this year.

"It may be necessary for the board of directors to meet again before the Governorship campaign," Dr. Briggs said.

Oakland Bomb Blast Mangles Two Students

OAKLAND, March 21. (AP)—Two Oakland High School youths were injured seriously today in the explosion of a home-made bomb with which they were experimenting.

The injured boys are Richard Powell, 14 years of age, and Clayton Stiles, 15. Young Powell was burned badly and received a punctured abdomen. He is not expected to recover. Stiles's left hand was shattered.

The blast occurred in the basement of the Powdrell home where the boys had been experimenting with explosives. Powell was tamping gun powder into a rusted iron pipe when the rudely constructed bomb exploded. Flames accompanied the blast and both youths were burned severely.

Seventy-five workers for the campaign were present, and initial contributions of $10,500 by five donors were announced. HUSTON'S STOCK DEBIT SQUARED

Carbide Company's Money Paid to His Broker

Deal Directly Tied Up With Shoals Lease Bid

Senate Lobby Committee Obtains More Data

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Driving ahead in its inquiry into the New York brokerage account of Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, the Senate lobby investigating committee to day received testimony of an indebtedness of $19,381 in his account at the time the Union Carbide Company gave him $22,000 last year for the Tennessee River Improvement Association.

This was testified to by W. E. Moore of New York, who described himself as Huston's "confidential man." He added that when the Carbide company later gave Huston $14,100 for the improvement association the brokerage account was indebted in the sum of $39,500, which was secured by stocks valued at about $45,000.

Huston has testified that he sold maps and charts belonging to the Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which he is a former president, to Carbide for $26,100, and that themoney was paid by two checks, one on March 9 for $22,000 and the other on June 26 for $14,100. He said the money was deposited with his brokers for convenience in the name of Moore.

USED FOR STOCK

the brokerage firm of Blyth & Bonner, has testified that the $14,100, which was in a separate account, was used as margin for purchase of stocks. Moore added today that the account in which the $22,000 had been deposited also had been used for stock purchases which he said "sometimes" were directed by Huston.

The Republican chairman has denied that the $14,100 had been used for purchasing stock, but added that Moore had the right to do this.

The committee questioner Fred H. Haggerson, president of the Union Carbide Company. He said he had contributed the $36,100 to Huston for use by the Tennessee River Improvement Association in advocating the proposals of the American Syamid Company to lease Muscle Shoals. He said his company had a contract to obtain part of the power if the Cyamid bid were accepted.

Questioned about Huston's testimony yesterday that he had sold the Carbide Company maps and charts for the $36,100, Haggerson said:

"I wouldn't say that we bought them. I believe it was a consideration for the money we gave."

He added that he did not know anything about the maps and had not seen them, but had been told by a company representative that they were valuable.

SOLICITED BY HUSTON

Haggerson said the money had been solicited by Huston, who, he said, had described the improvement association as being in debt and needing financial support. Huston was quoted as saying that unless funds were obtained the Association would have to suspend operations.

Haggerson explained that Huston first asked for a contribution of $22,000 "at once to meet obligations of the association," and later solicited the $14,100 contribution for the same purpose.

"Mr. Huston told me if I decided to give the money to send it to Mr. Moore and that was done," he said.

Huston has testified that he and Haggerson agreed on the total amount of $36,100 before any payment was made, but Haggerson said that was not his recollection. He testified Huston solicited the money in two separate amounts.

POWER RULE CHANGES TO BE DELAYED

Federal Commission Will Defer Action on Aides Until Congress Acts

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Secretary Wilbur, ex-officio member of the Federal Power Commission, said today that reorganization of the assistant personnel—including F. E. Bonner, executive secretary recently under fire in the Senate, and Charles C. A. Russell, solicitor with whom Bonner was at odds—will be deferred until Congress disposes of legislation proposing reorganization of the commission.

The commission tomorrow will hold its first meeting since its affairs were investigated by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. Wilbur said "We want to wait and see how the proposal for reorganization of the commission proper comes out."

New York Stage Raid Recounted by Squad Chief

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Capt. James J. Coy, who headed the police squad that raided "Pleasure Man," a year and a half ago, took the actors to jail, and forbade any further performances after the third night, was still on the stand today when trial of Miss Mae West, author, and those associated with her in the production adjourned for the week-end.

Miss West, Carl Reed, producer, and the entire cast of more than fifty members, are charged with a misdemeanor in having perpetrated "Pleasure Man," which Capt. Coy and his associates of the police department decided was too highly flavored for even the sophisticated taste of broadway.

Today Capt. Coy was under cross-examination by Nathan Burkan, Miss West's attorney.

hold themselves at arms' length as if we were in a house of thieves."

Vice-President Curtis ruled the amendment could be reoffered if in changed form but admonished the fiery Arizonan for the language he used.

"I thank the chair and announce that we all will be on guard," Ashurst replied and sat down.

"BAD TASTE" CHARGED

While he did not question the good faith of those advocating an oil duty, the Arizonan asserted it was "extremely bad taste and bad practice after we have settled the matter to jump it up again when Senators have gone home to sick beds when they believe it is settled."

He referred to the reoffering last night by Senator Pine, Republican, Oklahoma, of his amendment for a rate of 40 cents a barrel on crude oil and 20 per cent ad valorem on petroleum byproducts which was defeated Wednesday, 32 to 28, and again last night without a roll call.

The same amendment was the one rejected by a single vote today, while Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, previously had lost two tries at $1 a barrel and 50 per cent.

The plate-glass reductions were approved, 39 to 36, after the Presidential rates once had been restored to the bill. Offered by Senator McMaster of South Dakota, Republican, the amendment would provide a rate of 17 cents a square foot on plate glass over 384 and not over 1008 square inches, as against rates of 19 and 22 cents on various sizes within these limits at present. If over 1008 square inches the rate would be 19 3-4 cents, as against 22 now.

SHORTRIDGE VICTORIOUS

An additional duty of 10 cents a dozen pieces on chinaware which are dutiable at 60 per cent on plain and 70 per cent on decorated was approved on motion of Senator Hatfield of West Virginia, Republican.

Senator Shortridge of California, Republican, won an increase in rate on tungsten metal from 60 cents a pound and 25 per cent to 60 cents and 50 per cent and on tungstic acid from 60 cents and 25 per cent to 60 cents and 40 per cent.

Senator Copeland of New York, Democrat, was successful on a vivavoce vote in obtaining an increase on fine wire fencing and netting but upon reconsideration moved by Senator Norris of Nebraska, Republican, this was eliminated.

A duty of $2 a ton on phosphate rock, a fertilizer raw material on the free list, suggested by Senator Trammell, Democrat, Florida, also was rejected.

DEBATE LIMITED

As dusk settled over Capitol Hill, the tariff debaters reached the heart of the bill—the agriculture schedule. Few Senators are winning in their last attempts to cut or increase duties. A ten-minute limitation of debate on each amendment was helping to speed the bill and few roll calls were being demanded.

Both Senators Steck, Democrat, and Brookhart, Republican, of Iowa, were turned down on amendments to increase the rate of black strap molasses while Senator Barkley lost in an attempt to cut the increases already voted on cherries, sulphured or in brine.

GRAPE CONTRACT NOT TO GROWERS' LIKING

SACRAMENTO, March 21. (AP)—The California Fruit Exchange does not entirely approve the contract of the California grape-control board as adopted by the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California at a recent meeting in Fresno, J. L. Nagle, general manager of the exchange, said here today. The contract proposes to bring 85 per cent of the State grape-and-raisin tonnage under control of the State board. If the contract can be revised to protect the interests of the 7500 grower members of the exchange indorsement may be given and attorneys are working on suggested revisions, Nagle said. He announced a meeting of the exchange directors will be held here early next week.

OVERMAN ENTHUSIASTIC

Senator Overman was equally enthusiastic.

The nominee was appointed to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals by President Coolidge five years ago. Thus, he has once been confirmed by the Senate.

Before going on the Federal bench Judge Parker was a practicing lawyer at Charlotte, N. C. He was the Republican candidate for Governor of his State in 1920.

Born in Monroe, N. C., he was educated in the public schools and graduated from the University of North Carolina in 1907. The following year he graduated from the law school of the same institution, and was admitted to the bar.

PARKER PLEASED BUT KEEPS SILENT

CHARLOTTE (N. C.) March 21. (AP)—Judge John J. Parker, when apprised at his office of his appointment by President Hoover to the United States Supreme Court, said:

"Naturally, I am pleased, but there is no statement for me to make. I have merely been appointed by the President, and the matter is now up to the Senate."

Two Burned to Death in Crash

SUGAR CITY (Colo.) March 21. (AP)—Two men were burned to death near here today when their airplane crashed in landing and caught fire.

The plane was piloted by H. Ray Sindeisen, 35 years of age, and carried Harry Abel, 45. Both were burned to death before assistance could reach them.

Findeisen was president of the Southern Colorado Air Transport Company. Abel was a Pueblo (Colo.) investment broker.

Disbarment for Attorneys Voted

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (Exclusive)—Recommendations for disbarment of four attorneys and a three-month suspension of another were voted today by the board of governors of the State Bar.

Homer C. Mills and Charles Lantz, Los Angeles; S. W. Green, Sacramento, and Joseph P. Lacey, Oakland, are those scheduled for disbarment.

Mills is charged with embezzlement of a client's funds; Lantz with fraudulently obtaining money and with acts of moral turpitude.

NEW DRY BILLS MEET SUPPORT

Christopherson's Committee in Favorable Action

One Would Solve Present Padlocking Problem

Other Aimed at Stimulating Enforcement With Fees

BY LAURENCE M. BENEDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 21. (Exclusive)—Two more bills designed to strengthen prohibition enforcement—the last of the series proposed by the President's Law Enforcement Commission—received favorable action today at the hands of the Christopherson subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee and now await early consideration by the full committee.

One of the measures will facilitate the padlocking of night clubs and other places violating the dry laws and the other is intended to bolster enforcement in New York and other States which have no local antiliquor statutes.

The Judiciary Committee as a whole probably will consider the bills next Thursday provided the dry advocates in the prohibition hearings have finished presenting their case at that time. The drys have already used up the seven days originally allotted them, but have been given permission by Chairman Graham of Pennsylvania to continue for another day or two next week. They will resume Wednesday and if they can conclude that day the committee will be free Thursday to take up the latest proposals of the Christopherson group. The wet forces will be given one or two days for rebuttal, but not until later, perhaps several weeks later. Chairman Graham is accused of being in on a wet "plot" to have a considerable lapse take place for the noise of the hearings to die down and the public reaction to be gauged before the hearings are ended in a blaze of fresh antiprohibition testimony.

MEASURE EXPLAINED

Subchairman Christopherson explained that the bills approved by his group today supplement measures previously reported amending the Jones "five and ten" law so as to define "casual or trivial" offenses against the Volstead Act, and empowering United States commissioners to try the cases that fall into the misdemeanor class.

The proposed amendment to the padlock statutes will permit prohibition authorities to serve notice by newspaper advertisement of their intention to close a place, instead of making personal service of court summons as is now required. Enforcement officials have found that many of their attempts to padlock have been circumvented by a sudden change in ownership of the property. Atty.-Gen. Mitchell and the Law Enforcement Commission have agreed that padlocking of night clubs, hotels, speakeasies and other business places engaged in violating the prohibition laws will be considerably simplified by the service of summons through the publication method.

SEEN AS GREAT AID

The second bill deputizes State, county and municipal law enforcement officers to make arrests for the transportation of liquor and collect Federal marshal's fees for each catch. Representative Christopherson declared he believes this plan will be a tremendous aid to Federal enforcement everywhere in the country, especially in "up-State" New York and dry sections of other States whose population centers are wet. He said, also, it will place a check on the flow of liquor across the Mexican and Canadian borders.

County officers, Christopherson declared, would be more anxious to enforce the law if they had specific authority, knew they were to be paid for their efforts and could seize automobiles carrying liquor as a provision in the proposed bill would permit them to do.

BATTLE EXPECTED

This second bill is a rather frank part and parcel of the much despised "fee theory" of enforcing laws and because of that fact will face stiff opposition when it comes up for actual passage, which probably will not be this session. Most States which have tried the fee system have repudiated it and there is the strongest sort of sentiment against its adoption in any form by the Federal government.

Although the Law Enforcement Commission's entire program with modification has now passed muster with the Christopherson subcommittee, it is generally believed only one of the proposed new laws—that transferring prohibition enforcement from the Treasury to Justice Department—will finally pass Congress this session. This has already passed the House and is to be put through the Senate as soon as the tariff is out of the way. The other measures are due to await more mature Congressional thought and possible floor action at the session starting next December.

Bomb Explodes in Dark Theater

ATLANTA, March 21. (AP)—A dynamite bomb thrown through a ventilator window exploded in the Rialto Theater today causing damage which the manager estimated at $500. The motion-picture house was unoccupied at the time and no one was injured.

It was the second film-theater bombing within four months. Police said they had learned that the theater had been employing non-union operators since last Monday.

MacDonald Shows Patience in Hope of Pact

LONDON, March 21. (AP)—As the five-power naval conference passed its sixtieth day, both the French and Italian delegations, although still deadlocked over parity, authorized statements showing that neither is ready to quit the fight.

Conference forces are scattered for rest at St. James' Palace and reports of changes in the situation over the week-end are slight. Premier MacDonald and Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain waits at Chequers, ever hopeful that either the Italians or the French will present new proposals which will hurry Premier Briand of France back to London tomorrow night for the conference with Mr. MacDonald Sunday.

MacDONALD PATIENT

With a five-power treaty at stake, Mr. MacDonald is displaying great patience to enable France and Italy to reach some basis of agreement. Among his callers today at No. 10 Downing street was Walter Jethro, the Australian billiards champion.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Claudel, in charge of the French delegation, held a two-hour conference with Signor Grandi this afternoon, giving proof to the assertion that the French and Italians still are negotiating. In reply to questions as to the possibility of Italy's signing a four-power pact, if France should withdraw, the Italian spokesmen have steadily remained silent. It is known that Signor Grandi feels such an element of powers might cause even more irritation than the unofficial negotiations pursued so far by France and Italy.

BERGDOLL KEEPS ON WING

German Villagers Say Draft Dodger and Wife Travel, Leaving Children Closely Guarded

WEINSBERG (Germany) March 21. (AP)—If the villagers of this little place are right in their surmises, Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American Draft dodger, is married and the father of two children.

Fugitive from America and once hounded by kidnapers from his own country, Bergdoll came to Weinsberg about four years ago in search of a cure for shattered nerves.

There is no record here to indicate it, but the tight-lipped villagers believe that shortly after arrival Bergdoll married Bertha youngest daughter of Emanuel Frank, head gardener at the sanatorium. The natives understand the ceremony was performed in Switzerland.

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll

LIVE IN SECLUSION

At any rate, two children considered as bearing the name of Bergdoll now live in virtual seclusion with Bertha's parents.

The children are guarded with such secrecy that villagers do not know whether they are boys or girls. Bergdoll and his supposed wife travel constantly. Occasionally they visit the Frank home.

The old gardener never mentions the children when he goes to the village to shop. He responds in no way to the attentions of strangers. His tall, erect bearing unmistakably marks him as a pre-war German officer of the reserve. His attire consists of an old hunting jacket, high leather boots, riding breeches, old soft hat and heavy walking stick.

WIFE KEEPS WATCH

His wife never leaves the house and exercises constant vigilance over the children. The only outsider the old couple receives, it is said, is Mrs. Emma Bergdoll, Grover Bergdoll's mother, who has been here several times. It is she, the villagers hear, who supports her son and his family.

Bergdoll apparently has convinced village authorities there is danger of kidnapers seizing him or his children, for the constable, the village burgomaster and his assistants decline to divulge information concerning his whereabouts. Six years or so ago an attempt was reported to have been made to kidnap Bergdoll and return him to America.

The former Philadelphian, whose property valued at $1,500,000 was confiscated by the American government in 1927, is shunned by most of his German relatives, who disapproved of the notoriety growing out of charges against Bergdoll in 1926 that he abducted a Heidelberg girl. After his acquittal, Bergdoll blamed American persecution for his conflict with the law.

Villagers also hear that Bertha Frank's oldest sister, formerly a postal clerk at Weinsberg, recently went to Philadelphia to act as companion to Mrs. Emma Bergdoll.

CITY PAYS BEAUTIES' WAY HOME

Miami Pageant Insolvent So Commissioners Dip Into Publicity Fund

MIAMI (Fla.) March 21. (AP)—More than forty American girls who participated in the recent Miami beauty pageant are on their way home today—thanks to a special meeting of the City Commissioners which produced their railroad fares.

The commissioners, told that the pageant association had an indebtedness of $24,734, appropriated $4680 from the city's publicity fund to help the girls leave.

Some of the forty or more girls had prize money due them and others had been unable to collect traveling expenses from the pageant association.

Among bills unpaid, the Council was told, was one for $6910.88 for railroad transportation.

[Copyright, 1930, Chicago Tribune.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 21. (Exclusive)—The final result of the Federal capital election of fourteen national Deputies is an overwhelming victory for the Independent Socialist party, which obtained all ten majority seats, while three Radicals and one Socialist obtained the four minority seats.

The Independent Socialists polled 109,292 votes, the Socialists, 38,076, and Radicals, 32,713, which means that the Yrigoyenists, who in 1928 beat both of the Socialist parties combined, today polled only 32,713 against a united opposition of 192,368. This result is generally interpreted as the Federal capital's complete repudiation of the policy pursued by President Yrigoyen since he entered office.

RAIDERS GET 1600 STILLS IN JANUARY

Prohibition Chief's Report Shows Capture of Plants Running High in Capacity

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Federal prohibition agents during January captured a total of 1600 stills ranging in size from a tea kettle and copper pipe affair to plants capable of turning out 2000 gallons of alcohol a day.

Commissioner of Prohibition Doran in announcing this today said of the total, 730 plants were producing alcohol from corn sugar.

These plants, located principally in Chicago, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and in New England, he added, cost from $10,000 to $50,000 apiece and produced from 1000 to 2000 gallons of alcohol a day, using as much as two carloads of corn sugar in a twenty-four-hour run.

After listening to Landers, the committee voted to ask all members of Congress to file reports on battlefield memorials in which they are interested. When received the committee plans to draft an omnibus bill.

DOHENY JURORS GET CASE TODAY

Fate of Oil Man Soon Will Rest With Panel

Two Days of Arguments by Counsel Ended

Contrasting Views Given of Asserted Bribery

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—The charge that Edward L. Doheny bribed a Cabinet officer to obtain oil leases will be given into the hands of nine men and three women early tomorrow.

Two days of arguments by counsel ended tonight. Justice Hitz of the District of Columbia Supreme Court deferred until tomorrow the delivery of his instructions to the jury.

During the last two days the multimillionaire has sat in court and heard himself alternately condemned as a man who paid $100,000 to Albert B. Fall to influence him to award Doheny's company a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, and praised as a blameless man who loaned the money to an old friend in need.

IMPASSIONED PLEA

The arguments ended later in an impassioned plea by Frank J. Hogan, of defense counsel, that his client be acquitted, and a calm recital by Owen J. Roberts, special government prosecutor, of the evidence that had been presented as he saw it.

Roberts told the jury the evidence in the case "makes out beyond doubt" that Doheny had given Fall the money with intent that the Secretary of the Interior should be influenced by it to award his company leases.

"Nobody can deny and nobody has denied that Mr. Doheny's company was after those leases," he said, "and nobody can deny there was an advance of $100,000 to Fall."

Hogan devoted three hours to explaining his contention that testimony showed the Navy had ordered the Interior Department to negotiate the Pearl Harbor contract for naval oil storage, as well as the lease which the government charges Doheny got through bribery.

LEASE PREFERENCE

The Pearl Harbor contract contained a preferential clause that gave Doheny's Pan-American company the preference to any lease in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve that the government decided to make.

Hogan told the jury the award was made after naval officials and subordinates of the Interior Department had reported that it was the best of four bids submitted on the project. Fall, he said, was "2000 miles away" when this decision was reached. Subordinates telegraphed him, the counsel said, for permission to execute the contract, to which he replied to do so if Secretary Denby of the Navy wished it awarded to the Pan-American.

"Not a word was received from Fall," he exclaimed, "except to say, 'put it up to Denby.'"

CHICAGO'S HOUSEBOAT DWELLERS WIN FIGHT

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—Life aboard the houseboats tied up in the north branch of the Chicago River was more cheerful today—not because of the chilly arrival of spring, but because of a permanent injunction granted by Superior Judge Gentzel enjoining the city from forcing the houseboats off the river. Judge Gentzel's restraining order culminated a twenty-year fight.

GANNA REAPS WRIT HARVEST

Litigation Stacking Up on Binder King's Wife

Press Agent Now Demanding $187,500 Damages

Perfume Makers Attach Bank Account for Claim

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—More litigation piled up today against Ganna Walska McCormick, brought this time by a press agent, and another litigant went down to the Bankers' Trust Company and clapped an attachment for $20,000 plus 6 per cent interest on her account there.

George Djamgaroff, the press agent, in a suit filed in Supreme Court charging breach of contract, demands $87,500 as his 50-50 share on opera, talking picture and other theatrical engagements which he said he obtained for the Chicago harvester king's wife.

AND ANOTHER THING

In a second cause of action Djamgaroff asked $100,000 as his remuneration for publicity work for which he said Mrs. McCormick employed him from September, 1928, to March of this year.

A write of attachment for $1453 and interest in a third suit brought by the Musical Courier was served a week ago on the New York trust company. The money is asserted to be due the publication for advertising.

The $20,000 writ of attachment was served today in connection with a suit for $50,000 damages for asserted breach of contract filed against her by Emile D. Gutcheon, vice-president of Ganna Walska Perfumes, Inc.

HOME IN PARIS

In seeking the writ Gutcheon pointed out that Mrs. McCormick is a resident of Paris.

In his suit he charged that after he had signed contracts with various department stores over the country for perfumes, subject to a personal appearance by her in the stores for advertising purposes, Mrs. McCormick refused to make the appearances. As a result, he said, contracts totaling $25,000 were canceled by stores in St. Louis, Los Angeles, Dayton, Omaha, San Francisco and Atlanta. He said she also failed to invest $335,000 in the company as she had promised.

Russia and Religion

PRAYERS to God to stop antireligious sets in Russia are ridiculous. A modern mind can not tolerate the idea that God must be wrestled with in prayer in order to move Him to do some just and decent thing which ought to be done anyway. The chief result of such prayers may well be to incite international resentment and further endanger the world's peace.

We want to be just. There is another side to the story of Russia's persecution of Religion. You are invited to hear it told by E. Burdette Backus, Sunday at 10:50 A. M. at the First Unitarian Church, West 8th Street just east of Vermont.

SENATE URGED TO AID JOBLESS

New York Situation Called Worst Since 1914

Legislation by Congress Asked as Relief

Families Live on Barges, Committee Told

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Unemployment conditions held "comparable only with those of 1914" were linked with pleas for action on legislation now pending in Congress in testimony today before a Senate investigating committee.

Miss Frances Perkins, a veteran of labor inquiry, now industrial commissioner for the State of New York, and Dr. John P. Andrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, who said he had followed legislation proposals for more than ten years, were the witnesses.

Miss Perkins said appeals for charity from families of workmen who would be expected to have employment but have not had "increased 200 per cent in the past six months" in her State. This, she said, was "striking and shocking" evidence of conditions throughout the State and in "other industrial centers."

Dr. Andrews said families living on barges for lack of other shelter indicated that conditions are "the most serious in years."

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, author of the legislation which the witnesses united in indorsing, said after they testified that if his measures are enacted "we'll never hear of seasonal unemployment again."

Senator Johnson, Republican, California, chairman of the committee, commented that "every time there has been an unemployment crisis, the same suggestion has been repeated—that public building be set in motion to remedy the situation—but there has been no real enactment."

The committee continued its inquiry until next week.

PROTESTS TURNED DOWN

Protests against the ordinance of intention for the McKinley-avenue and Eighty-seventh-street Sewer District were denied by the City Council yesterday, leaving the way open for the adoption of the final ordinance.

MODEL OHIO VILLAGE NOW FINDS USE FOR JAILHOUSE

FREEPORT (O.) March 21. (AP)—Freeport, the Ohio village which had often been cited as a model law observing community, has had its first arrests since the World War.

Two men, accused of running sixty gallons of liquor through the village, were apprehended and today are held in the jail which the village council has been attempting to dispose of in recent months.

Mayor Jenkins first brought Freeport's reputation into national prominence when he sent members of the council home to get their "Sunday clothes." The Mayor insisted that the village "dads" appear in their best when transacting public business.

Owing to the fact that the village had been without crime for more than twelve years, the village council overlooked the fact that no ordinance covering liquor violations had been passed. Now they are confronted with the problem of how to prosecute the asserted liquor runners.

Under the Ohio law only municipalities that have ordinances are permitted to participate in fines assessed for liquor violations.

Bacon Cipher Manuscript to Go to Museum

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—The will of William M. Voynich, who in 1912 discovered the famous "Cipher Manuscript" of Roger Bacon, it was disclosed today, provides that it never be sold to a private collector at any price, but that any public institution may buy it for $100,000.

Mr. Voynich, a noted bibliographer and medievalist, who died Wednesday, discovered the manuscript in an Italian castle.

Bacon, a thirteenth century English monk, entered his theories on science in cipher because of the superstition of that age. The manuscript now rests in a safety deposit vault in New York.

CANCER-INQUIRY EXPERTS NAMED

Coffee-Humber Experiment to be Investigated

Eastern Men Will Hasten to San Francisco

Commission Comprised of Notable Physicians

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Several distinguished American medical men were named today on a commission to go quickly to San Francisco to investigate the Coffee-Humber cancer experiment.

Included are: United States Surgeon-General Cummings, Dr. Charles Mayo, Dr. Morris Fischbein, secretary of the American Medical Association; Dr. Francis Carter Wood of Columbia University; Dr. Clarence Cook Little, Dr. James Ewing of Cornell, Dr. Gideon Wells of the University of Chicago, and Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Johns Hopkins. The commission has a number of leading cancer experts.

The invitation was telegraphed from a train at Liberal, Kan., by Drs. Coffee and Humber who are returning to San Francisco after testifying before a Senate committee about their cancer treatment.

EXPENSES TO BE PAID

The urge for speed was issued by Dr. Bloodgood who said that yesterday alone he was personally asked by sixty cancer sufferers whether they should go to San Francisco and ask the westerners to experiment upon them. These requests came to Bloodgood from as far as Guatemala.

The telegram named Dr. Bloodgood to select the members of the commission. It was addressed to General Manager William W. Buffum of the chemical foundation, to whom Dr. Bloodgood assigned charge of arrangements. The foundation has offered to pay expenses. Dr. Buffum said those invited will be consulted about setting the earliest possible date.

In a statement Dr. Bloodgood said:

BLOODGOOD STATEMENT

"An extract from the adrenal gland is being experimentally employed by Drs. Coffee and Humber in the treatment of hopeless cancer. The adrenal gland lies above the kidney and is one of the glands of internal secretion.

"The claim that it relieves pain is no evidence of the curative value because many other sera, extracts and other forms of treatment have temporarily relieved pain but never accomplished a cure.

"The claim that this adrenal extract produces central necrosis (breaking down of cells) in the cancer is also not an evidence of its curative value; because this necrosis takes place spontaneously in all cancer and has been observed to take place after many forms of treatment.

"At the present time cancer students throughout the world agree that there are but two forms of treatment that have ever accomplished permanent cures: complete removal of the cancer tumor by operation or irradiation by X-ray and radium, with or without operation . . ."

INCOME TAX COLLECTING SHOWS GAIN

Total Nearly $5,000,000 Ahead of Receipts for Same Period Last Year

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Latest reports on income tax collections from the 15th inst., place Treasury receipts from that source by the 19th, at $384,853,426.20, a sum nearly $5,000,000 ahead of receipts for the same period a year ago.

The expected slump in receipts after the 18th was shown as the total for the day as only $70,652,867, contrasting with more than $108,000,000 a year ago, but it was not sufficient to offset the tremendous total received on the 18th as a result of overtime work last Sunday at the collection bureaus all over the country.

Nothing in the latest figures, however, was interpreted today as changing the expectation that the total collections for the month will approximate the $550,000,000 budget estimate.

Treasury officials, while believing that the estimate is close to what receipts will be, await still further reports before committing themselves too definitely.

Bill Provides Flour for China

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—The Federal Farm Board revolving fund would be drawn on to purchase $75,000,000 worth of flour for shipment to destitute regions of China for distribution to the starving population under a bill introduced by Representative Summers, Republican, Washington.

The bill provides that the Chinese government repay the amount within ten years.

Legislation to appropriate $25,000,000 for the purchase of wheat for distribution in China has been pending in the Senate without action for some time.

WHALEN TO QUIT POLICE JOB MAY 2

New York Commissioner Will Resume $75,000 Post as Store Manager

NEW YORK, March 21. (Exclusive)—New York's debonair police commissioner, Grover A. Whalen, has set May 3 as the day he returns to the marts of trade. Whalen will resign after reviewing his second police parade—which he moved up a month to April 26—and return to his job as $75,000 a year general manager of the John Wanamaker store. His resignation from his $10,000 a year police job takes effect May 2.

This was the information handed out to reporters today by a close friend of the commissioner, who is a high public official. At the same time denial was made that any friction had developed between Mayor Walker and Whalen as some recent reports have had it.

When Whalen accepted Mayor Walker's invitation to succeed the late Joseph A. Warren, he was granted a leave of absence from the Wanamaker store. That leave was for one year starting December 18, 1928, and now has been extended three months, Whalen's private office at Wanamaker's has remained unoccupied since he left.

Maj. William F. Deegan, present New York tenement-house commissioner and reported scheduled to succeed Whalen, conferred with the latter and Walker at length in the Mayor's office tonight, but none would make a statement.

BIBLE SAID TO BE FULL OF ERRORS

Prof. Popper Traces Many Mistakes Made by Early Translators of Text

BERKELEY, March 21. (AP)—Good as it is Prof. William Popper, chairman of the department of Semitic languages at the University of California here, believes the Bible would be a lot better if a better job of editing had been done on it.

It was announced at the university today that Prof. Popper has completed studies of the Hebrew Scriptures which led him to the conclusion that they contain many errors.

"From a study of the defects in the first thirty-five chapters of the Book of Isaiah," Prof. Popper said. "It is apparent that the Bible of today is not exactly the Bible as it was originally written, either in sense or beauty."

Prof. Popper pointed out that the earliest known Hebrew text of Isaiah not only reveals many opportunities for errors by ancient scribes and translators but offers evidence that such errors were made and furnishes clews which enable the scholar to correct the authorized version of the Bible and "thereby clarify its meaning and restore its beauty."

HANCOCK ON BOARD FOR SHIP SCHOOL

Young Names Angeleno Banker as New Nautical Institution Governor

SACRAMENTO, March 21. (AP)—Gov. Young announced today the appointment of G. Allen Hancock, banker and oil operator of Los Angeles, as a member of the board of governors of the California Nautical School authorized by the 1929 Legislature.

Hancock, the Governor stated, is a licensed master mariner, a well-known yachtsman, was sponsor of the trans-Pacific flight of the monoplane Southern Cross two years ago, and is actively associated with business interests in Southern California.

NEWEST PLANET HAS GOLDEN HUE

Not in Neptune Class for Brightness or Size

Telescopes Yet Unable to Discover Disk

Lowell Observatory Reports Progress of Study

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) March 21. (AP)—Tabulation and study which is going forward in connection with the newly discovered trans-Neptunian planet is described in a signed statement issued tonight by Dr. V. M. Slipher, director of Lowell Observatory here.

The new planet was first recorded on photographic plates at Lowell Observatory last January 21, in approximately the position in which the late Dr. Percival Lowell, founder of the observatory, predicted it would be. Dr. Lowell predicted the presence of the trans-Neptunian planet twenty-five years ago, and nine years later had worked out mathematically its position in the universe. Lowell Observatory, for many years previous to the actual discovery, had sought to establish visual contact with the planetary body.

"The earlier searching work," says Dr. Slipher's statement, "laborious and uncertain because of less efficient instrumental means, could be resumed much more effectively early last year with the very efficient new Lawrence-Lowell telescope especially designed for this particular problem.

MOTION MEASURED

"Some weeks ago, on plates he made with this instrument, C. W. Tombaugh, assistant on the Lowell Observatory staff, using the blink comparator, found a very exceptional object, which since has been studied carefully. It has been photographed regularly by Astronomer C. O. Lampland with the forty-two-inch reflector, and also observed visually by Astronomer E. C. Slipher with the large refractor.

"The new object was first recorded on the search plates of January 21, 23 and 29, 1930, and since February 19 it has been followed closely. Besides the numerous plates of it with the new photographic telescope, the object has been recorded on more than a score of plates with the large reflector, by Lampland, who is measuring both series of plates for the position of the object.

"Its rate of motion he has measured at intervals between observations with the results that appear to place the object outside of Neptune's orbit at an indicated distance of about forty to forty-three astronomical units [one unit is the mean radius of earth's orbit.] During a period of more than seven weeks, the object has remained close to the ecliptic; the whole of it has passed from twelve days after opposition point to within about twenty days of its stationary point.

DISK NOT INDICATED

"Its rate of retrogression, March 10 to 11, was about 30 degrees per day. In its apparent path and in its rate of motion it conforms closely to the expected behavior of the Trans-Neptunian body, at about Lowell's predicted distance.

"There has not been an opportunity yet to complete measurements and accurate reductions of positions of the object requisite for use in the computation of the orbit, but it is realized that the orbital elements are much to be desired and this important work is in hand.

"In brightness the object is only about fifteenth magnitude. Examination of it in the large refractory, but without very good seeing conditions, has not revealed certain indication of a planetary disk. Neither in brightness nor in apparent size is the object comparable with Neptune.

APPEARS YELLOWISH

"Preliminary attempts at comparative color tests indicate it does not have the blue color of Neptune and Uranus, but hint rather that its color is yellowish, more like the inner planets. Such indications as we have of the object suggest low albedo and high density.

"Thus far our knowledge of it is based largely upon its observed path and its determined rates of motion. These with its position and distance appear to fit only those of any object beyond Neptune, and one apparently fulfilling Lowell's theoretical findings.

"While it is thus too early to say much about this remarkable object, and much caution and concern are felt because of the necessary interpretations involved in announcing its discovery before its status is fully demonstrated, yet it has appeared a clear duty to science to make its existence known in time to permit other astronomers to observe it while in favorable position, before it falls too low in the evening sky for effective observation."

BRIDE ON HONEYMOON KIDNAPED

El Monte Man Loses New Wife When Companions Steal Car With Woman

HOOD RIVER (Or.) March 21. (AP) Sheriffs and State highway patrolmen were watching today for an automobile carrying Mrs. Neva Carlyle of El Monte, Cal., and two men with whom she disappeared from Hood River two days ago. Donald Carlyle, husband of the woman, reported to police here that the two men, Louis Bowman and "Red" Nelson, drove away in his car as he went into a store to get a check cashed. The Carlyles were on their honeymoon and Bowman and Nelson were accompanying them eastward.

Police here said Nelson went under the name of McHenry. He and Bowman are from Los Angeles.

The party had stopped in Hood River for lunch. Carlyle said he stopped to get a check cashed, and Bowman and Nelson followed him. They turned back, he said, jumped into the automobile and sped away with Mrs. Carlyle.

A report from Portland police said the party left that city without paying a hotel bill.

Mrs. Carlyle is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Paul of El Monte, Cal.

Steel Refunds on Tax Listed

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—A Treasury statement on the much-discussed tax refund of $33,000,000 to the United States Steel Corporation today said that only slightly more than $4,000,000 was actually returned to the company.

Since announcement of the refund it has furnished material for several controversies on the floor of the House with Representative Garner of Texas, the Democratic leader, criticising the Treasury for the settlement and asking a Congressional investigation of tax-refund methods.

The announcement today said credit given on taxes pending from the steel company had made the sum actually refunded only a little more than $4,000,000.

STREET LAWS HEARINGS END

Legislative Committee in San Diego Session

Volume Advanced to Cut Improvement Costs

Powder County Boards to Supervise Plans

SAN DIEGO, March 21. (Exclusive)—Completing a series of hearings which have ranged the length of California, the joint legislative committee on the revision of street-improvement laws today listened to arguments by representatives of San Diego and took under advisement the suggestions made by scores of individuals and organizations. The committee, it is understood, will report to the next Legislature a revision of the various improvement laws designed to continue the program of public improvements, but to avoid a cost which many assert is excessive.

COUNTY COMMISSIONS

Among the suggestions being considered by the committee is the creation of a commission in the larger counties which will consider the utility of improvement petitions, the value of the property involved, and the extent of assessment already levied against it. Assemblyman Woolwine, chairman of the committee, stated that this plan, in operation in Detroit, Mich., is under consideration. The plan, he says, will be called into play to verify the validity of the proposed improvement to the City Council or Board of Supervisors, a body to which the legislative body, in the excess of business, can-not always give sufficient attention.

Assemblyman Lyons of Los Angeles, secretary of the committee, was instructed to draft a bill, including the recommendations of the committee as a whole.

SUITABLE PLAN SOUGHT

Many oral protests against the wording of the improvement laws were voiced during the past few days, such substance being that in the street openings, widenings and curbings are excessive. Chairman Woolwine, at today's session, commented that the purpose of the committee is to arrive at a compromise whereby these improvements can go forward without injustice, and with the elimination of excessive financing charges.

Members of the San Diego Board of Supervisors, realty board, City Council and various improvement associations appeared before the committee today and added their views to the pleas made by similar representatives throughout the state.

Wife Declares She Saw Mate Sober One Time

BAKERSFIELD, March 21.—Declaring that she had never seen her husband drink he was sober many years, when he was released from jail after hitting a Shafter man, Mrs. C. A. Frazier testified in Superior Court today during examination of her husband, charged with failure to provide for his minor child.

Frazier, represented by Attorney Lloyd Taylor, pleaded guilty to the charge and asked for probation. He denied to Judge E. F. Britton that he was drunk, caused heat and denied alcohol, but admitted drinking. He said he had not drunk anything during the last month.

Judge Britton ordered a two-year suspended jail sentence on condition that he pay $30 a month for support of his child. "And if you find that you are drinking again, I'm going to give you the two-year sentence," the court warned.

HAITI POLICY PRAISED BY COMMISSION

Hoover Envoys Return and Report on Results Obtained in Island

WASHINGTON, March 21. (AP)—Expressing appreciation of the "good work" which has been done in Haiti during the last fifteen years by American representatives, President Hoover's Haitian Commission returned and reported to him today that it was ready to prepare a full report on its accomplishments in the islands during its brief visit there.

In a prepared statement the commission, headed by W. Cameron Forbes, said it had been "particularly impressed with the splendid results accomplished under the sincere and efficient direction of Gen. Russell, whose policy had the cooperation of President Berno."

The statement followed a press conference at which President Hoover acknowledged receipt of a preliminary report from the commission on its activities in bringing about the provisional government which is to be inaugurated May 15 with Eugene Roy, Haitian financier, in the Presidential chair.

President Hoover said the provisional President will remain in office until Haitian Congressional elections next fall, when a new President will be constitutionally elected.

After a conference with Joseph P. Cotton, Acting Secretary of State, the commissioners said they immediately will begin work on their report. For this purpose they established headquarters at the State Department.

SPRECKELS RADIO SALES PROFIT HUGE

Statement in New York Hearing Gives "Inside" of Kolster Corporation Deal

NEW YORK, March 21. (Exclusive)—Rudolph Spreckels of San Francisco, chairman of the board of directors of the Kolster Radio Corporation, made a net profit of $12,908,612 in the sale of Federal-Brandes and Kolster stock in 1927, 1928 and 1929, according to a statement filed in Newark today by his attorney, Welbrige Taft.

The statement was submitted at the last of a series of hearings held by John A. Bernhard, Newark attorney, who was appointed special master to investigate charges made by Albert Schwartz, a Paterson attorney, in connection with the receivership proceedings involving the $17,000,000 radio company. Mr. Schwartz had charged that someone had "rigged the market" in the sale of Kolster stock.

It was shown that Mr. Spreckels is the principal creditor in the Kolster company and that he holds at present 57,246 shares of preferred stock and 18,219 shares of common stock, making him the principal holder of common.

RETIREMENT TALK DENIED BY MENJOU

Screen Actor Scoffs at Rumors as Ridiculous on His Way Here

CHICAGO, March 21. (Exclusive) Classing the rumors of his permanent retirement from the American films as "absurd, untruthful and ridiculous," Adolphe Menjou, the sleek-haired, sophisticated hero and oft-times villain in the cinemas, stepped from the train this morning for a few hours in Chicago before leaving for Hollywood.

"It is absolutely incredible that I would be through with American films when my first talking picture, 'Fashions in Love,' was such a box-office success. I do not understand how those rumors got started," he said.

Menjou, dressed jauntily in derby and long gray spring coat, spats and cane, posed with Kathryn Carver, his wife, while the cameras clicked.

Hartwig is asserted to have purchased the poison which Mrs. Miner placed in her husband's medicine.

SCANDAL BOOK SMEARS DEAD

Ex-Convict Means Writes on "Ohio Gang"

Volume Reeks With Tales of Murder and Graft

Harding's Name Once More Dragged in Mire

WASHINGTON, March 21. (Exclusive)—Amazing charges of murder, graft and corruption linked together in the most sensational scandal history of the Harding administration to appear thus far are being examined by U. S. Atty. Leo A. Rover, it was learned tonight.

On sale at local book stores for the first time today, the book, dictated by Gaston B. Means, former Justice Department agent and ex-convict, purports to tell the inside story of the famous "Ohio gang" and the mysterious deaths of Harding's closest associates, and finally of the President himself.

Mr. Rover, it is explained, will decide tomorrow whether there is ground for grand jury action against Means or some of the persons accused in his book.

Drawn, he says, from the voluminous religiously kept diaries in which he recorded his activities as an "investigator extraordinarily" from 1921 to 1923, Means reveals that he was secretly employed by Mrs. Harding to establish the falsity of rumors of Harding's mesalliance with Nan Britton, who names the late President as the father of her child.

SERVED MRS. HARDING

At other times Mrs. Harding employed him to discover, Means asserts, how and where Harding was losing huge sums in stock speculations and to frustrate the designs of the "gang" which, Means infers, was able to force the President's compliance with their wishes by his fear of exposure of his asserted relations with the Britton woman.

While serving Mrs. Harding secretly, Means asserts in his book, his home was actually the headquarters of the "gang" which gathered there nightly to discuss the progress of their many plots. The place, barred and fortified like an arsenal, Means says, was maintained at "huge expense out of the mysterious millions which flitted through the hands of Means to Jess Smith and thence to Washington Courthouse, O., the home town of Harry M. Daugherty.

Graft money was kept in a hole in his back yard, Means asserts, until Smith found it convenient to take the cash to Washington Courthouse.

In the book Means charges among other things that Smith, known as former Atty.-Gen. Daugherty's "man Friday," did not commit suicide but was killed to seal his lips, that an unnamed girl was struck by a bottle during a riotous party attended by Harding, and the inference is that the girl subsequently died; that E. B. Felder, another of Daugherty's one-time confidants, "died suddenly" just after he announced that he would tell "the whole story;" that John T. King, well-known politician, and C. F. Hately, Justice Department agent, both of whom "knew too much," likewise died suddenly.

CLIMAX OF STORY

The climax of the story is reached in Means's description of the death of President Harding in San Francisco, after Mrs. Harding, pictured in the book as insanely jealous, had learned of the Nan Britton affair and upbraided Harding for it in the presence of Means.

Indicative of the huge sums collected by the "gang" in its heyday, Means asserts he was sent to New York by former Asst. Atty.-Gen. Mabel Willebrandt to search out and obtain evidence against important bootleggers and liquor importers. Once in New York, Means, according to his story, established headquarters in a hotel and at the direction of the "gang" proceeded to sell protection to the bootleggers. Millions of dollars, he asserts, were paid by the bootleggers, who placed the money, Means continues, in a big glass fish bowl which stood in a vacant room of the hotel suite.

RICH COAST MAN MAY BE DEPORTED

California Farmer for Thirty Years Blocked on Return from Italy Visit

NEW YORK, March 21. (Exclusive)—Although he has property valued at $100,000 in California, Alberico Dellarsina, 48 years of age, is held at Ellis Island on the ground that he is likely to become a public charge, it became known today through efforts of his son and daughter to block deportation proceedings.

Held with him is his wife, Amelia, 46, who faces deportation also because she placed all her property in her husband's name before making a recent trip to Italy.

Dellarsina came to America from Italy thirty years ago, established himself as a farmer in Southern California, and now owns a $30,000 home in Del Rio, and a public garage there, according to his son, Amando, 24, and his daughter, Louisa, 22, who have come from Eureka, and taken an apartment in New York to be near their father.

Last may he returned to Italy for a visit under a re-entry permit, and while in Italy became ill. It was this illness, in part physical and in part mental, which caused him to be held up on his return to American February 18, according to his children.

The case has been referred to immigration authorities at Washington. The Italian never became a citizen, it is said, because he could not read and write. The son and daughter were born in this country.

MURDER CHAIN'S WORKINGS TOLD

New York Gangster's Death Finally Solved

Arnold Rothstein's Killing Starts Series

Henchmen Ticked Off List by Gambler's Foes

NEWARK (N. J.) March 21. (AP)—The body of a gangsters' "ride" victim who was shot through the brain and cremated in the vehicle which carried him to death on Newark's outskirts last August has been identified as that of Eugene Moran, New York racketeer and associate of the late Arnold Rothstein, slain gambler.

With their announcement police revealed that Moran's activities as henchman to Rothstein at a salary of $1000 a week was the cause of the death of four other gangsters in a war that had its inception with Moran's attempt upon the life of Eddie Diamond in Denver, November 5, 1923.

NEMESIS STRIKES

Two of the men who took Moran on his last automobile ride were among the casualties, Frank R. Brex, deputy chief of Newark police, said. They were James Batto, New York gambler found slumped over the steering wheel of an automobile in Fifth avenue, New York, last September, and Mortimer Schubert, whose body was found in a parked automobile in Upper Manhattan two months later.

Eddie Diamond escaped unscathed from the attack upon him with machine guns and died later of tuberculosis, from which he was seeking a cure in Denver. Diamond and his brother Jack, had fallon out with Rothstein, Brex said, and Moran was commissioned by the gambler to go to Denver and "take care" of Eddie.

STARTS MURDER CHAIN

Rothstein was killed in a New York hotel the day before Moran sought to accomplish his task. The series of slayings that followed took in Thomas (Fat) Walsh, former Rothstein bodyguard, who was shot by a visitor in a Miama (Fla.) hotel.

In the meantime, Frank Devlin, Moran's chief aide in the Denver machine-gunning, was killed. Moran was the third victim of the series. Then followed Batto, Schubert and Harry Vesey, whose body was found in Hoboken, January 10, last.

EDUCATORS HEAR ECHO OF CRASH

State Board Told About Student Withdrawals Due to Stock Losses

SACRAMENTO, March 21. (Exclusive)—Large numbers of high school and junior college students have been forced to give up their studies because of economic conditions in their homes resulting from the Wall-street crash last year, J. B. Lillard, president of the Sacramento Junior College, declared at the closing session of the State Education Commission.

Many students also drop out of junior college each year, Lillard said, because the institution does not offer courses which will completely fit them to earn a living. Some students return to high school, he added, to take up business courses.

A majority of the students of the Sacramento college, he told the commission, go on to universities. Of the 1927 graduating class, 83 per cent entered institutions of higher education and last year 84 per cent continued their schooling.

The original theory of the junior college, declared Dr. Merton E. Hill, principal of the Chaffey Junior College of Ontario, was that the State should pay for half of their support, but he asserted last year the State's contribution was only 20 per cent of the operating cost.

Samuel Leask of Santa Cruz, a member of the commission, said the State is the only agency which can equalize the cost of education for districts that are wealthy and those not able to bear an excessive tax burden for educational purposes. Furthermore, he said, education primarily is a State function and the State should meet its obligation.

Texas Arrests Hint at Charge of Blackmail

FAIRFIELD (Tex.) March 21. (AP) Two persons from Buffalo, Tex., the home town of Miss Wilma Jones, 23 years of age, who told of an attempt to burn her to death Wednesday night, were arrested tonight and authorities said charges of forgery will be filed against them tomorrow and the possibility of blackmail investigated. Miss Jones was awaiting trial here for forgery when the asserted attempt at burning occurred.

Miss Jones is asserted to have forged G. S. Moore's name to checks with which she paid bills for an operation.

The two arrested tonight, Mrs. Sarah Dodd and her son, Tom, were taken into custody when it was learned they had made statements to several persons in Buffalo that they "participated" in the money from the checks.

INVENTOR CRITICISES RADIO ADVERTISING

CHICAGO, March 21. (Exclusive) As the so-called "father of radio broadcasting," Dr. Lee De Forest, the inventor whose discoveries also evolved the talking picture, last night delivered a stern criticism of direct radio advertising which he condemned as "perverse, pernicious, reflecting on the good name of radio and distinctly retarding its development." He spoke before the Chicago section of the Society of Radio Engineers.

OVERALL OPERA MAKES DEBUT

Machines "Sing" Songs Of Conquest Over Man In Unusual Offering

BERLIN, March 21. (AP)—Grand opera in overalls made its debut at the Civil Operahouse last night, when Max Brand's "Machinist Hopkins" was shown to the press.

The theme of the opera is the machine's conquest of man. It begins and ends in a factory amid whirring wheels, gasping pistons, clanking shafts and a final soprano aria sung by an electric switchboard which personifies the power behind the machinery.

The players are dwarfed by a huge piece of machinery, which not only plays the principal part but to all intents and purposes sings the principal role.

Eastern Banker Dies in Arizona

SCOTTSDALE (Ariz.) March 21. (AP)—V. Everit Macy, 59 years of age, multimillionaire banker and philanthropist of New York City, died in his suite at a fashionable resort hotel here early today.

He had been confined to his bed since the 12th inst. His physicians said bronchial pneumonia was the immediate cause of death.

Mr. Macy was a director of Seaboard Airlines, Inc., the Seaman's Bank, the Title Guaranty and Trust Company, the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Teachers' College in New York. He also was president of the Westchester County Bar Commission in New York State.

"SCARFACE" AL GIVES SELF UP

Gangster Leader Surrenders to Chicago Police

Later Freed With Warning to Leave City

Detective Chief Threatens His Arrest on Sight

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—"Scarface" Al Capone gave himself up today after playing "hide and seek" with the authorities since his release from prison in Philadelphia Monday. The gang chief walked into the office of Chief of Detectives Stege and said, "Here I am, what do you want with me?"

Stege, before making known the police attitude toward the gangster, took him to the United States District Attorney and State's Attorney offices to see whether they wanted Capone held.

Capone later was freed but was warned to get out of town, that he would be arrested every time police found him. Stege said Al promised to leave by Monday. He left the detective bureau, getting in a car with two lawyers and announcing he was going home.

HAND BANDAGED

Stege, calling in his new men to view Capone, said he intended to have Al "pulled in" every time he is seen on the streets. Capone said he wanted to look after his business interests here and get out of the "racket." Explaining a bandaged hand, he said he had burned it pulling a "hot roast out of the oven," and said the poor light in the prison cell at Philadelphia had "ruined" his eyes, causing him to wear glasses.

After visiting the Federal District Attorney and Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson, Capone and his detective bureau guard returned to the bureau to see what were Stege's plans. Dist.-Atty. Johnson was not in, but the District Attorney previously had indicated the government was in no hurry to press its income-tax charges against Capone. Roche, it was said, had no charge pending against Capone.

WANTS TO VISIT FLORIDA

Capone said he wanted to stay in Chicago the rest of this week and intended to go to Miami, Fla., Monday. After about a month in Florida he said he wanted to come back to Chicago and settle down as a business man.

He said he evaded watchers in Philadelphia after his release from prison by being transferred from Eastern penitentiary to another prison the day before his release. He said he and Frank Rio, his bodyguard, drove by automobile to Chicago, arriving two days ago while police were guarding his home and other haunts. This afternoon, accompanied by his attorney, Thomas D. Nash, and Phil D'Andrea, a henchman, he gave himself up after Nash had offered to surrender the gangster if the police would not put him in jail "just to make a showing."

JEWS TO HONOR BALFOUR NAME

Rumanian Babies Born Next Week Will Be Called After Englishman

LONDON, March 21. (AP)—Reports in Jewish quarters from Bucharest today said that all Jewish boys who are born in Rumania next week will be named Balfour and the girls will be named Balfouria.

In this manner will the Jewish community commemorate the name of Lord Balfour, who died this week in England. A week of mourning also has been proclaimed by Rumanian Jews.

IRISH TRACTOR TOTALS MOUNT

Ford Increasing Output to American Market

Export to New York Nearly Doubled in Month

Total Shipments from Cork Show Like Gains

[Copyright, 1930, by the Chicago Tribune.]

DUBLIN (Free State) March 21. (Exclusive)—The fact that Henry Ford is manufacturing tractors for use in America in his Irish factory at Cork was mentioned in the recently published statement of Mr. Ford himself, when he paid a tribute to the work of Irish labor, both in Cork and at Detroit.

It was not until this time realized to what large extent the production for America has developed here.

During January 1363 tractors were dispatched from Cork to New York, and in February the number increased to 2506. Tractor parts weighing 167 tons were sent in January, and 427 tons were sent in February. In February 275 tractors and six tons of tractor parts were sent to St. Johns and New Brunswick. In addition to these exports to the American continent, it is interesting to note the development of trade in other directions, as shown by official export figures for January and February.

Altogether exports from Cork to places abroad in these two months were: For January, 1733 tractors and 2300 tons of tractor parts; in February, 2929 tractors and 1000 tons of parts.

Export under both heads has been steadily increasing and March figures, when they become available, will be still higher. Needless to say these figures refer to Henry Ford's output, as no other factory exists in this country.

Hearing Set for Friday in Santa Ana by Judge

SANTA ANA, March 21.—Suddenly dropping his mask of ignorance concerning the charges against him, Forrest J. Eaton, 36 years of age, Chief of Police of San Clemente, went into Judge George K. Scovel's department of the Superior Court today and pleaded guilty to a charge of grand theft and through his attorneys, L. A. West and B. Z. McKinley, asked for probation. The probation hearing was set for next Friday.

Eaton, arrested Thursday, was accused of appropriating to his own uses $250 of $300 he collected January 17 in Los Angeles from H. T. Tisdale, who was acting for Cedric P. Noble. Noble was arrested by Eaton on three charges, intoxication, violation of the San Clemente traffic ordinance and State Motor Vehicle Act.

According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. S. B. Kaufman, who prepared the complaint, City Judge Fred Warner of San Clemente fined Noble only $100. Eaton, according to Warner, told the judge that Noble was out of town, but that he had been able to collect $50 from Tisdale.

Judge Warner, according to Kaufman, pronounced the receipt which Tisdale received through the mail, as a forgery.

Today in his cell at the County Jail, Eaton was broken in spirit. He insisted that loose bookkeeping methods at San Clemente had been responsible for his arrest.

"In another month the money would all have been put back," he said, mopping his brow. "Some people think I used the money with which to gamble at Agua Caliente, but it was my own money I used there.

"I could say a lot, but there is no use of talking now. I want to return to San Clemente and work, he added. "My home is there and I don't want things any worse than they are now."

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Kaufman said that in view of Eaton's plea of guilty he would not press four other charges which he was prepared to file against the ex-Los Angeles police officer.

Kiwanis Club Plans to Invade Mexican Coast

REDLANDS, March 21.—An excursion into Baja California during April is a plan being worked out for members of the Kiwanis Club by Bruce McDaniel. The tentative plan is to charter two boats and take the crowd leisurely along the coast to Ensenada and explore the many bays and inlets below that point. The trip would be over a period of from Saturday to Sunday night and would be made previous to the Week of Flowers, so as not to interfere with that celebration. The tentative dates are April 18 to 20.

One boat is available and reservations indicate that at least one more must be secured. In case the boats are not available, McDaniel will lead the party overland by automobile. In the latter case they would go probably 100 miles south of Ensenada before halting the southern drive. It had been planned originally to conduct an Easter-morning service at Dante's View, Death Valley, but a number of Kiwanians, having already seen that valley, suggested that McDaniel personally conduct an invasion of Baja California.

MONKEY WALKS ON TIGHT WIRE

Pet Simian Invades Inglewood Business District and Performs Aerial Stunts to Delight of Hundreds as He Progresses for Blocks High Overhead

Inglewood, March 21.—Almost shocking was the "monkey business" which threatened to descend upon the shopping district of Inglewood yesterday. It was nearing high noon, and commercial transactions were going ahead as fast as the commercial transactors could make them go. The sun was rising high in the sky and the bewitching hour known as high noon was just about to be, when, lo, across the beautiful blue there stepped, a weird, fur-coated, long-legged vision, with a tail. Lightly it tripped along, balancing itself sometimes upon the telephone wires, and sometimes on just nothing at all.

Investigations followed, and soon all of Inglewood had learned that Jackie, pet monkey belonging to Clarence Kissam, was stepping out high, wide and handsome. Assiduously avoiding the high-tension wires might have shocked him violently off, or in this case violently down upon, dear Mother Earth, Jackie proved himself a live-wire all on his own, drawing down the plaudits of hundreds of appreciative spectators who suspended business and held their respective breaths to watch his antics in the sky. Seven blocks he traversed, this air-minded resident of Inglewood, then he stopped to rest his tail. For that caudal appendage had been in constant use as a balancing rod, curled around one of the wires and furnishing the only stabilizing factor in the aerial expedition. Tiring eventually of the splendid isolation he had so effectively provided for himself, and noting too that he had strayed far from his admiring public, Jackie finally jumped just like any other monkey would jump, down onto a housetop, thence to a garage-top, and thence to the ground, where he grandly awaited Bernard Kissam, leading the procession of the rabble which invariably trails in the wake of greatness.

When interviewed by reporters Jackie smilingly declared that aviation was wonderful, and that although this was not in honor of his ninetieth birthday, or any birthday at all, just the same he enjoyed it thoroughly and intended to watch his chance for another flight.

AMERICANISM CELEBRATED

Pomona Legionnaires Stage Long Parade, Conclude Day With Program; Schumann-Heink Sings

POMONA, March 21.—With streets appropriately decorated and flag bedecked, Pomona turned its attention to the Americanism celebration staged tonight at the Pomona High School Auditorium and the Pomona Ebell Club, at which Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, noted diva, and other notables in State and national affairs, participated.

The ceremonies were preceded by a parade from the Legion home through the business section to the high school, in which hundreds marched. Veterans of many wars, city officials, Legionnaires, drum and bugle corps, both on foot and in automobiles, were in line.

At noon Mme. Schumann-Heink was met by an escort consisting of Dr. Hewlett Scudder, Jr., commander of the local Legion post; Edmund P. Stone, personal escort to the diva; A. T. Richardson, representing the Chamber of Commerce; John R. Todd and John L. Armour, vice-commander and adjutant, respectively, of the post.

The honored guest was escorted to the Kellogg Arabian Horse Ranch, where a special showing of prize stock had been arranged in her honor, and following this she was escorted to the city by a special police vanguard.

At 6 p.m. a reception was held in the Legion Hall for visiting Legionnaires and their wives, followed by a 6:30 p.m. dinner.

The parade started at 8 p.m., with exercises at the Ebell Clubhouse and high school auditorium at 8:30 p.m.

Patriotic exercises at both places were impressive, Mme. Schumann-Heink responding graciously to numerous encores. Several short talks were given. The motion picture, "Old Glory," was shown, the affair culminating in "A Musical Fiesta of Early California Days, by Walker's Troubadors.

More Aliens in Ventura County Jobs Discharged

VENTURA, March 21.—Thirteen aliens have been removed from the employ of the County Engineer's office, some of whom have been in county service more than ten years, it was learned today from County Engineer Charles Petit.

The move was first ordered by Deputy Labor Commissioner R. Lee Ste. Fleure, under the State law providing for nonemployment of aliens, and the actual laying off came a week ago, before the city of Ventura discharged eleven men from the City Engineer's employ for similar reasons, it was revealed.

Eleven of the workmen were engaged in excavating for the new Courthouse addition at the time of their lay-off, while two others, who had been working for the county for more than ten years, were on a job near Piru at the time of their discharge.

Four of the men have been working for the county for five or six years. Most of the thirteen men are old-time residents of this city and several of them are taxpayers.

LITTLE BOY DRAGGED BY COAT BELT

It Becomes Entangled in Auto Gear and Hauls Baby Behind Car for Blocks

HUNTINGTON Park, March 21.—While little Freddie Smedley, 2½ years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Smedley, was playing at the curbing in front of his home, Ben Cox of Culver City entered his machine which he had parked in front of the Smedley home and drove away. Going two and one-half blocks, he noticed a number of children on the sidewalk screaming and pointing at the car. The machine was brought to a stop and Cox found the baby hanging to the rear of the car. The little boy's belt had caught on a hook as the machine drove away from the front of the child's home. His feet and knees were badly bruised and lacerated as a result of being dragged on the paving while the car was in motion. The wounds were dressed and the baby is getting along nicely, although unable to use his feet at the present time.

Sandwich Stand Owner Slugged

GLENDALE, March 21.—After locking up his sandwich stand at 103 West Broadway last night, L. T. Dunbar accepted the offer of a ride home in a car with two youths who had been in the shop eating a late lunch.

Shortly afterward a telephone message to police headquarters stated that Dunbar had been slugged and thrown out of the car on West Wilson street. Dunbar later told the officers that he had ridden almost to his home at 521 West Wilson street with the two youths when one of them struck him over the head with an automatic pistol and that the pair had then attempted to rob him.

Finding nothing of value in his pockets they bundled him out of the machine and fled. Dunbar had four cuts on his head that were treated at the Emergency Hospital.

FIRE DAMAGES MAY TREBLE

State Law Quoted in Hearing on Sulphur Mountain Blaze Suits Against Edison Company

SANTA PAULA, March 21.—Sulphur Mountain fire-loss claims against the Southern California Edison Company, now totalling nearly $750,000, will be trebled, and more than $2,000,000 will be demanded by the injured parties.

This was learned today following the conclusion of deposition hearings here yesterday in which Mark Edwards, Santa Paula attorney, and Clarke and Bowker, Los Angeles barristers, representing most of the plaintiffs, announced new plans.

Basis for the increased demand is the Penal Code, Section 3346A which provides that "Every person negligently setting fire to his own woods or negligently suffering any fire to extend beyond his own land is liable in treble damage to the party injured."

The Edison company will contend, it was learned at the local session, that since it does not own the right of way which its line traverses, it is not liable under this law.

Amended complaints asking for the additional amount will be filed on the first of next week, it was said, and a continuance of the original case from the 25th inst. will be asked.

The fire, which occurred last fall, lasted three days and destroyed much forest, ranch and oil property in the Sulphur Mountain region.

SAN DIEGO WINS IN LITIGATION

State Supreme Court's Two Decisions Favor City

River Rights and Sanction to Condemn Dam Site Won

Cuyamaca Water Company and Irrigation District Lose

SAN DIEGO, March 21.—In two rulings today the State Supreme Court gives the city of San Diego rights to the San Diego River waters and authority to condemn a site for the proposed El Capitan Dam and Reservoir. Judge M. W. Conkling, City Attorney, declared the decisions add another great victory for the city in its seven years of litigation with the Cuyamaca Water Company and the La Mesa Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Irrigation District.

Both cases several times, were before the Supreme Court and last summer a decision in favor of the city was reached. Rehearing, however, was granted the defendants, the case being reargued and resubmitted. The opinion rendered amplifies the former decision to meet additional points presented at the rehearing, according to Associated Press dispatches from San Francisco.

CITY BRINGS SUIT

The first action was brought by the city to establish the prior and preferential rights of the city to the waters of the river. The Cuyamaca Water Company resisted this action on the ground that it had been for many years an appropriator of large quantities of water along the upper reaches of the San Diego River and its tributaries. This water was sold for domestic irrigation purposes. The Supreme Court decision of today gives to the city utilization of the normal and torrential flow of the river. Judge Conkling says this upholds his decision when he was called as special judge to try the case in San Diego Superior Court in 1926.

The second decision gives to the city authority to condemn a tract of land owned by the Cuyamaca company as a site for the proposed El Capitan Dam.

COMPANY GIVEN RIGHTS

The court gives to the Cuyamaca company the right to cross the reservoir site by means of its established ditches.

Judge Conkling infers that this means that the Cuyamaca company or its successors cannot develop any more river water, but can continue to supply its customers with the amount of water it appropriated in time gone by; in other words, the irrigation district cannot enlarge its capacity of supplying water to the district.

Arrest Leads to Discovery of Stolen Goods

PASADENA, March 21.—Burglaries of large mercantile establishments in this city and Los Angeles are believed to have been cleared up with the arrest today of Fred Smith, 34, in whose room on North Garfield avenue, more than $1000 worth of loot has been recovered, according to the police.

Detective Lieutenants Ben Kaighin and Stanley Decker assert that five suits of clothing and a camel's hair overcoat found in the rooming-house were taken from the local Mullen & Bluett store last October, when entrance was gained by forcing the door during the night.

Coat hangers found in the room are reported to have been stolen from Bullock's in Los Angeles. The recovered articles include also an expensive camera, reported to have been stolen in the burglary of a Wilshire Boulevard home, and costly binoculars obtained in the burglary of the Eastman Kodak store in Los Angeles.

Under-Sheriff Injured When His Car Burns

SANTA ANA, March 21.—Undersheriff Ed French narrowly escaped death last night when the county-owned automobile he was driving suddenly careened off Seventeenth street, six miles west of here, hit a telephone post, turned over and caught fire.

French was pulled from the wreckage before he was seriously burned or injured and was being treated for minor injuries at his home here today.

The undersheriff, who was returning home from Huntington Beach, where he had been serving papers in civil suits, attributed the crash to the sudden breaking of the steering gear and the locking of the wheels.

Sailor Struck by Truck Dies

SAN DIEGO, March 21.—Struck by a marine base truck last night near La Playa, Ora Otis Smith, 24-year-old sailor, died in the Naval Hospital today, Coroner Schuyler C. Kelly announced.

Although only meager details were available today, Coroner Kelly said he learned the truck was driven by a marine private named Norval H. Threlkeld, 22, attached to the marine base.

Police reports say that Smith alighted from an auto on Rosecrans street, and started to run across the street for a street car. He is said to have stepped directly in the path of the oncoming government truck.

The body is in the Bonham Brothers' mortuary pending an inquest.

PLANET X UNKNOWN TO SENIOR

Jack Hatcher, California Institute of Technology Upper Classman and Editor of Student Paper, Thought Mention of New Orb Just "Kidding"

PASADENA, March 21.—Jack Hatcher, California Institute of Technology senior and recently elected editor-in-chief of the student newspaper, did not know that a new major planet had been discovered by Lowell Observatory astronomers, and when reporters apprised him of the discovery he accused them of "kidding."

Meeting Hatcher on the campus this afternoon as he was emerging from a classroom where he had been writing a final examination paper, a newspaper reporter casually mentioned the discovery of "Planet X" in the course of the conversation.

"You mean the discovery of a new star?" the science student asked with a puzzled frown on his face. "I haven't heard of any new planets and I surely would have heard."

Unable to convince the erudite editor of the student publication that a new world had been sighted, the reporter tapped his own forehead and walked away as Hatcher continued to explain that "even if a new star has been found I have been studying so hard for finals that I couldn't be expected to have heard of it."

ALIENS CAUGHT IN NET

SANTA ANA, March 21.—Caught in an asserted attempt to smuggle two Japanese youths into the United States, A. J. Thompson, 25 years of age, San Diego taxi driver, and John Kovalavsky, 42, Russian, of 839 Upland avenue, San Pedro, today were lodged in the County Jail for investigation by the Federal immigration authorities. The Japanese also were held.

They are: T. Rantashina, 19, and S. Naka, 20, of Ensenada, Mex. State Traffic Officers Oscar Kelley and Douglass Chambers captured the taxicab and its cargo of human contraband at the edge of Seal Beach early this afternoon after following it for some miles along the coast boulevard.

JUDGE SAYS HE SHOULD HEAR CASE

Santa Barbara Jurist in Denial of Statements of Disqualification in Suit

SANTA BARBARA, March 21.—Asserting that the action of the county against the Lincoln Drilling Company, to prevent the drilling of the Meyer No. 1 oil well within the boundaries protected by the Montecito zoning ordinance is a proceeding for an abatement of a nuisance, Judge S. E. Crow in Superior Court this morning denied the statements to disqualify him from hearing the case.

Attorneys Leland M. Crawford, E. W. Squire and Maxwell Nichols maintained in their statement that Crow was disqualified from hearing the case because he is the resident judge. They cited a section of the Civil Code that a judge cannot hear an action brought by a public agency involving real property in the county where he lives.

Crow maintained that the section did not apply in this action as this involved an asserted nuisance. The defense attorneys last night indicated they would petition the Judicial Council to hear the arguments in the disqualification proceedings.

This morning arguments on the demurrer in another action involving the same oil well will be heard by Judge William D. Dehy in Extra Session Court. The suit is the one started by J. J. Mitchell and others when the derrick for the well was built on the property of Mrs. Elena Meyer last fall.

Four More in Grip of Strange Malady at Club

VENTURA, March 21.—The mysterious malady which gripped eight Ojai Valley Country Club luncheon guests on Wednesday of last week gripped four more victims at another party on the following day. It was learned today that Mrs. George Mosle and three of her guests at the second noon repast had been taken ill following that occasion.

Louis Messing, club manager, confirmed the report and added that every article of food at the club, "even the pepper and salt" had since been examined by authorities without trace of poison being found.

Mrs. Mosle's party consisted of sixteen guests, seated at two tables. She and three at her table were stricken, whereas everyone else in the dining-room escaped.

In the first party were William Walbridge, prominent Toledo glass maker, his wife, and Miss Sally Libbey, sister of Edward Libbey, founder of the Ojail Club.

W.C.T.U. Asks Candidates for Wet-Dry Views

SANTA PAULA, March 21.—That "the W.C.T.U. believes every officer should be willing to express his loyalty and allow the voters to know his exact position when requested to do so," was the statement made here today in an open letter by the local W.C.T.U.

The letter followed an announcement in the local press that the W.C.T.U. was to ask all candidates their stand on prohibition. Some candidates and Councilmen expressed their views on the matter.

"I am a dry," said Councilman Walter Hersey, "but that is my private affair, and I would consider it an insult to a man's intelligence to ask him, when running for office in a city election, what his views on prohibition are."

Councilman W. L. Ramsey said: "National prohibition has no place in the present city election. I do not want to be elected on any wet or dry or other extraneous issue."

Harry C. Westley, candidate for the Council, said: "There may be some local situations that would justify asking a candidate whether he is wet or dry, but if there is, I am not acquainted with it."

The question came to a climax here today when a special meeting was called by the local W.C.T.U. and which was attended by State President Mrs. Eva Craven Wheeler of Los Angeles. Mrs. Wheeler brought her remarks to a close by saying she had been asked: "Do you think the W.C.T.U. should put up a candidte for the City Council?"

Her reply was, "Not unless the church is back of you. Get the churches to lead or the Brotherhood."

SIX BUS LINES MAY NOT RUN

Failure of Pasadena Lines to Make Profit Shown

Traffic Experts Recommend Elimination of Three

Forcing Pacific Electric to Run Some Called Unfair

PASADENA, March 21.—Elimination of local bus lines to pay a profit is the result in elimination of six of the lines, it was learned today. Manager R. V. Ortbion announced that the report of traffic experts prepared last week recommended elimination of the following lines: P line on Mar Vista avenue; line on North El Molino avenue; line on North Marengo avenue between East Colorado and Washington streets; I line in Rafael Heights; B line from Colorado street and El Molino avenue south on El Molino avenue to Del Mar street, east to South Catalina avenue, south to San Pasqual street and east to Hill avenue; line from North Los Robles avenue and Montana street west to Marengo avenue, south to Del Mar street and east to North Los Robles avenue.

As the result of their study according to Ortbion, the experts have come to the conclusion that it is unfair to force the Pacific Electric Company to maintain parallel lines so close together as at present.

Under the new proposal parallel lines will be spaced a greater distance apart that patrons will not walk two or three blocks to get to one or one and one-half blocks to secure transportation to the business section.

Experts studying the local transportation problem are Paul V. Naughton, assistant engineer, State Railroad Commission, and A. Smith, general traffic manager of the Pacific Electric Company. Eugene D. Melcher, auditor and Manager, and Leonard A. Hess, deputy City Attorney.

CHARGES FALSE, SAYS KELLER

George Von Elm Incensed by "Unjust Criticism"

Officers Back Legitimacy of Team Membership

Records Show New Players Bona Fide Members

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Incensed at what they term "unjust criticism," representative golfers of the Rancho Golf Club, led by George "Jiz" Von Elm, a member of the club for seven years, and former national amateur champion, Paul R. Jones, Harry Atwater and Secretary Leon Keller, are up in arms over open and veiled inferences that the membership of its eighteen-man golf team, favored to win the Southern California interclub team-match championship, is not all that it should be. Rancho has naturally been keenly interested in putting the strongest possible team on the field for its interclub matches," stated Keller in an interview yesterday, "but every man on the team has contested entirely to the rules, is a playing member, and any talk of preventing golfers for the team which is doing Rancho a rank injustice."

Von Elm, who leaves shortly for the East to sail with the United States Walker Cup team for England, said yesterday that as one of Rancho's oldest members he resented the stigma of having the golfers of other clubs openly taunt him as being a member of a team which had the desire to win before competition, George's sentiments were echoed by Atwater and R. K. Batchelder, who banded together at Rancho.

VETERAN MEMBERS

Keller was particularly bitter over the fact that Rancho had been condemned without being given an opportunity of defense. The Rancho secretary, who is a life friend of Von Elm, and has been a member of Rancho for the past six years, was only too glad to open his records for inspection. Keller's list shows that fourteen of the twenty-one members of the Rancho team have been dues-paying

BILL MEHLHORN MIAMI LEADER

Makes Subpar Round of 69 to Take Lead

Horton Smith and Burke Tie for Second Place

"Wild Bill" Three Strokes Ahead at Half Way

BY CHARLES E. WARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) March 21. (AP)—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, Pensacola professional, today turned in a subpar 69 to lead the field at the halfway mark of the $15,000 seventy-two-hole La Gorce open golf tournament.

Mehlhorn posted his 69 beside a 71 turned in over the first eighteen-hole round yesterday for a thirty-six-hole total of 140. His steady playing today won him $200 in prize money—$100 for medalist honors at the end of thirty-six holes and $100 for low score on the second eighteen-hole round.

TWO TIE FOR SECOND

Billy Burke, Westport, N. Y., who was out in front at the end of the first eighteen-hole round, and Horton Smith, Cragston, N. Y., winner of La Gorce top money last year, shared second place at the halfway mark with scores of 143.

The "Wild One" got away to a comparatively bad start, taking a pair of 5s on the par 4 first and second holes, but struck his stride on the short No. 3 to take a birdie 2. Mehlhorn proceeded to chalk up birdies on holes No. 4, 5 and 6. He made seven and eight in par and took one over par on the 400-yard ninth for a 34 on the outward trip.

Coming in, "Wild Bill" shot par golf on the first seven holes, dropped a birdie 4 on the par 5 seventeenth and finished with a par 4 on the eighteenth for a 35.

Burke was 3 over par on the first nine, taking a 38, and 1 over par on the back tour with a 37 for a total of 75. His score, with the 68 which won for him $100 low-score money

RABBIT PUNCHES

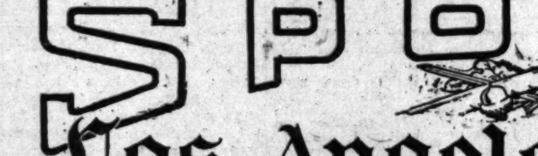
WORLD'S TRACK RECORDS

WORLD'S track-and-field records are often a bone of contention because of the system which governs their official acceptance as such.

The subject bobs up at this time because Mr. J. Neely of Hollywood reports that knives were drawn the other night in a dispute over the discus.

At the current writing there are two discus records, and this undoubtedly led to all the argument in which Mr. Neely found himself involved. One is the official world's record credited to Bud Houser and made at Palo Alto in 1926. The other is the pending world's record made by Eric Krenz at Palo Alto last spring, but which does not become the official world's record until approved by the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which meets approximately every two years.

Krenz's mark of 163ft. 8¾in. surpasses Houser's 158ft. 1¾in.,



and has been approved by the A.A.U. of the United States, but until the I.A.A.F. holds a meeting and likewise approves it Houser's mark is still the official world's record.

The same situation applies to Lee Barnes's 14ft. 1½in. in the pole-vault, George Simpson's 9 2-5s. in the 100, Bud Spencer's 47s. in the 400 meters, Hamm's 25ft. 11¼in. in the broad jump.

These marks are accepted as world's records in the United States because they have been approved by the A.A.U., but they aren't down in the record books as official world's records. They are "pending world's records" to be acted upon by the I.A.A.F., which last met in 1928, and meets in Switzerland next month.

VICTORIAN THE CLASS

THE boys seem to be doing their best to talk up other entries in the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap—successor to the Coffroth—tomorrow, but they can't talk down Victorian.

No horse has ever gone to the post in previous Coffroths with such public confidence in its ability as Victorian.

And rightly so. Victorian numbers a Withers Stake and a Maryland Preakness among his victories.

If he wins tomorrow he will become the third ranking American horse in point of money winnings, surpassing even the great Man o' War.

Zev and Display only will outrank Victorian.

In four years of racing Victorian earned $153,475, while Zev is credited with $313,639, Display $256,376, Exterminator $252,596 and Man o' War, $249,465.

This big year for Victorian was 1928. He won six outstanding events that season—the Brookdale Handicap, the Champlain Handicap, the Manhattan Handicap, the Preakness, the Shevlin stakes, the Withers stakes.

The Preakness paid $52,325 and the Withers $22,300.

Workman rode Victorian in both of those big races.

Another boy will have the mount on Victorian in Mexico tomorrow. That may make a difference—and again it may not.

SPRING TOBASCO

TWO more games between our Angels and Will Wrigley's Chicago Cubs at the ball orchard this week end.

And next week a four-game series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Cubs.

The bugs who miss these spring training games are passing up some hot battles and neglecting a chance to become familiar with the athletes whose eastern exploits they will be reading about a few weeks hence.

Roly-poly Hack Wilseon, Rogers Hornsby, Kiki Cuyler and others of the Cub constellation alone are worth the price of admission, not to mention such feats as that of brother Cascarella taming the Chicago murderers' row the other day.

LEAVE WELL ENOUGH ALONE

THE football rules committee has acted with smartness aforethought in deciding to leave the rules alone for 1930, clarifying only those points which have created disputes in the past.

That means keeping the point after touchdown, despite the fact such a change might be welcomed by all loyal Trojan rooters and eliminating Pop Warner's proposal of a point per down.

The fumble rule stands, and so does the run-back of the intercepted pass although a drive was made to change the latter after Jack Elder won the Army game for Notre Dame by returning one 98 yards for the only touchdown of the struggle.

SEVENTEEN IN CALIENTE RACE

Six Expected to Drop Out of Richest Stake

Vanity Almost Certain Not to Start Tomorrow

Brilliant Field Remains in Annual Classic

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) March 21.—Seventeen horses, survivors of the original field of eighty nominations, are expected to go to the post in the inaugural of the Agua Caliente Handicap, world's richest stake event for the thoroughbred here Sunday.

At least that was the indication this afternoon after late trials, and the race of Thursday indicated that six of the field still eligible and on the ground were not up to a race of the caliber required for the $100,000 added event.

Those considered out are Doctor Wilson, Gold Rush, Satin Spar, Sequoia Park and Vanity. The latter has failed to recover from her bruised hoof, but is fast enough to be considered a starter.

The probable starting-field now includes:

Horse, weight, jockey and owner:

Brown Wisdom, 119 (Allen); Reichert Brothers.

Simony, good sprinter from the stable of Mrs. C. C. Emmert, walked off with the featured number this afternoon. A five and one-half furlong sprint for platers. Simony won by a nose over Shasta Fear with Bride o' the Wind another nose away in a thrilling finish. Results:

Seek Control of Davis Cup Tennis Tilts

PARIS, March 21. (AP)—The International Lawn Tennis Federation, at its annual assembly today, passed a resolution asking that control of the Davis Cup matches be transferred to it from the present Davis committee.

The federation admitted Brazil to membership.

The French members were most outspoken in opposition to the American proposal, which would permit open tournaments along the same lines as those conducted in golf.

The vote was taken after a lengthy debate. The official statement of action specified it was decided "amateurs cannot meet professionals either for prize or any other motive."

KING LOSES TO PAYNE IN RING

Cecil Has Blond Tiger on Floor Four Times

BY PAUL LOWRY

Nothing but Ritchie King's cast-iron constitution and bulldog courage saved him from a knockout that impended for ten rounds at the Hollywood Legion Stadium last night.

It was a sizzling main event — one of the best in weeks — and it saw King floored four times by the Kentucky windmill, Cecil Payne.

But the ex-sailor survived each trip to the canvas and was still upright when Referee Benny Whitman hoisted Payne's hand.

For a few minutes it looked as if the cash customers would go home early. A long, looping right caught King on the tip of the jaw in the second, and the blond sat down for a four count.

Ip the third curtain for keeps was on the way when King was smothered under a series of lefts and rights to the head.

It took him seven seconds to recover from the effects of this barrage, but he came out of it successfully and was only floored momentarily from a left to the jaw in the fourth round.

PACKED TO GUARDS

Thereafter he held his feet until the tenth, when he took the three count from a left to the stomach.

The house was packed to see King in his first major engagement against the boy who beat Goldie

Pomona Goes to San Diego to Tackle Aztecs

U.C.L.A. Faces Engineers on Pasadena Oval

BY BRAVEN DYER

Dean Cromwell's Trojan varsity, labeled the best potential track team Southern California ever had, goes into action this afternoon at Patterson Field in a "warm-up" meet with the Los Angeles Athletic Club squad. Athletes representing Occidental College will also take part, although points scored by the Tigers will not be figured in the final total, as Joe Pipal is looking ahead to the all-important meet with Pomona next Saturday and, therefore, does not plan to strain any of his boys unduly this afternoon.

Three other meets are on the local schedule. The most important of the trio features Pomona against San Diego on the border oval. This struggle may not be decided until the relay, although Pomona's strength in the broad jump, high jump, pole vault and hurdles should bring the Sagehens enough to win with what they will pick up in other events.

CUBS TAKE ON ANGELS TODAY

Five-Run Rally Puts Skids Under Beaver Hopes

BY BOB RAY

Too much good pitching on the part of Hal Carlson and Sheriff Fred Blake, two of Joe McCarthy's veteran deceivers, made it rough going for Larry Woodall's Portlanders yesterday at Wrigley Field and the Chicago Cubs evened up their series with the Beavers by drubbing the Oregonians, 9 to 0.

Carlson and Blake both had plenty of zip on the ball and the best the Ducks could get was five hits. They had one chance to score in the eighth when Cronin singled and Woodall doubled, but Blake fanned Bloomer and Chatham and retired French on a pop fly to end the round in a hurry.

Carroll Yerkes, a young southpaw who was with the Athletics last year, and Joe Bloomer, a submarine hurler bought by the Ducks from the Eastern League, officiated on the mound for Portland. Yerkes was nicked for seven of the nine runs, which ought to make it apparent that Bloomer yielded the other two.

CHOCOLATE STOPS RIVAL

Cuban Negro Finishes Ridgeway in Second Round of Scrap at Madison Square Garden

NEW YORK, March 22. (AP)—Kid Chocolate, a sensational Cuban negro featherweight, stopped Al Ridgeway of New Jersey, in the second round of their ten-round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The flashy "Keed" from Havana made short work of Ridgeway. Early in the first round he floored the New Jersey boxer for a count of nine with one solid punch to the chin, and Ridgeway was taking a bad beating when the bell rang.

The bell had scarcely sounded for the second round when Chocolate feinted his rival into position and dropped him for another nine count with a right to the chin and then floored him for nine more with a right to the body. A left to the chin floored Ridgeway again, and the referee stepped in and halted hostilities.

Chocolate weighed 126 3-4, Ridgeway 128.

Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia belted his way to a fifteen-round decision over Black Bill of Cuba to win New York State recognition as flyweight champion of the world. Wolgast weighed 110; Bill 109½.

Joe Scalfaro, New York bantamweight, won an unpopular ten-round decision over Domenico Bernasconi, Italian champ, who was making his first appearance in America. Persistent belting at close quarters to the body seemed to give the Italian a slight edge over Scalfaro, a heavy right-hand head puncher. There were no knockdowns. Scalfaro weighed 122½; Bernasconi, 119.

SHEIKS OPEN TWO-GAME SEATTLE SERIES TODAY

SAN DIEGO, March 21.—Already having taken two on the chin from the Indians, the Hollywood Stars will open their second week-end series of exhibition games with the Seattle club here tomorrow.

Manager Oscar Vitt put his squad through a three-hour workout this afternoon and will send his first-string line-up against the Indians. Jim Turner, the youngster who twirled so well against the Chicago Cubs Monday, and "Lefty" Johns are his pitching choices.

A good part of the workout today was spent in skull practice. Vitt put particular stress on the work of the pitchers in picking men off bases and holding runners on first. Batting and fielding also came in for attention.

The Sheik batting order for tomorrow: Lee, ss; Gazella, 3b; Carlyle, cf; Rumler, rf; Heath, 1b; McNeely, lf; Brannon, 2b; Bassler and Severeid, c; Turner and Johns, p.

L. A. High Romans Surprise Poly Track and Field Outfit With 63-41 Cinder Triumph

PIONEER TEAM THUMPS RIVALS

Reserve Strength Wins Meet for Blue and White

Cooper Fails to Place in Century Dash

Gentry Noses Out Curtis in Fast Mile Run

BY IRVING ECKHOFF

Unable to cope with the L. A. High second and third-place strength, the Poly Mechanics failed to upset their old rivals yesterday afternoon in their annual big meet with the Romans on Houth Field. The final score found the Mechanics running in second place with the short end of a 63-41 count.

There were two major upsets and several minor ones with the Romans doing the upsetting and Poly taking it on the nose.

FIRST UPSET

The first calamity came in the 100-yard dash when La Verne Cooper, Mechanic sprinter, failed to place, giving L.A. a clean sweep.

The runners had jumped the gun six times before the race finally got under way, so Cooper can have an alibi if he wants one. However, there was no gun-jumping in the furlong and the best the diminutive Mechanic could get was a third place behind Chesire and Bray of L.A. High.

The second blow to the Poly hopes came toward the end of the meet, when Harry Gentry, red-headed Roman miller, kicked the dope bucket for a loss by beating Norman Curtis of Poly in a whirl-wind finish.

Some of the lesser contributions to the Poly downfall was the failure of Luvale to place in the quarter and Stockridge not taking a place in either hurdle race.

THIRTEENTH WIN

This was the thirteenth straight dual meet victory for the L. A. High over Poly, the Roman cinder-path artists seeming to have a "jinx" on the Mechanic runners.

The best race of the day was between Gentry and Curtis and in the mile Curtis led by thirty yards going around the last turn, but Gentry uncorked a finish that brought the fans to their feet and just nipped Curtis at the tape.

The summary:

100-yard dash—Won by Bray (L.A.); Chesire (L.A.) second. Williams (L.A.) third. Time, 10.3s.

220-yard dash—Won by Cheshire (L.A.); Bray (L.A.) second. Cooper (P.) third. Time, 23s.

ROOSEVELT TRACKSTERS NOSE OUT GARFIELD

Two-thirds of a point separated the Roosevelt and Garfield track teams yesterday afternoon in a dual meet on the Rough Riders' oval, and spelled victory for Roosevelt. The final score was 52 1-3 to 51 2-3, with the Bulldogs getting the edge in the track events and the Rough Riders in the field events.

Willis, Roosevelt sprinter, won both the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash, to share high-point honors of the afternoon with his teammate, Ramona, who won the 70-yard high hurdles and the 220-yard low barriers. Johnny Tatar won a sensational race from Israel of Roosevelt in the mile in the time of 4m. 47s. flat.

Amateur Pucks in Title Game

Seeking an edge in one of the closest play-offs ever seen in Southern California amateur hockey, the goal-pilfering Union Oil Pirates and trailing Gilmore Lions carry their titanic championship contest into the third game of a seven-game series at the Winter Garden Ice Palace tonight.

As a reward for the team winning the title, officials are offering a North American championship series with the Vancouver Ballards in April.

The line-ups:

Gaudin	Defense	Henry
Hume	Defense	Tulloch
Chappell	Wing	B. Hansen

TROJAN FROSH RUNNERS RUIN JAYSEE TRACKSTERS

Coach Tommy Davis's Trojan freshmen track team emerged victorious yesterday in a meet held on the Compton Jaysee oval against three local Jaysee squads. The Trobabes managed to gather 81 points, while the Long Beach, Glendale and Compton Junior College squads only gathered 79 among them. Most of the stars of the junior colleges did not compete, however, as they will meet the California Bears in a meet today.

Several good times were turned in. Probably the best was Black of Long Beach's sparkling 4m. 37 3-5s. mile. Smith of Compton staying right behind the Viking all the way. Ray, also of Long Beach, walked off with the quarter-mile in 51.7s. Ball of the Trobabes copped the century in 10r, flat and the furlong in 22 2-5s.

Clarence Berry, star frosh hurdler, annexed both lumber events in good time. Berry won the highs in 15 2-5s. and then captured the lows in 24 3-5s.

KING LOSES GO TO CECIL PAYNE

Hess and was in turn surprised by Johnny Lamar.

King failed to take a lesson from Lamar's success, and instead of forcing the fight he let Payne grab the play and set the pace.

Any fighter who does that is meat for Payne and, although King tried to change his tactics in later rounds with a certain amount of success he was too far behind to catch up.

And whatever intentions he had of fighting like a wild man in the tenth were shattered when Payne grooved one of his long lefts into the bread basket.

Payne is one of the best club fighters seen around here in a long time, and he gave the bugs action throughout the skirmish.

Both boys weighed the same, 133 1-2 pounds. Payne won eight rounds, one went to King and one was even. A terrific rally at the start of the eighth, when the boys traded lefts and rights with impunity, afforded a high spot that dovetailed with Payne's canvas smashes.

The semi-wind-up brought an unpopular decision to Sammy Seaman over Sid Torres, the Filipino.

Torres cracked Seaman with stinging rights in the first, second and fifth, and painted his left side with bruising wallops.

Seamon, who looks and boxes like Jackie Fields in his younger days, scored well with a stabbing left but left the ring much the worse for wear by comparison with Torres.

In the preliminaries Vincent Martinez defeated Bert Lamb in a six-rounder; Cliff Barrier and Vernon Gillette went four rounds to a draw in a good scrap that left both boys exhausted at the end bell, and June Legera won by a knockout from Kid Ventura in the third round

TRAINING CAMP GOSSIP

PITTSBURGH PIRATES TRIM SEALS BY 4-1 SCORE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (AP)—Combining fine pitching with strong hitting, the Pirates defeated San Francisco, 4-1, in an exhibition game here today. Ervin Brame allowed the Seals four hits and the lone tally in the five innings he pitched. Andy Bednar, a recruit, finished for the National League club and gave out but two hits. Score:

ZAMLOCH PICKS HURLERS FOR CUB AND PIRATE GAMES

FRESNO (Cal.) March 21. (AP)—The Oakland team of the Pacific Coast League has enjoyed a day of rest here today, preparatory to an onslaught against the Chicago Cubs tomorrow and again Sunday.

Howard Craghead, doughty Oak moundsman, was slated to oppose the Cub bats in Saturday's game, with Bob Hurst groomed to hurl the last four innings. In Sunday's contest, Charley Jeffcoat and Charley Kasich will do the mound honors for the Oakland club. Manager Carl Zamloch said Pete Darlia probably would open against the Pittsburgh club in Oakland Monday, with Howard Craghead doing the honors in Wednesday's game. No pitchers have been assigned Tuesday's game, although it was believed a left-hander would be selected.

Southpaw Jim Edwards, who was expected to arrive yesterday from Mississippi, failed to put in his appearance.

DUTCH RUETHER TO TWIRL AGAINST STARS TODAY

SAN CLEMENTE (Cal.) March 21. (AP)—The Seattle Indians, who are in training here, will play the Hollywood Stars in San Diego tomorrow and Sunday. Dutch Ruether, left-hander, tomorrow will pitch his first game this year, with Fisch another southpaw, spelling him and Collins catching. Manager Johnson of the Indians announced.

SHIRES CHANGES MIND AND WILL TALK TO COMISKEY

CHICAGO, March 21. (AP)—No little worried and somewhat remorseful, Charles Arthur Shires is expected to change his mind about forgetting the White Sox and make a final, personal appeal for reinstatement to Charles A. Comiskey.

After receiving Comiskey's demand that he first explain his difficulties in the prize ring before he would be reinstated, Shires explosively announced he would play semi-pro baseball this season and ask to be placed on the voluntarily retired list.

A chat with some older and wiser heads of the game, however, is believed to have changed his mind. He is coming here from Texas with his younger brother, Russ.

LEW FONSECA CHECKS IN AT CLEVELAND CAMP

NEW ORLEANS, March 21. (AP)—Lew Fonseca, star first-sacker and king pin in the Indians' attack, was in camp today reporting himself in good condition, but unable to say whether he will be ready for the league's opener. Fonseca nursed a case of scarlet fever during the winter.

Ezke Bonuba is slated to take Fonseca's place, for a time at least. The rest of the Tribe's opening line-up will find Porter Averill and Falk in the outfield, Dodgin at second, Lind or possibly Clifman at short, Joe Sewell at third and L. Sewell at the plate.

ENS PICKS BUC BATTING ORDER FOR OPENER

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (AP)—The probable batting order of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the opening game with Cincinnati April 15 at Cincinnati was made known today by Manager Jewel Ens.

Lloyd Waner will lead off, followed by Grantham, Paul Waner, Traynor in the clean-up position, Suhr, Comorosky, Bartell and the battery. Manager Ens predicts that Suhr's bludgeon will be particularly dangerous in the parks at Philadelphia and New York and in riding hits toward the right-field walls at St. Louis, Chicago and Brooklyn.

RANCHO HITS AT CRITICISM

...ing members from two to eight years.

W. W. Beckwith is the oldest member, having been with the club for eight years; Von Elm has been a member for seven years; Atwater, Keller, Dave Clark and Conway Tearle for six years; Milo Marchetti and Norman Allen for five years; T. Ray Palmer, Fred Langdon, and Jones for four years, and George Lance, Cliff Turner and Harry Robbins for two years.

Of the seven new members who have been with the club for a year or less, Keller claims legitimate membership for each one.

Keller pointed out that Rancho memberships were often obtainable at a small figure, and these were always made available to golfers who had friends in the club and could not afford the excessive entry fee required by other clubs.

Lee Pendergrass bought a membership in that manner after his junior membership had expired at Wilshire, and Keller said that Allen Moser would also become a regular member at Rancho next year, as he was unable to finance a membership at Wilshire.

"There can be no question," opined Keller, "about Dr. C. K. Manhart and Dr. L. D. Rankin, both of whom joined less than a year ago. They have the money to join wherever they desire, and they chose Rancho because of mutual friendships. Dr. Rankin is a close friend of Cliff Turner, who desired him as a fellow-member."

"Gibson Dunlap, Southern California amateur champion," continued Keller, "was sponsored by Marchetti. They played together for a long time before Dunlap joined Rancho, which followed as a natural course as Marchetti has been interested in giving Dunlap every opportunity to develop his game."

"Bachelder and Johnny De Paolo were associated at the Stockdale Country Club of Bakersfield before Bachelder came to Los Angeles to make his home. De Paolo is now planning to make his home here as soon as his business connections are severed at Bakersfield. Johnny was made a present of a membership by his brother Peter, noted auto race driver, who has been a Rancho member for some time."

"Now, how can anybody make anything illegitimate about that?" questions Mister Keller, "the average membership per player is three years, and we stand back of every membership."

In discussing the matter further, Von Elm stated that his playing on the team was only a matter of chance, and that he had not decided to play until the day of the first match.

"Anyhow," said George, "I wouldn't want to play on any but the strongest team."

Rancho, having won its divisional championship, plays its first match in the play-off tomorrow, meeting the Victoria Country Club of Riverside at Midwick.

The Rancho team, however, is pointing for Wednesday's match, when Los Angeles, defending interclub champion, will be faced in a semifinal match at Lakeside.

GUN CLUB WILL HONOR A. J. BAUM TOMORROW

Another trophy will be added to the list of prizes presented at the L. A. Gun Club tomorrow in honor of A. J. Baum, secretary of the Milwaukee Gun Club, it was announced yesterday by Fred H. Teeple of the local organization. The Milwaukee Club wired Teeples that they greatly appreciated the honor being paid to Baum here and that had sent money on for another prize. The wire came from L. C. Landis.

DATTO KAYOES MANDELL

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) March 21. (AP)—Johnny Datto of Cleveland, brilliant Filipino featherweight, scored a fourth-round knockout over Ernie Mandell, Providence featherweight, here tonight. The affair was scheduled for ten rounds.

PIRATES BEAT VENICE

The San Pedro baseball team defeated the Venice nine, 9 to 6, in a game played on the losers' diamond yesterday. Drake, Hopkins and Shuman starred for the Pirates, while McIntyre and Angleberry shone for the Gondoliers.

Hess May Box Jack Kid Berg

Goldie Hess may box Jack Berg in New York. He was yesterday offered 20 per cent and two round-trip tickets to box the sensational English lightweight in Madison Square Garden.

The Garden matchmaker, Tom McArdle, wanted Goldie for a March date which will be impossible for him to fill. Hess is boxing Eddie Thomas, star lightweight from the Northwest, at the Olympic Tuesday on the Frankie Campbell-Ray Spiker bill.

Main-street gymnasium visitors were yesterday of the opinion Hess has no cinch against Thomas. The Washington boxer has a left hand like Eddie Mack and is even faster.

Thomas has had thirty-six fights, losing but one. He has scored eighteen knockouts. He fought Billy Townsend four times, winning twice, losing once and getting one draw.

Mercuries to Face Vikings

The Viking Soccer Club, one of the outstanding favorites to lift the local trophy in the Los Angeles cup tie series, plays tomorrow's feature game at Loyola Field against the L.A.A.C. Mercuries. The Norsemen are now one of the strongest teams in the Southland and have been installed as slight favorites to down the Mercuries. Manager Ringstrom has a fast forward line ably backed up by a stellar defense composed of Whatne, Blick and Gebbart. On the other hand the L.A.A.C. eleven has not shown improvement in recent games and Commissioner Al Milford is planning some drastic changes. The Viking-L.A.A.C. game at 3 o'clock will be preceded by a 1 o'clock opener between the Sons of St. George and the Pasadena A.C. eleven.

UPLIFTERS' RIDERS BATTLE BUCCANEERS

The feature challenge polo match between the Uplifters' Club four and Clair Brunson's Buccaneers, originally carded for last Sunday and postponed because of rain-soaked turf, will be played tomorrow at the Beverly Boulevard grounds. Snowy Baker and T. Lyell Puckett, two of the clubmen's mallet stars, were out of the line-up two weeks ago when Brunson's squad handed the ranch riders the short end of a lopsided score, but will be in the saddle tomorrow. Heated rivalry has developed between followers of the two teams and supporters of the Uplifters' four are confident that with their full playing strength on the field they will be able to get full revenge for the defeat suffered in the previous match. Dr. Harry H. Wilson, noted Coast horseman, will again direct the Buccaneers' play at No. 3 with Clair Brunson at back.

CRUISER OUT TO MAKE OCEAN COURSE RECORD

Primed to set a new time from San Francisco to Los Angeles for boats of its class, a little thirty-eight-foot cruiser speedster, the A-2243, cast off the hawser yesterday from the docks at Wilmington to run by easy stages to the northern city, possibly arriving there late today. Harry Wilson, part owner of the craft, was at the wheel, and Eddie Offut and Arvin Leavitt went along as engineers. he run is being used to herald the opening of the Civic Regatta Association's first annual boat show, which starts an eight-day run next Saturday in Ambassador Auditorium. On the return trip, Wilson hopes to beat train time. They will cloc kthe time from St. Francis Yacht Club to the California Club, and from Mile Rock breakwater. Wilson plans to start south when the forecast is posted for a smooth, speedy sea.

ROOSEVELT NINE COPS

The Roosevelt High baseball team defeated the Franklin nine yesterday afternoon on the Rough Riders' field by the score of 7 to 0 The game was featured by McHenry's hitting and pitching, the Rough Rider getting a triple and two doubles in three times at bat.

LOCAL BOYS ON O.S.C. OUTFIT

Wadley, Griffin, MacMahon on Swim Team

[From Associated Students' News Bureau, Oregon State College.]

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, March 18.—Three Los Angeles boys are among the nine varsity swimmers chosen to make a trip during spring vacation. They are Fred Wadley, Wayne Griffin and Ray MacMahon. The team, accompanied by their coach, John Kenney, will leave here Thursday to meet four teams between here and Vancouver, B. C.

Wadley is one of the most outstanding swimmers on the team. He specializes in the 220 and 440 and recently bettered the Pacific Coast Conference record in the 440. In a meet with the University of Oregon, he won first place in both the 220 and 440 and was a member of the winning 400-foot relay team. He is also a member of the water polo team.

Griffin is another boy who can be counted on to bring home some points for Oregon State. He was also a member of the winning 400-foot relay team against Oregon and in a previous meet with Oregon was on the winning 160-yard relay team.

MacMahon, who specializes in the sprints and dives, also shared honors with members of the winning 160-yard relay team and the 400-foot relay team against University of Oregon. He also took second place in the 40-yard dash after giving Anderson, holder of the Northwest record, a real battle.

Meets scheduled for this road trip are Multnomah Club of Portland, the 20th inst.; Tacoma Y.M.C.A. at Tacoma, the 21st inst.; Crystal Garden Swimming Club at Victoria, B. C., the 22nd inst., and Vancouver all-stars at Vancouver, B. C., the 24th inst.

CHICAGO CUBS WALLOP DUCKS

...and it looks as though it should be an interesting affair. McCarthy announced yesterday that he would pitch Pat Malone and Charley Root, two of his aces. Win Ballou and Art Delaney, who blanked the Cubs for six innings in the game at Catalina, are Skipper Lelivelt's mound choices.

Yesterday's tussle was a bit too lopsided to furnish the customers much in the way of a thrill, the Cubs piling up a seven-run margin in five rounds to cinch the victory. A five-run splurge in the fifth put the skids under the Portland hopes.

The Cubs collected fourteen hits off the two Duck slabsters and Gabby Hartnett led the attack by crashing out a double and two singles in three times at bat. Stephenson, Grimm, Wilson and English punched out two hits each.

Chicago scored in the second when Cuyler doubled to left and took third on Johnson's poor throw-in and tallied on Stephenson's infield out. Hartnett's single, Carlson's sacrifice and English's hit brought in another run in the third.

FIVE RUNS IN FIFTH

The Cubs' big blowoff in the fifth produced five runs on six hits contributed by Hartnett, Grimm, Hornsby, Wilson, Cuyler and Stephenson.

Although touched for runs in the sixth and seventh, Bloomer, who dishes 'em up a la Carl Mays, looked mighty good. He has a lot of stuff along with his peculiar delivery and should give Coast Leaguers quite a bit of trouble.

The Beavers departed last night for their San Jose training camp but will be back April 8 to open the Coast League season against the Angels.

Ray Schalk took the Cub second team to Fresno last night for games with Oakland today and tomorrow. The following athletes accompanied Schalk: Pitchers McAfee, Osborn, Warneke, Lautenbacher, Moss and Shealy; Catcher Schulte, Infielders Tolson, Blair, Stewart and Layne and Outfielders Heathcote, D. CASANOVA IN TOP BATTLE TONIGHT

Heavy punching is expected to feature tonight's main event at the Main-street Athletic Club when Sandy Garrison Casanova, 165-pound Scotch-Mexican star, seeks his eleventh straight victory, this one at the expense of Ray Brown, Texas wild man. Brown is a newcomer who seeks to make the front rank of the local fistic situation in a single leap. If he gets over Casanova, he will be in a commanding position. Dave Rodriguez, who is fast winning recognition in welterweight circles, will meet Ted Thompson, negro socker, in the semi-wind-up, while another pair of welters, Phil Moss and Jack Slager, will be seen in the six-round special event. The other bouts are Benny Rodriguez vs. Joie Rich, 115 pounds; Leo Demingo vs. Frankie Mitchell, 124 pounds, and Nick Halopoff vs. Henry Valles, 120 pounds.

...yesterday, gave him a thirty-six-hole count of 143.

Smith turned in a par 35 on the outgoing nine but shot a pair of 5s on the start of the home trip to run his card to 37 and a total of 73 for the day.

Tommy Armour, Boca Raton, Fla., was in fourth place with a 145 for the thirty-six holes. He was 1 over par on the first nine with a 36 and used 37 strokes in negotiating the distance after the turn for a 73 for the day. Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., and Clarence Gamber, Boca Raton, were on the heels of Armour all day and tied for fourth-place honors with thirty-six-hole cards of 146. Turnesa had a 36 and a 37 for a 73 to match his 73 of yesterday, while Gamber posted a 37 and a 38 for 75 to go with his par 71 of the opening day.

Jimmy West, Miami amateur, took the lead among the Simon Pures with a total of 158 for the two days' play. He took a 39 and a 41 today for a total of 80, which, with his 78 of the first day, gave him a thirty-six-hole total of 158.

Perfect golf weather greeted the players at the start of the second eighteen-hole play with a brilliant sun breaking down from a cloudless sky and a cooling breeze off the Atlantic tempering the day.

The sixty-four low scores today will tee off tomorrow in the thirty-six-hole final play of the tournament.

Rival Sought for Marshall

"Carnation" Lou Daro, local mat promoter, yesterday was seeking Joe Stecher, the body scissor exponent, or Marin Plestina, 240-pound giant, as Everett Marshall's next opponent here.

Both grapplers were wired offers for the match by the promoter yesterday. Stecher is reported in Dodge, Neb., training for another big mat campaign, while Plestina is in Chicago, trying to get matches with some of the veterans in the first flight.

Lewis, who was the first to be offered the match with Marshall, demanded a $20,000 guarantee to go into the ring with the airplane exponent. The price was declared prohibitive by Promoter Daro.

BEAR BASEBALLERS TO FACE ST. MARY'S

BERKELEY, March 21. (Exclusive)—After taking two on the nose from the University of Southern California's hard-hitting team, the University of California baseball varsity, champions of the State College Baseball Association in 1929, will attempt to stay in the running tomorrow afternoon in a clash with St. Mary's College.

Norman Horner and Max Moody, regarded as aces of the California pitching corps, were hammered a-plenty by the Trojans, leaving tomorrow's encounter to Dick Sellman, a varsity veteran. The Californians were woefully weak in hitting when hits meant runs during the Trojan engagements. Coach Clint Evans hopes to have this situation rectified in time for the Gael battle. Earlier in the year the Californians introduced their conference season by beating St. Mary's.

PAMPAS RIDERS MEET MIDWICK

Rival Polo Teams Tangle Tomorrow Afternoon

South America's contribution to the Southland's polo picture—the famous Four Horsemen of the Pampas—gallop into the limelight here again tomorrow afternoon. The Argentine polo...ts, led by Capt. Manuel Andrada, are scheduled to open a special three-game series with the Midwick Country Club's big four at the Purple field. The series will wind up the polo season for the Argentines on the west coast. To date they have won ten games on California polo fields including the Pacific Coast open championships.

The second game of the series with Midwick will be staged Wednesday afternoon and the finale one week from tomorrow. Midwick officials are confident that the games will draw capacity crowds each day as the fame of the Argentine horsemen has spread like wildfire. In the finals of the coast championship the Pampas riders performed before the largest crowd that has ever witnessed a polo game in the Southland.

The games at Santa Barbara, Del Monte and San Mateo, in which they featured, also drew record crowds for those places. The Pampas team is composed of the following: Alfredo Harrington, Juan Reynal, Jose Reynal and Manuel Andrada. They will face Midwick big four of Neil McCarthy, Elmer Boeseke, Eric Pedley and Carleton Burke.

TRACK MEETS BILLED TODAY

...have a fling at Caltech this afternoon at Pasadena in a meet which should see the Bruins victors by a handsome margin. The distance races, pitting Skoog of Tech against Smith of U.C.L.A., should be the high spots of the program.

Whittier goes to Redlands for an encounter with the Baptists. The two outstanding competitors on the program are Nate George, who will be favored to take both sprints and the 440 for Whittier, and Norman Taylor, Redlands distance star, who ought to romp home an easy victor in the mile and half-mile.

The meet at Patterson Field may serve to give a fairly definite line on Troy's coming dual engagement with Stanford. However, today's affair will not be the feverish, hectic struggle anticipated, for both Cromwell and Boyd Comstock, L.A.A.C. coach, are looking upon the afternoon's festivities more or less in the light of a practice meet, which means that runners are apt to be shifted around considerably.

Frank Wykoff will be favored to win whatever races he runs, with Ray Alf of the club furnishing some fast competition whether he competes in the sprints or 440. Pearson and Williams of the Trojans should make the 440 one of the best races of the day and if Capt. Appleton and Johnny Walker of Oxy also run in this event it should be a corker.

McGEAGH FAVORED

The half-mile looks like a battle between Percy Niersbach of the club and Bill McGeagh of the Trojans, odds being slightly in favor of the latter because of superior condition. He will have to step, however, to beat the old warhorse of local 880 ranks.

In the mile, Clif Halstead and Lee Hansen of Troy appear to have things all their own way. As for the two-mile the Indians of the L.A.A.C. ought to sneak in for several points.

The hurdles ought to be exciting with Dick Pomeroy of the club, Jeddy Welsh and Ernie Payne of S. C., and Wendall Smith of Oxy pitted against each other. Pomeroy will be hard to beat in the highs, while Payne is favored in the lows. Bob Maxwell, L.A.A.C. low hurdle ace, will tackle the 100-yard dash today, figuring to build up his speed for future timber-topping races.

Capt. Jess Mortensen and Jim DeMers should have quite a battle in the javelin, with the latter a slight favorite over the S. C. leader. Chuck Eaton of the club should also give "Mort" a fight.

HALL TO WIN

Bob Hall of Troy is favored to win both shot and discus, while Van Oedel of S. C. should take the high jump and Barber of the same team the broad. In the pole vault, Jensen of Occidental ought to give Cromwell's six vaulters plenty of competition for he has bettered 13ft. this year. Old Man Glenn Graham of the club may be a surprise winner over the entire field here.

If there is a relay it ought to be a corker as the club quartet pushed the Trojans to 3m. 19 4-5s. some weeks ago.

JEWFISH CAUGHT OFF OLYMPIC BARGE

HERMOSA BEACH, March 21.—Two huge species of the jewfish or black sea bass family were caught yesterday off the Olympic fishing barge, anchored two miles offshore here. Ted Haberfield of Los Angeles, pulled in the first one of the day, a 250-pound fish, while the second one caught by Ray Hope, also of Los Angeles, weighed 150 pounds.

Both of the big monsters took in the neighborhood of forty minutes each before they could be gaffed.

TROJANS WIN OVER BASEBALL SCHOOL

Piling up seven runs in the first inning, Sam Barry's Southern California Trojans managed to hang on to the lead and defeated the National Baseball School 12 to 8 at Bovard Field yesterday. Jess Hill, hard-slugging left fielder, punched out a home run over the left-field fence in the first inning, with the bases loaded. Score:

Baseball School	0	0	1	1	0	0	4	1	0	3
South. California	7	1	0	0	3	0	1	1	3	3

Burke and Reinhardt; Griffin, R. Wingham, Good and Ward, C. Willingham.

Bill Tilden Advances in Net Tourney

CANNES (France) March 21. (AP)—Big Bill Tilden was extended today to defeat the Austrian, F. Matejka, 9-7, 7-5, in the quarterfinals of the Cannes Lawn Tennis Club's tournament.

Tilden paired with Fraulein Aussem to defeat Tamio Abe and Mademoiselle Claude Anet in the mixed doubles, 6-4, 6-0.

TARZAN AND THE JEWELS OF OPAR

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Two weeks later John Clayton, Lord Greystoke—he who had been Tarzan of the Apes—came riding in from a tour of inspection of his vast African estates. Suddenly he glimpsed a column of men crossing the plain that lay between his bungalow and the forest beyond. He reined his horse and watched the little party approach, headed by a mounted man a stranger.

Convinced that it was a wandering European hunter seeking his hospitality, Tarzan rode forward to welcome the newcomer. Half an hour later he was introducing "M. Jules Frecoult" to Lady Greystoke. (This was the name Werper had decided to assmue.) "I was completely lost," laughed the supposed game hunter. "I am very fortunate indeed to have stumbled upon your providential aid."

In his guise of a French gentleman of leisure Werper found little difficulty in deceiving his host and ingratiating himself with both Tarzan and Jane Clayton. Yet after several days he became less hopeful of an easy accomplishment of his designs. Lady Greystoke never rode alone at any great distance from the bungalow, and one of Tarzan's Waziri warriors was always near.

After several weeks Werper was no nearer the fulfillment of his plans than when he arrived. Then came the unexpected, something which gave him renewed hope and set his mind upon an even greater reward than a woman's ransom. A native runner had arrived at the bungalow with the weekly mail. Lord Greystoke seemed much disturbed over the letters and shortly after dinner excused himself.

NEW FIGHT ON FRAUDS ON DOCKET

"Stop the Swindler" to be Slogan of Revamped Better Business Group

"Stop the Swindler" will be the slogan of the Better Business Bureau of Los Angeles, now being reorganized to operate with greater efficiency in curbing fraudulent and misleading financial advertising, according to Beatty Stevens, secretary of the reorganization committee.

Among the leaders who have associated themselves with the new work of the bureau are John Earle Jardine, president the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, and George L. Eastman, president Fidelity Savings and Loan Association.

The bureau's work will be of two types in the financial field. Through its extension division, wide publicity will be given doubtful and unsound promotion schemes which are used from time to time by unscrupulous operators, and individual cases of fraud will be checked and information given the proper law enforcement agencies.

The bureau states that strenuous efforts will be made to prevent advertising of such schemes, believing that such action is the most effective way of protecting the investing public.

In addition to these functions, the bureau announced it will provide an impartial and uncolored source of information for the public. It will not advise on investments, but it will provide all the obtainable facts regarding the operation of any company or finance plan, without charge.

The bureau will use the danger signals of the American Bankers' Association as a substantial part of its effort to protect the public against unscrupulous operators.

These danger signals are:

Promises of abnormally high dividends or large market profits.
Use of prominent names as indorsement without authority.
Opportunity to get in "on the ground floor."
"Inside tips," usually expensive information.
Fictitious price advance early in the campaign, usually a device to speed up subscription of shares.
Telephone canvass by irresponsible vendors.
Free services by promoters.
Irresponsible guarantees of certain profits.
Reorganizations and mergers of unsuccessful companies, calling for more cash from stockholders.
Misinformation appealing to prejudice against normal investment channels.
False use of slogans to give false security.

Staats Co., Bancamerica-Blair Corporation, Security-First National Company and Tucker Hunter Dulin & Co. at 99 1-2 and interest to yield 5.05 per cent. Dillon, Read & Co., yesterday reported that the issue had been greatly oversold.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and National City Company are offering, subject to the Interstate Commerce Commission approval, $15,000,000 Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company general mortgage 4 3-4 per cent gold bonds, series F, due May 1, 1989, at 100 1-2 and accrued interest.

WESTERN AIR WINS POLICY

Group Insurance Protection Given Los Angeles Carrier; First Written in Aviation Industry

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Recognition of the Western Air Express as an outstanding insurance risk in aviation has come from the Connecticut General Life Insurance Company. This company has written a group life insurance policy on the entire Western Air personnel, the first written by any insurance company on the employees of an air transportation system.

Most important are the facts that all Western Air pilots are covered under the policy, and the premium is exactly the same as charged on all group life-insurance policies.

OTHERS MAY BENEFIT

Extension of the same protection to other air transport companies is expected to follow wherever the performance records of the carrier satisfy the insurance company's standards. Selection of the Western Air Express as the initial beneficiary is regarded by the company's management as a genuine tribute to its record in air transportation.

Approximately 425 employees are covered under the terms of the policy. The total insurance is about $1,275,000, or an average of about $3000 an employee. Premiums are paid jointly by the company and the employees.

Inclusion of the Western Air pilots under the group policy is the result of the insurance company's investigation showing a remarkable record of performance in an infant industry. In approximately four years of operation, the Western Air Express has flown a total of 4,250,000 miles with the loss of only six employees.

Two of the pilots were lost on the difficult Cheyenne-to-Pueblo route, the third was Maurice Graham, who was lost recently on the Salt Lake City run, and the remaining trio crashed in the trimotored disaster in the Lake Arrowhead region.

MILEAGE ESTIMATE

Never has the company lost or injured a passenger in its four years of flying. Today its planes fly an average of 8000 miles daily, and when the merger of Western Air with Aero Corporation is officially in effect, the average will be boosted to approximately 9200 miles. Inclusion of West Coast Air Transport and Mid-Continent Air Express in the system, an event expected within the next few months, will raise the daily average to 12,500 miles. This will be the most extensive flying route of any of the American air transport companies.

The Western Air record also shows the absence of accidents or fatalities in its shops, where a large force of workers is employed.

While this policy written by the Connecticut General Life is the first group insurance protection granted aviation employees, all transport companies carry insurance on their transport and mail planes. Western Air has only lost four of its planes, three of which were mail carriers and one a trimotored transport.

Pacific Finance to Operate in State of Texas

Pacific Finance Corporation has entered the Texas automotive field through the establishment of a branch in Dallas, Tex., B. F. Nysewander, Jr., executive vice-president, announced yesterday.

The new branch which is the thirty-first to be established by the company since it began business ten years ago, will be in charge of Jack A. Gorman, for many years in the auto finance division of the home office here.

Further plans call for opening suboffices later in Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio and Amarillo, Mr. Nysewander said that the decision to extend the company's service to Texas was due to the rapid advance of the Texas automobile market in recent years, that state now standing seventh in registrations with prospects of replacing Michigan in sixth place.

UNION OIL MAN WINS PROMOTION

A. C. Marshall, an employee of the Union Oil Company since 1914 when he entered the treasurer's office in a stenographic capacity, has been elected assistant treasurer, R. J. Keown, vice-president and treasurer, announced yesterday. Mr. Marshall's service with the company has been continuous since 1914 with the exception of his war service overseas. J. M. Rust is also assistant treasurer.

Transamerica in Occidental Life Control

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (AP) Transamerica Corporation today announced the purchase of Occidental Life Insurance Company, Occidental Corporation and Occidental Investment Company. The purchase price was not given, but indication was that the outlay was sufficient to cover $25,000,000 in assets held by the three companies, whose head offices are in Los Angeles.

The purchase marks the entrance by Transamerica into the life-insurance field. Occidental Life has in force more than $150,000,000 in insurance. It is licensed to operate in fourteen States besides the Hawaiian Islands, Alaska and Canada.

L. M. Giannini, president of both Transamerica and Occidental, explained, "We have felt the acquisition of a life insurance company, well established on the Pacific Coast, was essential to our plans. It has been the intention to have institutions under Transamerica's control thoroughly representative of every type of financial service."

Insurance Head on Visit Here

J. Philip Bird, president of the New Jersey Manufacturers Casualty Company and the New Jersey Manufacturers Fire Insurance Company and vice-president and director of the International Re-Insurance Corporation, is in Los Angeles as a guest of Carl M. Hansen, president of the latter company. He is accompanied by Bentley H. Pope, an investment banker of Trenton, N. J.

The two financiers head a group of eastern interests which own in excess of 30 per cent of the stock of International Re-Insurance and Mr. Bird stated that he will suggest to his associates the advisability of materially increasing their present holdings in the company. He added that International's business is of a highly desirable nature and it is reasonable to assume that the company is only now beginning to reap the real benefit of the past twenty-two months of intensive work.

KINNER HAS NEW ENGINE ON TEST

Kinner Airplane and Motor Company is perfecting a new motor rated at 130 horsepower which is approximately the same size as its present K-5 100-horsepower engine, Robert Porter, chairman, announced yesterday. Its 190-horsepower engine is scheduled for a test by the United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of Aeronautics, April 10. All three are of the radial type.

NEW PLANS FOR EDISON GIVEN VOTE

Reclassifying of Stock and Change in Name of Company Approved

Stockholders of the Southern California Edison Company at their annual meeting yesterday ratified the proposal to reclassify the preferred stock issues and the amendment to the charter changing the name of the organization to Southern California Edison Company, Ltd., which provides for limited liability of stockholders. All directors were re-elected, and at a subsequent meeting of the board William C. Mullendore was elected a vice-president. All other officers were re-elected.

John B. Miller, chairman, in his address to stockholders outlined the accomplishments of the past year in which new records were made in the production of more than 3,000,000,000 kilowatt-hours of electric energy, or better than one-third of all the electric energy of the State, and also touched on the substantial increase in both gross and net earnings.

Commenting on the outlook for the current year Mr. Miller said the company has an objective of 365,000 horsepower of new business, or a 15 per cent increase in the consumers' connected load. Of this total 260,000 horsepower is to be secured from sale of power and light and 105,000 horsepower is to be developed in the sale of electrical appliances for the home. The company's generating system is now almost equally divided between water power and steam power plants.

In the reclassification of capital the authorized Class A 7 per cent preferred will be reduced from $30,000,000 to $27,000,000, the $3,000,000 difference, unissued, to be added to the present authorized $50,000,000 Class B 6 per cent preferred. Class D $21,000,000 5 per cent preferred authorized and unissued will be canceled and the present authorized $45,000,000 of Class C 5½ per cent preferred will be increased by $21,000,000. The common capital structure remains unchanged.

Huge Sinclair Oil Merger in Deadlock Stage

NEW YORK, March 21. (Exclusive)—The $800,000,000 merger project of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, and the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, has reached an impasse, according to reports in Wall street today, that were based primarily on the departure from the city of the leading personages in the negotiations that have been conducted since last year.

Reports that this gigantic consolidation has been abandoned or would be abandoned have been in circulation in the oil industry and in Wall street for several weeks, but officers of Sinclair Consolidated have persistently denied the reports. Circles which were inclined to believe that the merger would not be consummated indicated that difficulty in financing a huge transaction of this kind at this time, especially in view of the cut in crude oil prices and the consequent deflation in value of large petroleum inventories, was at the root of the difficulty encountered by the companies in swinging the deal.

It was disclosed yesterday that W. S. Fitzpatrick, chairman of Prairie Oil and Gas Company, and D. H. Kelsey, vice-president, both of whom have been in New York for many weeks working on the consolidation, have returned west. Harry F. Sinclair was also reported to have left the city, presumably bound for his farm in New Jersey.

FIGHT ON CHAINS SPREADING

Agitation Against System of Merchandising Gaining Impetus in All Parts of Country

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

(Copyright, 1930, by the North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEW YORK, March 21.—The fight against the chain store in the United States is growing in intensity. Already before Congress is the Capper-Kelly price-fixing bill, which aims to deny chain and department stores the right to cut prices on nationally advertised goods and empowers the manufacturer to fix the retail price.

The Federal Trade Commission has been investigating for months the chain-store development and practices. Recently Congress voted $142,000 additional to expand the study. Representative Jones of Texas introduced in Congress a bill to put chain stores under State incorporation regardless of their interstate character.

Antichain - store agitation has grown more intense in the South than elsewhere. There, several candidates are running for Congress on antichain platforms.

W. K. Henderson of Shreveport, La., owner of a radio station, the vitriolic agitator against chain stores, is stirring up plenty of discussion in the South, both for and against.

But other parts of the country are studying the problem, too. In 1929 legislators in twenty-five States considered antichain legislation, among them Missouri, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

The Jones bill, now before Congress, which aims to put chain legislation in the hands of the States, is the first step in antichain legislation. If this goes through, then the different States believe they have power to meet the problem in their own way.

Chain leaders naturally are fighting this development vigorously.

How much of the total retail business of Canada do the chain stores handle?

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics estimates that the total annual sales in retail establishments amount to $2,000,000,000 of which $200,000,000 is done in chain stores.

The greatest expansion made by these stores in Canada has been in the retail grocery business. The annual total of this particular business is between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000, and the "chains" handle about $65,000,000 of this amount.

All told, there are 132 chain systems in the Dominion, according to the Bureau of Statistics, and 106 of these are incorporated companies, having a total capitalization of $57,000,000. Eighty-two per cent of this capitalization is home owned, 15 per cent is owned in the United States, and the rest in Great Britain and other nations.

The intense drive against chain stores, felt in the United States, has not hit Canada yet.

Foreign trade has become of increasing importance to California, particularly to Los Angeles, which now ranks second in the United States as a port city—that is, in the volume of foreign exports. The total value of the commerce which in handled at the Los Angeles Harbor is more than $1,000,000,000 a year, and is exceeded only by New York and New Orleans.

Probably for this reason the National Foreign Trade Council decided to hold its next annual meeting at Los Angeles on May. 23.

Another reason, too, is that California ranks fourth among the States as a source of American exports. During the last fifteen years Los Angeles has increased her exports more than 200 times in value, and they now exceed $1,000,000 a day.

Important problems arising out of foreign trade, ignored ten years ago, are given plenty of attention by Californians today.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—Cotton advanced today on a renewal of covering by old crop shorts and some trade or commission house buying which was probably promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and reiterated rumors of a probable demand for deliveries on May contracts. All active positions made new high ground for the movement, but offerings increased somewhat as prices approached the 18¢ level for May contracts and there were fractions of 6 or 7 points from the best with the midafternoon market ruling about 3 to 13 points net higher.

TRADING ON WOOL MART RUNS LIGHT

Little Change Reported from Previous Week in Prices and Demand

BOSTON, March 21. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin of Boston will say tomorrow:

The week has been quiet again in the wool trade, the only demand of consequence evidently being in half-blood combing wools at slightly lower prices.

The markets of the world are a bit more stable for the moment in line with the opening at London which was fully discounted. Australia and London are now about on parity.

The mill position is still unsettled, although some indications of improvement in cloth demand are reported. In the West, activity is moderate and spotty.

Mohair is still rather slow and hardly changed in price.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1930, to March 20, 1930, inclusive, were 34,223,000 pounds, against 43,064,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1930, to March 20, 1930, inclusive, were 41,623,000 pounds, against 51,956,200 pounds for the same period last year.

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations tomorrow:

TIGHTER MONEY CHECKS UPTURN

Call Rate Boost and Calling of Loans Factors

Moderate Recovery Recorded After Early Break

Sales Total Heaviest Since Last December

NEW YORK, March 21. (AP)—The bull movement on the stock market was forced to hurdle a barrier of higher money today, but acquitted itself with fair success, after momentary shying away from speculators for the advance, who, having grown increasingly aggressive under the stimulating influence of cheap money this week, concluded that the higher charges today would be but temporary.

Call money renewed at 3 per cent compared to yesterday's 2 per cent renewal rate, the lowest in years, and advanced successively to 4 and then 4½ per cent. About $190,000,000 in loans was called. Heavy selling profit-taking swept into the market around mid-day, and bears launched telling drives against a small group of issues. Bulls regained control of the price movement in the late afternoon, however, and closing prices were mostly higher, net gains running from 1 to nearly 8 points in the more active issues.

TRADING HEAVY

The cross currents of bullish and bearish activity piled up total sales of 4,629,290 shares, the largest day's business since December. The index of ninety leading shares was elevated more than a point further into new high ground since October. The ticker ran forty minutes after the close.

The tightening of purse strings in the money market was largely attributable to the withdrawal of credit through wiping out of the government's quarterly overdraft at the Federal Reserve, of which about $70,000,000 remained. Furthermore, banks have been finding the lower rates unprofitable and were unwilling to place funds over the week-end except at higher rates. A heavy demand for sterling in the foreign exchange market indicated foreign lenders were also growing dissatisfied with the low rates of return in this money market and withdrawing funds.

The weekly business and mercantile reviews stressed the stiffening in commodity prices this week as the outstanding favorable development. Trade and industry generally continued to make slow and irregular recovery. Dun's said: "Existing conditions point to a gradual and uneven advance, rather than a rapid and general upturn."

FAVORITES LEAD

The market activity centered in several of the old stand-bys, such as American Telephone and United States Steel. Both reached new high levels for the recovery early, slipped back around mid-day and rallied toward the close, United States Steel reaching its best level in the last hour, at 191, up more than 4 points.

Oils were again brought forward in the late trading. About a dozen were sent up to new tops for the year, including Standard of New Jersey, which touched 69, up 3-8. Coca Cola, Electric Auto Lite, International Harvester, United Aircraft, Vanadium and Warner Brothers rose 3 points or more. United Carbon sold up 10, and closed up nearly 8. Coppers were generally firmer in response to better sales reports.

National Cash Register sold off about 7 points to a new low for the year. American Car and Foundry, American Locomotive, Gillette, and Simmons also dropped to new lows for the year or longer. Du Pont and Allied Chemical lost a couple of points.

Commodities were generally firm, although May corn sold off more than a cent on large offerings. Wheat moved higher, the July position gaining 1 3-8 cents. Cotton closed to about 30 cents to $1 a bale higher.

Indicated Opportunities

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Interest Centers on Oil Shares Which Strengthen on Vigorous Buying Activity

Petroleum issues dominated operations on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday and provided the greater portion of the market trading. The list opened rather weakly, influenced in part by fears of a gasoline war and by an uncertain trend of New York stock prices. Buying operations were large, however, and the group improved steadily throughout the session and closed in an upward direction.

Standard Oil of California advanced 3-4 to reach the year's high point at 64½ and ended at 64 1-8. Richfield and Rio Grande were the most active traders on the board with a turnover of around 4000 shares each. The former opened at 25½ and worked up to a close at 26 7-8, for a net advance of 7-8. Rio Grande, opening at 22½, shot up to a close at 23½, up 1 1-8 points flat. Pacific Western and MacMillan firmed up fractionally, while Union ended at 45½, up 1-8, and Union Associates yielded ½ to 44 7-8.

Trading in other sections of the board was lighter than in recent sessions and no material changes took place. Pacific Lighting, recently inactive on this exchange, crossed the board at 95 and closed at 94 3-4 for an advance of 3¼ points. Pacific Finance, Security-First National Bank and Southern California Edison eased fractionally lower, while Transamerica and Western Air Express strengthened slightly.

Douglas Aircraft Company was a strong spot with an advance of 1 point to a new top for the year at 19 1-4. Claude Neon firmed up 5-8, while International Re-Insurance, on light sales, reacted 1½ points to 46½.

Sales totaled 37,148 shares valued at $906,614; previous day, 44,687 shares valued at $1,272,794.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21. (AP)—Price movements on the stock exchange were uncertain today, and trading slackened. Turnover was 58,448 shares, valued at $2,606,295. Bond sales totaled $6000.

Western investment demand continued to hold a steady volume, but early in the session traders stood aside, watching Wall street for signs of a possible downturn. Five new highs and two 1930 lows gave a fair picture of trends.

Reports of price confusion in retail circles, especially in Southern California, where independents offered gasoline a few cents lower than the major company stations, unsettled oil stocks. In addition, there was a sharp reversal of sentiment, sizeable fractional losses being replaced by gains. On the average, the group closed higher.

Utilities were irregular, most of the moves being slight. Pacific Telephone advanced 1¼, while the preferred put a point and Great Western ¾ ahead. Eastern advices recommending California utilities provided a cushion whenever selling developed.

Sherman Clay price preferred rose 5 points for the only shift of more than 4 in the industrials. Fractional moves were about even as to gains and losses.

Transamerica, 250 shares, and Anglo Bank dipped, then recovered the 3¼-point drop on selling ex-dividend, closing even. Magma, 500 shares, and Crown Willamette A, 85, Pacific Telephone rights, 214½; Pacific Lighting, 100 shares, Lowe were firm. Brothers at 2¾ and Spring Valley at 19¾.

SHIPPING NEWS AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

NEW RIO GRANDE OIL PLANS TOLD

Long Beach Terminal to Get All Elwood Output

Monthly Receipts Forecast at 800,000 Barrels

Vinvale and Olympic Plants Will Do Refining

BY WALDO DRAKE

The entire production of the Elwood fields of the Rio Grande Oil Company, averaging 800,000 barrels of crude petroleum monthly, will be brought to the company's Long Beach terminal after April 1, next, it was announced yesterday by Capt. M. M. Walk, marine superintendent. The greater part of the Elwood production has heretofore been dispatched to San Francisco for refining by other oil companies.

After discharge at the Long Beach terminal, the Elwood crude will be pumped via pipe line nineteen miles inland for refining at Rio Grande's Vinvale refinery. The Vinvale plant and Rio Grande's Olympic refinery at the local port, will thereby handle a minimum of 1,200,000 barrels of crude monthly, the additional 400,000 barrels coming from the Signal Hill and Santa Fe Springs fields.

To handle the big contract of pumping 27,000 barrels of crude daily through the nineteen-mile Long Beach-Vinvale pipe line, Rio Grande yesterday placed in operation twin Byron Jackson six-stage rotary pumps, which will shove the petroleum into the eight-inch pipe line at a pressure of 850 pounds per square inch. The big pumps are driven by two 250-horsepower General Electric motors, operating on 2300 volts.

The Rio Grande Oil Company yesterday put the final touches on its $2,000,000 fireproof marine terminal at Long Beach. The plant was begun on April 1, last, and as now completed includes a modern loading dock, twelve steel storage and supply tanks, with an aggregate capacity of 500,000 barrels, and an all-electric power system.

Pending arrangements to charter tankers for its own operation, the company will transport the Elwood crude here in southbound tankers of other local companies, according to Capt. Walk.

MANY TRAVELERS IN PORT OVER WEEK-END

Twelve hundred passengers will arrive or depart the port over the week-end on seven off-shore liners. Chief among them will be the Panama-Pacific electric liner California, arriving this morning with 600 travelers from New York, via Havana and the canal.

Others will be the Lasseo liner City of Honolulu, out for Honolulu at noon with 160 cabin passengers; the Dollar trans-Pacific liner President Cleveland, from the Orient tomorrow and departing for the Near West tomorrow noon; the two Panama Mail liners Ecuador, out for New York Monday with 125 passengers, and the Central American motorship City of San Francisco, in from the south this morning; the Italian motorship Leme of Navigazione Libera Triestina, sailing Monday for Mediterranean ports, and the Royal Mail motorship Lochmonar, sailing tonight for the United Kingdom.

Notables on the various ships include Frank Condon, the novelist, sailing on the Ecuador; Guy Bates Post, veteran actor, going to Honolulu on the City of Honolulu; L. A. Williams, youthful Beverly Hills sportsman, and Mrs. Williams, en route to Genoa on the Leme; Lieutenant-Commander G. B. Wilson, United States Navy, returning from duty in China on the President Cleveland, and A. H. Shaw, passenger traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad, arriving with Mrs. Shaw aboard the California.

Representatives of the Pacific-European steamship lines and local cotton shippers were yesterday near agreement on cotton rates for the 1930-31 season, according to reports from the conference in session at the Alexandria. It was unofficially reported that a rate of 60 cents per 100 pounds for cotton export from this port to Bremen or Liverpool had been offered by the steamship men, but cotton chiefs denied this.

While the cotton question is the paramount issue, other subjects under discussion include handling of citrus fruits and standardization of tariffs. M. A. J. Jensen, general agent on the Pacific Coast for the Fred Olsen Line of Norway, was named chairman of the Pacific-European conference, vice P. F. Brown, Coast manager of the Bank Line.

Mayor Porter made a short visit to the harbor yesterday and spoke at a noon luncheon before the San Pedro Rotary Club. He told of seeking to lift Los Angeles into a higher moral plane and put it on a sound economic basis, but that opposition was seeking to obstruct his every move. The City Seal and what it stood for were elucidated.

A little expedition seeking flowers never identified before will get under way this week-end for Lower California, on either the Hansen Company motorship Costero or the Sequoia. The former leaves tomorrow and the Sequoia Wednesday. Dr. Donald A. Johansen of Stanford University and representing the import division of the United States Department of Agriculture, heads the party. Blooms of cactae including Cocotillo, and night-blooming primrose will be sought. Pickling vats are to be taken along to bring back many specimens for future laboratory study. Cedros Island and Cape San Lucas, at the southern end of the peninsula, will be visited. The party expects to be gone a month.

The Texaco tanker Australia, recently here, collided in New York yesterday with the Cuba Distilling Company tanker William Isom, according to the Marine Exchange. Both were reported badly damaged.

LONDONER GUILTY OF MATRICIDE

Convicted of Strangling Mother Just Before Her Insurance Expired

[Copyright, 1930, by New York Times.]

LONDON, March 21. (Exclusive)—A murder trial which has gripped England for a fortnight ended today when Sidney Harry Fox, 31 years of age, was found guilty of strangling his mother at the Metropolitan Hotel in Margate last October. He killed her for the sake of $15,000 insurance money—policies on which would have expired twenty minutes after the crime, it was charged—and then set fire to the hotel room in the hope of covering traces of the murder, it is asserted.

Although Fox always looked immaculate and was a fastidious dresser, he and his mother had lived from hotel to hotel without paying bills or being able to pay. Two days before the murder Fox took out a policy entitling him to $5000 in event of his mother's death by violent external means—a "very curious business," the judge observed today.

When he walked upstairs to his mother's room on the night of the murder he had an unpaid bill of $97 in one pocket and two insurance policies in another.

Building-License Ordinance Held Valid by Court

OCEANSIDE, March 21.—Oceanside's much-discussed building code, which requires a contractor's license for all contractors and subcontractors, has been declared valid in the Superior Court in San Diego.

The court decision terminates a long fight by E. L. Forney to have the building ordinances of the city declared void. The court held that all the ordinances were in full force and effect, and reasonable, and that Forney, by not giving a $1000 bond, paying his license tax, and passing examination as a building contractor, as required by the ordinances, was not entitled to receive a building permit.

Judge S. M. Marsh, in passing upon the question, held that the fact that the voters voted down a similar license ordinance some years ago did not affect the present ordinance which was adopted by the City Council, and no referendum being filed against the same, the present ordinance therefore became a valid ordinance of the city.

Calf Kicks His Owner in Eye

ONTARIO, March 21.—A. Silvers, 638 East D street, won't see the point of the joke for a while but it was the tonic of spring in the air. He went among the cows and calves of his feed yard today to take stock of his stock.

A frisky calf inspired by the spring fever kicked and made a "bulls-eye" but the target happened to be Silver's eye.

IMPERIAL COUNTY'S REGISTRATION TOLD

EL CENTRO, March 21.—The voting strength of Imperial county when registration closed the 15th inst. for the annual city elections was 9074, according to figures made public today by County Clerk Cal Mousseau. "This establishes a new high record for March registration," Mousseau said, "and the figure is as high as is usually attained for the August primaries." Basing his estimates on the present registration, Mousseau predicted that the voting strength of Imperial county at the general election next fall would exceed 15,000.

APPROVAL GIVEN PACT ON POWER

War District and City's Bureau Ratify It

Boulder Show Warm Spirit of Co-operation

Mayor's Aide Cites Work Yet to be Done

Formal approval of the agreement on the allocation of Boulder Dam power was given by the directors of the Metropolitan Water District and the Los Angeles Board of Water and Power Commission at their meetings yesterday.

The formal approval of the Southern California Edison Company is expected to be given shortly. Representatives of the district, city and the company signed the agreement at a general conference Thursday night.

The meeting of the district board was attended by representatives of the City Council, the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Water and Power Commissioners, the Secretary of the Interior and the Southern California Edison Company. There was an explanation and discussion of the agreement and brief talks by a number of those present, all conspicuous in tenor, sounding a note of harmony and co-operation, and stressing the need for some real public work now to bring the Boulder Dam project into being.

DISTRICT TO SHARE

Chief Engineer Weymouth in explaining the effect of the agreement said that the district will get 36 per cent of the total firm power created at the dam, or 210,000 horsepower. The total firm horsepower to be generated will be 585,000 horsepower, assuming a dam 575 feet high, which is twenty-five feet higher than the present dam plans and but which the Department of the Interior desires. Under the power allocation announced by Secretary Wilbur last fall the district would have been given 275,000 horsepower, but it would have been given the "drawbacks" to meet demands of others eligible to allotment. The 36 per cent now allotted is not subject to drawbacks, and in addition the district has been given an surplus primary and secondary power. Until the upper dam begins to use all their water the power output will be 650,000 horsepower.

The city of Los Angeles and other municipalities, under the agreement, will receive 18 per cent of the total firm power and the Southern California Edison Company, 9 per cent. It is understood that the city will divide the 18 per cent with the other municipalities that have applied for it on a ratio of 7 per cent to Los Angeles and 6 per cent to the other municipalities.

The Edison company is the lessee of the 9 per cent, but will share its block of power with the San Diego Consolidated Gas and Electric Corporation, the Southern Sierras Power Company and the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, it was announced yesterday.

CO-OPERATION LAUDED

Herbert Ely, representative of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, who has been in the city several days energing on the negotiations, had a short talk yesterday, said that the importance of the settlement of the power allocations cannot be overestimated. He paid tribute to the spirit of co-operation manifested by all of the parties concerned in the allocation, particularly in the city and to the Edison Company for their view that the needs of the district are paramount. It was in this spirit, Mr. Ely said, that the company reduced its rate to 9 per cent and so agreed to arrange its program so that the district can have a large part of the secondary power, the use for which will be considerably less than that for primary power. Mr. Ely said, through careful engineering study, adjusted its needs to the smaller uses.

"While much remains to be done," he said, "we hope to see actual work on Boulder Dam started this year." Mr. Ely said. The project now calls for the drawing up of contracts after certain details are worked out, the signing of the contracts, and the request by the Secretary for the necessary appropriation from Congress, based on the contracts for power. Mr. Ely indicated the need for concerted action on the part of all California interests in bringing about the consummation of the project.

"The Department of the Interior will approve the contracts to Congress with its whole-hearted indorsement, and we will expect that the power out here will take the

GIRL AND AX BALK EVICTION

Landlord Capitulates to Save Door

Kathryn Schaffer Proves Able Guardian

YESTERDAY morning 17-year-old Kathryn Schaffer was left in charge of her four small brothers and sisters and their cottage home at 224 San Fernando Road. The owner of the property subsequently nailed the doors shut, after the family had failed to heed a notice to leave.

Two of the children were in school, the others playing outside, and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schaffer, away working. Kathryn was alone in the house when the landlord, A. J. Rice, appeared and announced his intention to nail the doors. Everything went fine, the police report indicated, until one of the small children knocked on the door, asking for bread and jam.

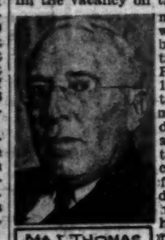
A furious pounding on the door with an ax persuaded the landlord to establish an armistice.

Kathryn explained that her father, an experienced landscape gardener, had come from Salt Lake City and had been out of work for several weeks. He finally obtained employment, starting to work yesterday. In the meantime, with youngsters gathered around her, Kathryn was preparing last night to move the brood to an auto camp.

APPOINTEE INDICATES SURPRISE

Walkup Asserts He Met Mayor Only Twice and Cannot Explain Selection

Maj. Thomas Walkup, whom Mayor Porter yesterday nominated to fill the vacancy on the Police Commission that will be caused by the resignation of Mark A. Pierce on April 1, next, has met the Mayor not more than twice, does not know any members of the present commission or of the police department, and has no idea why he is the Mayor's choice.



MAJ. THOMAS WALKUP

"I met Mayor Porter once during a political campaign and again at an officers' ball," Maj. Walkup stated last night. "This will be my first venture into civic politics and from what I gather the position of a police commissioner in this city is not an enviable one.

"I suppose that is due to the change of administration and the shake-up. All I know of the situation is what I have read in the newspapers. I am in no position at present to present my views on police work."

Maj. Walkup went on to explain that he came here seven years ago after serving as a major in the Army Air Corps during the World War. He said he was in charge of personnel. A short time after arriving here he said he invested in oil, a well near Redlands that turned out to be dry.

Since then he has "dabbled in oil" on his own account and is at present interested in a Venice oil development that is being held up for lack of a permit to drill, he declared. He added that he owns no property.

He resides in a hotel at 1015 West Fourth street and has a son residing in New York.

The Walkup appointment and those of two other commissioners, were referred by the Council to the Brief Visit to City Paid By Owen D. Young

Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric and author of the Young plan of war reparations, yesterday spent forty minutes in Los Angeles. He was in his private car which arrived here from Phoenix, Ariz., at 7:20 a.m. via Southern Pacific. He did not appear publicly while the car was shifted to the Short Line Limited, which left at 8 a.m. for San Francisco.

Mr. Young's secretary, W. E. Packer, explained that General Electric's head was en route to Berkeley, where he will be the principal speaker at the charter celebration exercises of the University of California on Monday.

Carloading Record Sighted During Next Quarter

Shippers Announce Requests for More Rail Space

Six Hundred at Conference Expect Business Gains

California is on the threshold of a record quarter.

Carloading requirements for the next ninety-day period established this to the satisfaction of approximately 600 shippers and railroad men at a meeting of the Pacific Coast Transportation Advisory Board at the Alexandria yesterday.

About 1 per cent more railroad cars, or 373,250 cars against 370,750 in the corresponding quarter last year, will be needed to transport the crops and manufactured products of California, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada to market, it was estimated yesterday. These requirements set a new all-time mark.

It was pointed out also that the carloading requirements for the approaching quarter will be 10 per cent above those of the first quarter.

EXPANSION EXPECTED

In addition to these estimates, regarded as a true barometer of business conditions, representatives of the Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Western Pacific, Union Pacific and Pacific Fruit Express told of plans to expend vast sums for new equipment in anticipation of expanding business throughout the year.

T. H. Williams of Los Angeles, assistant general manager of the Southern Pacific, stated that his line has decided on the immediate expenditure of $7,000,000 for train equipment to be delivered this year for service on the system's Pacific lines.

Orders, said Williams, have been issued for the construction of 524 units of train equipment. These include thirty-five locomotives, with tenders, five all-steel dining-cars, ten steel baggage cars, 100 drop and gondola cars, 300 automobile cars, fifty caboose cars, twenty tenders and four units of motorized work cranes, shovels and ditchers. Some of the equipment will be constructed in the railroad's shops. Williams also also announced that additional equipment expenditures for the current year are contemplated.

OTHER LARGE OUTLAYS

Expenditures of the other lines will total in excess of $13,301,110, this sum including expenditures for track extensions and new lines.

W. C. Kendall, manager of the car service division of the American Railway Association, reported that an analysis of statistics presented at the meetings of transportation advisory boards throughout the country shows a decided upward trend in business.

"California's reports today confirm the optimistic reports of other boards, of which there are thirteen," said Kendall. "Undoubtedly California's favorable weather conditions are responsible for the increase in car loadings predicted by the industries of this State.

"I also include in my statement Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada as well as California," he said.

GAINS ANNOUNCED

H. R. Brashear, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee, southern section, of the advisory board, reported to the meeting that the eight-week period that ended in February, indicated improvement in a number of lines in Southern California. He spoke specifically of the wearing apparel industry, the millinery industry and the motion-picture industry, saying that wearing apparel plants are all busy, that millinery establishments report a large increase in the sale of higher priced merchandise and that the film industry improved on its production of a year ago due in part to talking pictures' popularity.

Postal receipts, said Brashear, show a normal increase over a year ago, reflecting a sound business condition. He gave the figures for the last three months and the corresponding months a year ago as follows:

December, 1929, $1,414,283.97, against $1,280,718.31 in 1928;

January, 1930, $922,835.54, against $882,350.27 in 1929, and

February, 1930, $819,676.39, against $802,756.95 in 1929.

PETROLEUM INDUSTRY

A. C. McLaughlin, chairman of the petroleum committee, said that it is anticipated the petroleum industry will require 44,187 cars during the quarter ending June 30, an increase of 6 per cent over actual loading during the same period of 1929. This increase, he said, is due to normal growth of business.

"Concerning the position of the oil industry in general," McLaughlin

Russian Nobleman Likes America

Warm Welcome Given Distinguished Visitor

Grand Duke Alexander of Russia shaking hands with Mrs. S. Savitsky, a Russian resident of Los Angeles, who was in the crowd which met the titled visitor when he passed through yesterday on his way to Riverside. Standing between the Grand Duke and Mrs. Savitsky is the former Russian army officer, now also a resident of Los Angeles, Gen. Veselovsky.

GRAND DUKE HAS MISSION

Survivor of Russian Cataclysm, Now Here on Visit, Spreads Doctrine of Brotherly Love

Survivor of the tragic days of Red Russia when friends and relatives all about him were murdered by the Bolsheviki, Grand Duke Alexander, brother-in-law of the late Czar Nicholas II, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday for a visit in Southern California.

After a brief stopover he continued his journey to Riverside, where he will be the guest of Frank Miller at the Mission Inn.

The Grand Duke is charming of manner, speaks English fluently and in appearance meets the popular American conception of a member of European royalty. He is tall, rather slender and has a beard with a mustache the ends of which curl upward with a generous sweep. When asked for a few words, he invited the newspaper men into his compartment on the Sunset Limited of the Southern Pacific and chatted with them freely while he puffed on a cigarette.

PHILOSOPHY OF LOVE

Out from the turmoil and grief that have been Russia's he is in America a refugee, preaching a philosophy or religion of love. The need for love, for spiritual development if the world is to improve is his theme. Bolshevism is built on hate, immorality and materialism, he said. Because it is contrary to human nature it must fail, he believes.

The Grand Duke believes that one of the best ways to convince the masses that they do not want Bolshevism or a soviet form of government is to let them have a first-hand view of sovietism at work as it is in Russia.

"They talked of Siberia under the former regime," he said, "but today under the soviet it is many times worse. It is simply a life of hard labor for them and nothing for it. There are 150,000,000 slaves working for the 1,000,000 soviets over there. Sovietism has them in its iron grip."

One of the neatest demonstrations of what the enlightened working class really thinks of sovietism, he thinks, was when the delegation of Welsh miners went over to Russia and got a close-up of it. They went back to their homes confirmed against Bolshevism.

But the Grand Duke warned, America must be alert to the danger of Red propaganda obtaining a foothold for sovietism over here. They are very clever propagandists and have an organization highly disciplined, as illustrated by the re-

MEETING AT SAWTELLE CONCLUDED

Soldiers' Home Board of Governors Departs from Southern California

Concluding its four-day annual meeting at the Pacific branch, National Soldiers' Home, the board of governors left Southern California yesterday. Gen. George H. Wood of Ohio, president of the board, declared conditions at the Sawtelle institution, largest veterans' home in the nation, are excellent.

"Early next summer we will be in shape to take care of 1400 more veterans through the completion of the convalescent barracks," Gen. Wood said. "This will swell the total number of veterans at the home to 4500."

Asked how long it will be before the government can carry out its policy of replacing the old barracks with modern, fireproof structures, he said that will be taken up after the present building program is completed.

Prior to their departure board members unofficially commended the administration of Col. John A. Hadley, governor of the home, and Col. James A. Mattison, chief surgeon in charge of the hospital division. All official reports and findings are made at Washington.

JURY-BRIBE QUIZ AIDED BY DORAN

Tells Fitts of Suspicions at Time of Trial

Prosecutor to Reopen Whole Julian Debacle

Grand Jury Work Speeded; Berman Active

A new angle of the Julian jury bribery investigation that has already resulted in the indictment of six persons was disclosed yesterday when it was learned that Superior Judge Doran, before whom the Julian conspiracy case was tried in 1928, has furnished Dist.-Atty. Fitts with information that may lead to the indictment of more persons.

Although details of Judge Doran's disclosures were not revealed, it was learned from reliable sources that he told Fitts that at the time the case was being tried he became suspicious of the activities of one woman juror and started an investigation.

No conclusive evidence was revealed by the investigation at that time, it is said, but the recent disclosures are declared to have cast a new light on the old investigation and furnished a new avenue of approach.

QUESTIONING PLANNED

It is known that the District Attorney's office immediately laid plans to question two women in connection with the judge's revelations, and that the name of a well-known figure in legal circles is included in the list to be interrogated.

Among other reports at the District Attorney's office was one asserting that J. H. Weaver, involved in the investigation as an asserted "go-between," was seeking a grand-theft complaint against S. C. Lewis over 1589 shares of Julian stock which Weaver declares Lewis took from him.

LEWIS REPLIES

Lewis last night revealed that on the 17th inst., at Weaver's request, he forwarded the stock certificates to the offices of the Sunset Pacific Oil Company to have them regularly transferred so that Weaver might dispose of them.

"I've never touched his stock," Lewis said, "except to submit the shares to the company on Weaver's request, and as a favor to him, to have them transferred. The stock is now in the office of Mr. A. W. Shepherd, transfer clerk of the company, and as far as I know no one claims it is not Weaver's, certainly not me."

Although the bribery plots were the immediate interest of the District Attorney yesterday, he admitted that the whole scope of the Julian case is reopened again, with the possibility that many cases that have been dismissed may be reopened and new indictments sought. The activities of bankers and brokers who dealt in the Julian stock overissue or Julian financing are to be inquired into again, Fitts declared.

"My office," said Fitts, "is handicapped by the fact that many original documents in the case have disappeared, but with the help of Federal authorities, who gathered much material during the prosecutions of Berman and Lewis in the Federal Court here, we expect to regain much of the lost material."

BERMAN BUSY

The District Attorney refused even to intimate who may be involved in the new investigation, or how long it will be before definite results may be expected. He did not deny, however, that Jacob Berman, "bright young man of the Julian case," and formerly S. C. Lewis's right-hand man in handling Julian stock, is to furnish much of the material on which the new indictments are expected.

Berman was observed yesterday making frequent trips to the prosecutor's office with bundles of papers under his arm and rumor quickly identified them as documents from the secret archives of the defunct Julian company that will bring to light where much of the reputed $100,000,000 lost in the Julian debacle went.

Berman's new supposed desire to talk is attributed to the fact that both he and his brother, Louis, were indicted in recent bribery scandals and both are expected to make a

by Harry Carr

OH, LADIES, ladies, leave us a couple of lost tribes!

Miss Elizabeth K. Steen, a student at the University of California, is shopping for an airplane whereby to hunt up the Papi Rapes tribe of Indians in the jungles of Brazil. It seems that they forgot to check out after an altercation with some other Indians many years ago.

I haven't any particular objection to Miss Steen calling the Papi Rapes to time, but I do mourn that the world is becoming a tame place. There are left no mysteries, no quaint customs and no color. The next time I go down the west coast of Mexico I know that the peons I saw plowing with sticks will be wearing stylish collegiates and the girls will be trying to walk like the Ziegfeld Follies.

OUR AIR DEFENSE

The fact that 300 war airplanes accompany the fleet to the Caribbean, while 135 army planes will take part in maneuvers around Los Angeles in April is a pretty strong hint.

The most important problem of national defense is to find some way to defend the almost indefensible shore line of California. The defense of Los Angeles is such a tough problem that at least one plan is to abandon this city to the enemy.

If an air defense can be formulated it offers a way out.

WAR DANGERS

There is no secret that strategists anticipate a definite form of attack on the part of any possible enemy from the Pacific. It is this:

While a ship-for-ship fleet engages our fleet a flotilla of transports convoyed by destroyers will take another route and land. Provided the enemy fleet is willing to commit suicide it would be hard to head off the transports. Once the enemy landed in Southern California, it would be next to impossible to dislodge it. Southern California is a bowl with only two openings, both of which are approached from the east across deserts.

TAX SHARKS

Taxpayers gnaw their fingers while the California Taxation Improvement Association struggles with the problem of assessments.

The tax collectors in ancient Egypt who came along and took the fat cow had nothing on the special assessment experts. When you buy property you don't know what financial dangers hang over it. They swoop down upon you for widening streets you never heard of, and for ditches that seem to be somewhere down in Nicaragua.

Worst of all, these assessments are often passed under laws that would make a Chicago blackmailer blush. On one occasion I had to pay $44 to settle an assessment of $1.25. It is disgraceful and shameful that this State should act as a come-on and jackal for professional Shylocks.

EXTINCT CULTURE

The finding of an extinct culture among the prehistoric Eskimo tribes of Alaska would seem to be pretty strong indication of a pronounced change of climate in the Arctic.

At the present time the Eskimos have such a tough time with the struggle just to live that they have no time or inclination for making the pottery discovered in this old kitchen garbage heap.

Another indication of the cul-

ARMY PLANES BASE PICKED

Bombing Craft to be Used in War Maneuvers Will Hangar at Field in Burbank

The 180 army fighting planes that are scheduled to bombard Los Angeles in practice war maneuvers on April 26, next, will make their headquarters at the new $1,000,000 United Airport in Burbank, it was announced yesterday by Thomas P. Hamilton, president of the United Airport Company of California, following a telephone report from Sacramento by Maj. William E. Hale, aide to Gen. William E. Gillmore, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps.

Arrangements will be completed, Hamilton stated, to allow Southern Californians to obtain first-hand close inspection of the latest winged fighters that the Army operates.

The great swarm of ships will alight here as soon as they complete their annual concentration program, to be held this year at Sacramento from April 18 to April 25. It is possible that the April 26 date may be changed, but the time of the Los Angeles demonstration will not vary more than a day.

Details of the demonstration to be offered Angelenos have not been completed. It is assured, however, that the planes, representing every major combat airport in the country, will remain here at least one full day.

Efforts are being made to have the massed planes conduct a mimic night bombing attack on the metropolitan area. It is certain, however, that the craft will show all their wares during the daytime flying—formation flying with all planes in the air at one time, pursuit planes, attack ships, bombers and observation planes.

This will mark the first time that anywhere near the scheduled array of 180 planes will have appeared in Los Angeles. H. J. Adamson, representative of H. Trubee Davidson, assistant Secretary of War, came here several weeks ago to make arrangements for the demonstration.

Maj.-Gen. James F. Fechet, chief of the Army Air Corps, landed at United Airport yesterday with Capt. Ira Eaker of the Question Mark flight to inspect the new field. They also made a flight in the new Northrup all-metal low-winged cabin plane, developed at United as the only one of its kind in the world.

GASOLINE-PRICE WARFARE SPREADS INTO SUBURBS

Skirmishes in the gasoline price war yesterday spread to near-by cities with the announcement from Pomona that independent dealers have cut prices at their pumps to various levels with 15½ cents a gallon the lowest price. Officials of the larger oil refining companies here declared they will not change their tank-wagon prices and said that the only changes are those made by the dealers.

All of the major oil companies held to their former price of 15½ cents for their tank-wagon deliveries to service stations and contended there is no prospect of lowering this rate.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Van Fleet-Durkee Company, which operates more than 100 stations in various parts of the city, announced a cut in retail price to 16½ cents, but added that the new price will be confined to the metropolitan area of Los Angeles and will not affect any of the company's stations in San Francisco.

The prevalent price at these stations reducing their charges yesterday seemed to be "six gallons for $1." Location and brand seemed to be the controlling factors with the more advantageously located stations maintaining the usual price and the off-location stations doing most of the price cutting.

Officials of both the Richfield and Union Oil companies last night declared their prices will remain the same to dealers and in their own stations, but added they have no control over the prices asked by stations which buy and sell their products.

STATE TAXPAYERS MEET

Business Conditions and Levies Leader's Topic; Officers Elected and Year's Work Planned

Business conditions in California are dependent on the fiscal policies pursued by the governmental divisions of the State and the tax burden that is placed on the people, it was declared yesterday by Dr. Milbank Johnson of Pasadena, chairman of the board of the California Taxpayers' Association, in opening the fourth annual meeting of the association in the Subway Terminal Building.

Dr. Johnson made a plea for a vigilant and intelligent public opinion on matters of taxation to State leaders of the organization, who came here to elect officers and outline the year's work.

A. C. Hardison of Santa Paula was re-elected president, Dr. Johnson re-elected chairman of the board and George I. Cochran of Los Angeles re-elected treasurer.

NEW DIRECTORS

New members elected to the board of directors are Fred Bixby of Long Beach, representing live-stock interests; George D. Clark of San Francisco, representing manufacturing, and Fred S. Lack of Brawley, representing irrigated lands. Those re-elected to the board are Dr. William Bennett Munro of Pasadena, Mark L. Requa of Montecito and Victor H. Tuttle of Los Angeles.

The association plans to give particular attention this year to special assessments, the State budget, county and city budgets, and the carrying on of scientific surveys of governmental organizations, it was pointed out.

The organization also will continue its study of public expenditures and its program to increase economy and efficiency in the expenditure of public funds.

RETRENCHMENT URGED

"Present economic conditions demand just as much retrenchment in public expenditures as in private expenditures," Dr. Johnson stated in his opening address. "This is not the time for governments to spend money on services and projects that are not necessary.

"The increase in governmental costs in the State of California has been sudden and rapid. To bring down these costs is difficult, but we can accomplish it.

"We find that the special-assessment law conditions in this State are detrimental to the healthy

ANGRY HUSBAND HOLDS SUSPECT

Vernon Smith Abducted from Home in Venice

Deserted Spouse's Suspicion Fixed on Wrong Man

Gun Play by Wife-Seeker Leads to Arrest

While his frightened wife looked on helplessly, Vernon Smith, 39-year-old concessionaire, yesterday was abducted by an angry husband at the point of a gun from his home in Venice and then held captive and threatened with death for an hour before convincing his captor that he is blameless for the disappearance of the latter's wife.

MRS. HELEN HANSEN

Shortly after his release, Smith pointed out Roy Hansen as his abductor and caused his detention for questioning by Venice officers. Hansen is a sheet-metal worker employed by an airplane factory.

GUN CONCEALED

The daring abduction occurred about 2:15 p.m. Smith and his wife were in their home at 39 United States Island avenue, Venice, when Hansen drove up in a coupe, knocked for admission and, when Smith answered the door, commanded him to divulge Mrs. Hansen's whereabouts. Smith was unable to give him any information. Then Hansen covered him menacingly with a gun concealed in his coat pocket, he told police, and ordered him to enter his coupe.

Released from captivity an hour later Smith reported his experience to the Venice station. He told the officers Hansen took him to his home at 1730 Eleventh street, Santa Monica, and there threatened to blow his head off unless he revealed the whereabouts of Mrs. Hansen.

KNOWS HER CASUALLY

"I know Mrs. Hansen only casually," Smith explained in detailing his experience. "I've only met her a few times; and I haven't even seen her since shortly before last Christmas. But it took me a long time to convince Hansen. Finally he believed me; so he drove me back and dumped me out a block from my house."

Under questioning, according to the officers, Hansen admitted the abduction, but denied he had intended to shoot Smith, declaring he had tried only to "scare him." He said his wife, Mrs. Helen Hansen, 22 years of age, left his home on the 11th inst., and he had suspected Smith of knowing where she is.

Hansen was booked on charges of suspicion of kidnaping and of assault with a deadly weapon. Detective Lieutenants Neece and Maxwell were detailed to locate Mrs. Hansen.

cent Red demonstrations all over the world.

As to the religion of love that he is preaching, it is nothing new, he said. It is the teaching of Christ. But, he feels, there must be more of it in our educational scheme, beginning with the babe in the cradle. Then there will be no need for disarmament conferences. The difficulty at the London conference, he thinks, is not one of gun caliber or number of ships. It is the fighting nature of the peoples which is the stumbling block. In short, there is not the deep-seated will to disarm, the Grand Duke believes.

He has been in America nearly two years, but this is the first time he has been down here on the Coast. He has a very kindly feeling for America, having come here once before in 1893 on behalf of his government to thank the United States for several shiploads of wheat sent over to Russia to relieve famine conditions.

His wife, formerly Princess Xenia, sister of the late Czar, is in Paris. He has three sons working in the United States.

The Grand Duke was met at the station by a group of former Russian soldiers, members of the Russian Veterans' Society of the World War. The Grand Duke was chief of aviation for his country during the war, and he shook each veteran by the hand. They talked of the war, where each had been and of what is going on in Russia. Former Gen. Veselovsky, who is chairman of the veterans and wore his Cross of St. George, announced that the veterans plan to tender the Grand Duke a dinner shortly.

appropriate committees. In accordance with the usual procedure, the latter will submit their recommendations and the Council will pass on the nominees next Friday.

Another of the appointees is Col. F. C. Wiser, a physician and surgeon with offices in the Garland Building, who was named to succeed C. E. Burge on the Harbor Commission. The latter's term has expired. Col. Wiser has lived in California for fifteen years, the Mayor said. During the war he served overseas as the commander of a sanitary train regiment and after the war, according to the Mayor, he served under Herbert Hoover in charge of the feeding of children in Rumania.

W. L. Stevens, president of the Crown Laundry, 1626 Paloma avenue, was appointed to fill the vacancy on the Health Commission created by the death of Adolph Larson. The Mayor said Mr. Stevens has long been active in civic affairs and service clubs.

bid for immunity for information that they can furnish against others. It is pointed out that the grand jury based its indictments against Frank C. Grider and L. B. Groves, former Julian case jurors, on a statement made by Berman before them Thursday, and it is known that Berman, in addition, has made a complete statement to the District Attorney about his participation in the bribery plots.

GRAND JURY'S PLANS

Louis Berman, it developed at previous trials, frequently has been the emissary of his brother in arranging various deals, and his testimony in corroboration of Jacob is considered as highly valuable in any ensuing court actions that Fitts may bring.

With this situation existing, it was learned yesterday that the grand jury, which originally had scheduled its next meeting for Tuesday, has decided to convene Monday to dispose of minor matters and thus leave a clean slate for Tuesday's session.

Additional grand jury investigation of the case is expected to get underway Tuesday at 10 a.m., it was announced by Special Prosecutor Stafford.

SUMMONS FACED

Dist.-Atty. Fitts and Stafford expect to spend today and Sunday studying a mass of records compiled during the Julian inquiry and trials. During this study, which may reveal additional details on which the jury should be advised, names will be taken from the records. If these witnesses are believed to be able to shed any light on the newer developments, or to disclose information on which indictments may be based, they will be summoned to appear.

"There is such a huge amount of reading that must be done," Fitts said, "that it is difficult to reach a decision in such a short time. It may be that we can reach a conclusion Saturday, but I think we will do well to get the situation ready for the jury by Tuesday. The extra-day session Monday will dispense with routine matters and clear the way for such matters on the Julian cases as we are able to present."

MANY QUESTIONED

In line with the grand jury program, Blayney Matthews, chief investigator for the District Attorney's office, yesterday had his men busy questioning many persons both at his office and throughout the city.

Among those who appeared at the Hall of Justice were Miss Mildred Wallace, former secretary to Jacob Berman; Fred L. Packard, once a clerk in the Julian stock office and Charles Reimer, once a personal investigator for former Dist.-Atty. Keyes. Miss Wallace remained at the District Attorney's office during the greater part of the day.

Whether the persons questioned yesterday will be taken before the grand jury Tuesday, was not disclosed, but Fitts declared that Harold L. Davis, former chief deputy District Attorney under Keyes and himself convicted on bribery and awaiting decision on his appeal, will be given an opportunity to tell the jurors what has happened to various documents that Fitts says are missing and that were a part of the original Julian cases. Davis was in charge of the prosecution of the original Julian conspiracy cases.

Both Fitts and Matthews denied that they have under investigation information that Louis Krause, asserted jury fixer, went to San Francisco at one time to buy diamonds with which to bribe Julian jurors. They also scoffed at rumors that Lewis, through his wife, once shipped a huge sum of money to China for trans-shipment to Jacob Berman, who at that time had fled to Europe.

KRAUSE IN TROUBLE

Charles S. Long of the United States Lines at San Francisco, who was chief steward on the steamer President Harrison in 1927, when Mrs. Lewis sailed for Shanghai, said he saw no evidence during the trip that Mrs. Lewis had with her a trunk "bulging with bills." Long was en route to Los Angeles last night.

While Long's statement seemed to halt inquiry along the line of Julian money being sent to China—and Fitts and Matthews said they were not interested, anyhow—records at San Francisco showed that a grand-theft charge against Krause was dismissed there in August, 1928.

The charge was brought by Max Abrahams, a Market-street jeweler, who had accused Krause of theft of four diamond rings. Abrahams, however, refused to prosecute on the grounds that restitution had been made. Some investigators assert those jewels were intended to bribe Julian case jurors.

Records at San Quentin show that Krause has made two trips to the prison this year, but officials did not disclose the reasons for the visits.

Albert Marco, convicted vice-boss now in the prison, was questioned about Krause yesterday and denied that he knew the private detective or that he ever knew of any of the activities assigned to Krause by Fitts and witnesses.

KRAUSE TELLS OF "EXPOSE"

Asserted Jury Fixer, Arraigned With Five Others, Says He Went to Officials Year Ago

Charges that Louis Krause, asserted jury fixer, more than a year ago had volunteered information to the District Attorney's office about jury tampering, enlivened proceedings yesterday in Superior Judge Wood's court, where the six defendants, indicted Thursday for asserted bribery in connection the acquittal of seven in the Julian conspiracy cases in 1928, were arraigned.

The charges were forthcoming from Attorney S. S. Hahn, representing Krause, while trying to have his client's bail reduced from $25,000 to $5000, the same bail set by the grand jury for the other defendants. The others are at liberty on bail.

VISIT RECOUNTED

"Your Honor," said Hahn, "Krause went to the District Attorney's office more than a year ago and informed the authorities that he had information that Jacob Berman had tried to tamper with the Julian jury."

Hahn further asserted that a statement was taken from Krause at that time in which Krause was instructed to say that he had no evidence of jury tampering, and that no further action was taken by the District Attorney's office.

Special Prosecutor Stafford, who represented the District Attorney's office, declared that on the contrary the District Attorney's office had suspected Krause for some time and the latter's frequent appearance in courtrooms where major trials were in progress caused him to be placed under surveillance almost continuously, particularly during one of the Pantages trials.

"Well, if they found anything, why did they not arrest him?" countered Hahn. The defense attorney further asserted he has documentary evidence to prove his assertions and will produce it at the proper time.

BAIL AT $15,000

After listening to the arguments Judge Wood decided that Krause's bail should be higher than the others but that $25,000 was too high, so he reduced it to $15,000. Up to a late hour last night, however, Krause had been unable to produce the necessary cash or bond and remained in jail.

All of the six defendants in the bribery cases appeared for arraignment at 10 a.m. yesterday and after some argument it was decided that each will be allowed until next Tuesday at 10 a.m. in which to enter pleas to the indictments.

Frank C. Grider, former Julian-case juror, was the only one who was not represented by an attorney, with the exception of S. C. Lewis, who, although his last occupation was that of president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, is an attorney and chose to represent himself. Judge Wood advised Grider to get an attorney at once.

Attorneys for Jacob Berman, Louis Berman, L. B. Groves and Krause made no strenuous objection to Tuesday as the time to plead, although Lewis asked that the matter go over until Thursday.

"BUNK," SAYS FITTS

After the arraignment was over Krause made many other statements, on most of which he "cooled down" before the day was over. In the beginning, however, he asserted that he had knowledge that a "high county official" had accepted $60,000 from Jacob Berman in connection with a case, but later modified this by stating that his information was based on what Berman told him.

"Pure bunk," was Dist.-Atty. Fitts's comment when he was told of Krause's assertions.

"It is true that a member of my staff of investigators took a statement from Krause about a year ago," the prosecutor continued, "but the contents of that I cannot make public at this time. Krause is a defendant in these cases and the statement will be forthcoming when the cases go to court. I would not dignify his utterances by further discussing them."

APPROVAL GIVEN PACT ON POWER

same attitude and help get the job done," Ely said.

SANBORN PRAISES ELY

Councilman Sanborn, when called upon by Chairman Whitsett, said as President of the Council he was delighted at the outcome. It is a big job to be done, he said, but it will bring ample reward. Later he complimented Mr. Ely by saying he felt that the agreement could not have been reached were it not for the type of representative Secretary Wilbur had sent out here to carry on the negotiations.

R. H. Ballard, president of the Edison company, said his company was glad to do its small share in consummating the settlement and to have a place in the great project. "We believe, of course, that the final consummation of the Boulder Dam water plan will bring added prosperity to Southern California, even though it bring more municipal power," he said smilingly. "We pledge again today our wholehearted support of the Boulder Dam project."

Henry O. Wheeler, speaking for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, added his congratulations to those who brought about the agreement. Former Chief Engineer Mulholland, in characteristic vein, spoke of the necessity of bringing water in from the Colorado, "for I have no doubt that the city will perish unless additional water is brought in," he said. He was the first one to suggest that water be brought in from the river, he said.

Chief Electrical Engineer Scattergood noted some of the hurdles that had been gotten over in the history of the project, and gave Secretary Wilbur credit for his great part in the work.

John Bullock, who has been given a great share of the credit for the agreement, said that too much praise could not be given the Edison company for its stand in the matter. "When I first became a director in the district, many people warned me to be on guard against the company," he said. "I have found the warning not justified. Everyone, it seems to me, should understand the splendid co-operation from the company. Why, at yesterday's meeting, the company offered to withdraw if we thought we could get along better without them. For myself, I think the city and the district can do a better job with the company in the picture than with them out of it. All the company wants to see is water brought here from the Colorado River whether they get any power or not out of it."

William C. Mullendore, counsel for the company and yesterday elected to a vice-presidency, reiterated the company's stand, and said the agreement brings the project nearer to reality than ever before. Others who spoke included Water and Power Commissioner Scofield, Councilman Williams, W. B. Mathews, Councilman Randall and Chief Engineer Van Norman.

Monday morning Mr. Ely will meet representatives of the municipalities outside of Los Angeles who have filed applications for Boulder Dam power and who are to share the 19 per cent with the city. How the power is to be shared by the cities is to be discussed. Some of the directors of the metropolitan district will be present also. Not all of the cities making applications are members of the district. Those which have made filings for power include: Pasadena, Glendale, Burbank, Beverly Hills, Newport Beach, Santa Ana, Fullerton, Colton, Riverside and San Bernardino.

DEMURRER ARGUMENTS CONCLUDED

Judge Takes Matter Under Submission in Stockholder Suit on Julian Overissue

After fourteen court days of argument on demurrer to the Julian stockholders' recovery action in Superior Judge Tappaan's court the entire matter was taken under submission by the court yesterday morning. No decision is expected until some time next week.

S. C. Lewis, former president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, and now a central figure in the Julian jury-bribery cases, will resume the giving of a deposition in the civil action Monday morning, according to announcement by attorneys for the plaintiffs.

It was after Lewis had testified for more than a week that his deposition was discontinued to allow the argument on demurrer to get under way. In the first portion of his testimony Lewis blamed the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and a large group of local brokers for the crash of his company and declared that they traded in the overissued stock with full knowledge that it was worthless.

said, "conditions on the Pacific Coast for several years past have been unsatisfactory, due primarily to the great overproduction of crude oil in California, with the consequent large increase in surplus stocks of crude oil, fuel oil, gasoline and other petroleum products. However, the outlook for 1930 is more encouraging that it has been for some time."

McLaughlin said that practically all operators in the State are complying with a voluntary curtailment program and that it is expected production in California will be placed in balance with demand. Furthermore, he continued, refining units have agreed to comply with the request of the Federal Oil Conservation Board to cut refinery runs.

"A further beneficial factor," he continued, "is the probable effectiveness of the State gas law, which will no doubt be inaugurated within the next week."

Among the car requirement estimates presented were the following:

Automotive industry, 7480 box cars, an increase of 9.6 per cent over the same period in 1929; beans and seeds, 455 cars, equal to the loading during the same period last year; canned foods, an increase of 3.6 per cent; cement, 14,584 cars, equal to the actual loadings during the second period in 1929; chemicals and explosives, 3287, an increase of 12 per cent; grain, flour and mill products, 14,980 cars, an increase of 20.9 per cent over 1929; packinghouse products, 825 cars, an increase of 2 per cent; and sugar and sugar beet, an increase of 7 per cent.

GASOLINE PRICE WAR SPREADING

clusive)—Gasoline prices in certain sections of the city today dropped as low as 16 cents a gallon despite efforts of dealers to prevent a threatened gas price war similar to that last year. The majority of the service stations were quoting gas at 21 cents a gallon, including the State tax of 3 cents.

The present situation started two weeks ago when some stations handling independent gasoline announced gasoline at 18 cents a gallon. Near-by stations handling products of major companies met the cut and the competition now has the price down to 16 cents.

Erie Official Here Describes Honor to California

Fruits of West Nourish and Provide Business

Rail Man Unstintedly Gives Credit for Prosperity

Not only the business stability but the principal programs of industrial development for the year 1930 in the densely populated States east of Chicago depend, to a remarkable extent, upon the lettuce, cantaloupes and citrus fruits of Southern California.

This statement, opening up a vista of three-quarters of the nation's 125,000,000 inhabitants dependent upon the perishable products of Southern California for their life sustenance, was made yesterday by Vice-President Carl Howe of the Erie Railroad.

Mr. Howe has just concluded his yearly visit to Los Angeles. He arrived last Saturday, conferred with executives of the local office, looked over the business and industrial situation, met old friends, played several games of golf and departed last night for San Francisco, where he will carry out a similar program of business and amusement with officials of the company there.

BASED ON KNOWLEDGE

Mr. Howe's reference to Southern California's fresh food products was based, he stated, on a widespread study he has made of conditions throughout the country recently.

"The purpose," he said, "was to obtain a first-hand knowledge of this year's prospects for Southern California fruits and vegetables. The prospects, I find, are indeed promising. I would say that 75 per cent of the citrus fruits and principal vegetable commodities consumed east of Chicago come from California. The transportation of these commodities is not only a gigantic enterprise in the distribution of foodstuffs but contributes to the prosperity and industrial development of those States."

BUSINESS BETTER

While Mr. Howe described the general business and industrial conditions of the entire country, such as to allow little pessimism, he declared, he found conditions here not only stable but showing a remarkable improvement on other sections of the nation.

"Some persons in the East are inclined to believe that the recent stock-market crash affected the entire country. From what I have seen and figures I have obtained on my western visit I would certainly say that the crash not only did not affect California and other Western States but that business and industrial growth continued here as though there had never been such a financial catastrophe."

NEW CITY PARLEY

As to Los Angeles in particular Mr. Howe said:

"Coming here each year is like coming to a different city. On one visit I see an old building or vacant lot on one corner and a year later I am astounded to observe a completed height-limit structure of modern architectural design on the same site. The growth of this city, even to a chronic tourist like myself, is amazing. And I must always admit that a game of golf in Southern California's sunshine at this time of the year is something worth traveling across the continent for."

And as for Chicago, where Mr. Howe has his headquarters, he said: "When a lot of people think of Chicago they think of machine guns and racketeers. But it is not as bad as it is painted. It is just that it seems to receive more advertising along these lines. Every large city has its crime element. Chicago no more than others. Business conditions there are good."

Tunnel Leaper, Badly Injured, Fights Off Aid

Just as a Pacific Electric street car turned the curve to enter the north portal of the Hill-street tunnel yesterday forenoon a man believed to be O. J. Smith, about 35 years of age, leaped from the parapet high above.

Instead of landing in front of the car his body struck a wire, bounced and fell to one side of the tracks. He was taken in a police ambulance to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, where surgeons stated he had a broken left ankle, right leg, right wrist, possible internal injuries and deep head lacerations.

Struggling against the efforts of surgeons to administer emergency treatment the man refused to answer questions other than to say that he had been suffering an incurable disease. The name of O. J. Smith was found written on a slip of paper taken from a pocket. His condition, it is stated, is critical.

Porter Wants $60,000 Voted for Firebreak

Mayor Porter yesterday asked the City Council to appropriate $60,000 to construct firebreaks in the San Monica Mountains. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

In his letter the Mayor discussed the fire hazard in the mountains at length and said Chief Scott had prepared comprehensive plans for the construction of firebreaks in all the sections of the mountains within the city limits, but that the carrying out of these plans had been delayed by lack of funds. The Mayor also reminded the Council that recently the county government appropriated funds for the construction of firebreaks and other fire-prevention measures in the mountains.

If the Council makes the $60,000 appropriation, the Mayor said, "the money could be used at once to remove a critical situation of unemployment and at the same time be beneficial in helping to abate a very serious fire hazard."

Check Reveals 40 Per Cent of Names Erroneous

City Clerk Pledges Quick Recount of Signers

Daily reports on the findings of those checking the Bell cement referendum petitions yesterday caused City Clerk Domingues to announce that a recount and recheck of all petitions will be made by his office. Petitions circulated by persons found to be inexperienced, showed from as 31 per cent of legal signatures. Later yesterday the average was modified and an estimate made by officials revealed that 40 per cent of legal signatures was apparently 40 per cent.

Many petitions showed a higher count, it was reported, but they were cut down by the low percentage of those first counted. The number of names on these first petitions was not a large proportion of the whole.

CHECK FINISHED TUESDAY

Working day and night on the task of checking and verifying names, the clerks of the City Clerk office finished their work by Monday night or early Tuesday, it was announced yesterday.

"A letter will be sent out to every person which the checkers are unable to verify as having a legal right to vote," said City Clerk Domingues. "The persons to whom the letters are sent will be asked if they have registered since January 30, and if they have moved since that time. They also will be asked to have signed the referendary petition.

"In case they claim to have been properly registered and to have signed the petition and we have failed to certify them they will be asked to come to the office and we will investigate their status. This office will do everything possible to make a fair check of this petition."

TO DISPUTE FIGURES

It was made clear that no figures are being given out officially as to the percentages are based on survey examinations. Had the petitions been filed before the last day allowed, the 15th inst., in time to have allowed an official check, suppositions might have been made that the petition been found invalid, but that privilege ceased on the City Clerk Domingues said, but that privilege ceased on midnight granting Bell Canyon voters went into effect.

There will be a meeting at the Beverly Hills Hotel Tuesday to discuss the effect of a rock quarry operation on property in Beverly Hills.

Porter Wants $60,000 Voted for Firebreaks

Supervisor Porter yesterday asked the City Council to appropriate $60,000 to construct firebreaks in the San Fernando Mountains. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

In a letter the Mayor discussed the fire hazard in the mountains at length and said Chief Scott had prepared comprehensive plans for the construction of firebreaks in the outlying areas of the mountains lying within the city limits, but that the carrying out of these plans has been delayed by lack of funds. The letter also reminded the Council that a portion of the county government appropriated funds for the construction of firebreaks and other protective measures in the mountains.

If the Council makes the $60,000 appropriation, the Mayor said, "this money could be used at once to relieve a critical situation of unemployment and at the same time be helpful in helping to abate a very grave fire hazard."

Ruth Ann, 6-year-old Ruth Hurlbut of 1201 South Ditman street is believed to have been saved from death as the result of 181 consecutive hours of work over the girl by firemen of the inhalator squad from Engine Co. No. 2 of the county fire department at Laguna.

The girl died yesterday, according to a report of deaths from pneumonia which was received by the fire department. Ruth was on the verge of death from pneumonia when an emergency call for the inhalator was sent to the Laguna fire department.

Capt. Mason and Firemen Alpi, Knapp and Turner responded. They worked in shifts pumping oxygen into the girl's congested lungs to keep her spark of life. Yesterday the girl had rallied sufficiently so that her physician felt the inhalator service was no longer necessary.

BAKMAN DEATH TRIAL ORDERED

Los Banos Contractor Held to Superior Court

Whitson Killing Related at Preliminary Hearing

Judge Says Suspect Shall Not Be Given Bail

Daniel F. Bakman, Los Banos contractor, was ordered held without bail yesterday to await trial on murder charges growing out of the shotgun killing of Guy Whitson, 3715 Riverside Drive, Burbank, at a lonely spot on Dark Canyon Road on the night of February 25, last. The order was issued by Municipal Judge Ballard following a brief preliminary hearing.

Harry Stukey, also of 3715 Riverside Drive, who was riding with Whitson at the time of the shooting, was the first witness called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman.

Stukey declared Bakman drove his automobile in front of Stukey's, forcing it from the road, and, after it had stopped, approaching it and ordering Whitson to get out, as he wanted to speak to him. Whitson refused, he said, whereupon Bakman went back to his own car and got a shotgun. He again ordered Whitson to get out of the car and, when the latter did not obey, leveled his shotgun and fired, Stukey said. The charge tore through Whitson's heart, killing him instantly. Bakman then re-entered his own machine and drove away, Stukey said, declaring that he himself continued on down the Dark Canyon Road to a service station, from which he telephoned police.

Detective Lieutenants E. C. Taylor and O. D. Tuttle of the Hollywood division, who arrested Bakman later at the home of his sister-in-law at 11503 Morrison street, North Hollywood, told of his arrest.

The structure, in three units, will occupy the entire block bounded by Wilshire Boulevard, Highland and Citrus avenues and Carlin Way. The site has a 265-foot frontage on Wilshire and a depth of 200 feet.

BOARD TO FIX GAS-OIL RATIO

Judge Hazlett Appoints Three Engineers

Will Study Situation at Santa Fe Springs

Seek to Find Equitable Basis of Wastage

Ralph Arnold, Joseph Jensen and Frank E. O'Neill, geologists and petroleum engineers, were appointed late yesterday by Superior Judge Hazlett as the body of experts who will make an investigation of conditions in the Santa Fe Springs oil field to aid the court in establishing an equitable gas-oil ratio for each leasehold in the area.

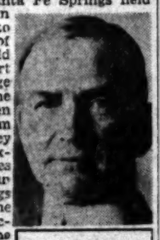
FRANK E. O'NEILL

The appointment of such a was agreed upon by James S. Bennett, representing the State in the prosecution of the preliminary injunction suit, brought against the operators to restrain the wastage of natural gas in the field, and attorneys for the defendant companies, just before a temporary restraining order was signed by Judge Hazlett on Wednesday.

JOSEPH JENSEN

Ralph Arnold is a petroleum engineer and geologist, working independently. Joseph Jensen is a petroleum engineer in the employ of the Associated and the Superior Oil companies. The third member of the board, Franw E. O'Neill, is a petroleum engineer, employed by the Superior Oil Company.

The duties of the engineers will be to examine the general situation in the Santa Fe Springs field particularly in reference to conditions of each leasehold and to report back to Judge Hazlett at the end of fifteen days. From then on they will act as expert witnesses for the court in any hearings that might come up in connection with the temporary injunction now in force in the field to prevent gas wastage.



RALPH ARNOLD

The three men will be very important witnesses at the hearing on the State's petition for a permanent injunction which has been set by Judge Hazlett for June 16 next.

The chief task of the engineers will be to determine a gas-oil ratio for each leasehold in the field, that is, fix the amount of natural gas that can be wasted with the production of each barrel of oil. Efforts will be made to fix a ratio that is equitable to all so that oil can be produced and at the same time prevent wastage of gas.

PAY OFFERED CHILDREN FOR BIBLE MEMORIZING

Preachers no longer are to have a monopoly on the Bible in the sense of getting paid for quoting Holy Writ, according to Silas Alden Condit, who is offering sums ranging from 5 cents to $2 to boys and girls who learn by heart the scriptural passages which he chooses for them to memorize.

Mr. Condit, who is a descendant of John Alden and Priscilla, and president of the Alden Kindred Society of California, will conduct Scripture-reading classes from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. every Sunday at the Shakespeare Club on Los Robles avenue, Pasadena, and all boys and girls under 14 years of age are invited.

Following are some of the prizes offered for memorizing scriptural passages: John iii, 16 (the Golden Text of the Bible,) 5 cents; Twenty-third Psalm, 10 cents; Beatitudes, 15 cents; Ten Commandments, 25 cents; 119th Psalm, $2; for memorizing Westminster Catechism, $2. One cent per verse will be paid for the repetition from memory of any verse of the Bible.

"Children of all races, colors and creeds are welcome to attend our classes," said Mr. Condit. "What we are trying to do is to instill into the minds of the young the words and spirit of the Book of Books. When a child has God's word in his mind and heart it is practically impossible for him to go astray. Good citizenship is a matter of psychology and early training in noble principles is the safety of the rising generation."

Thinks how profitable it would be for you to take lessons in the art of candy making, and cake decorating and know how to prepare glace fruit. The Liberty Candy Co. can teach you! Call to see them at once in reference to their plan, won't you? Their address is 400 Grant Bldg., 355 S. Broadway. (TUcker 4156.)

In passing open-air markets these days and viewing the gorgeous array of fresh vegetables, it often enters my mind to wonder whether my readers take full benefit of their opportunities, that is make a salad at least once a day and you know no salad is complete without a dressing made with the celebrated Castruccio Extra Virgin Sublime Olive Oil which all reliable grocers sell.

Apple custard whip—Make ready one and one-half cupfuls of seasoned, strained apple sauce and blend it with one cupful of thick, sweetened boiled custard, flavored with vanilla and maraschino cordial. Chill on the ice and when ready to serve, fold in one-half cupful of stiffly whipped cream and the stiffly whipped white of one egg. Serve in tall glasses and top with a maraschino cherry.

The unusual piece of furniture you have wanted to have made—to reupholstering of your overstuffed furniture, may be done in its perfection by H. E. Simank of 725 W. 9th, TUcker 2462. Mr. Simank does excellent work at very fair prices, yes, he gives estimates and submits prices.

A tasty dessert—Cut up oranges, bananas and pineapple, also a little apple, if desired; cover with sugar; if there is not enough juice a little water may be added. Serve in sherbet glasses with any fancy cake.

If linoleum is waxed it will wear longer and remain brighter. First wash a small space with steaming hot water; then wipe it dry and while still warm apply the wax, rubbing it in well.

Brass as well as silver may be replated by the Peerless Platers, 239½ S. Spring st. (upstairs.) Take your shabby andirons in and let them make them like new. For silver knives, forks and tablespoons they charge but $3.50 a dozen to replate—teaspoons for $2.50 a dozen. Reasonable as can be, don't you agree?

Excellent cheap furniture polish—Mix one-half teacupful of light motor oil with one pint of gasoline; apply with soft cloth and polish with soft dry cloth. Another good polish is made by mixing in a bottle equal parts of raw linseed oil and kerosene; shake it thoroughly and apply sparingly as above.

All the shirt troubles your husband has will come to an end when he seeks the assistance of Arthur M. Werner, the famous Custom Shirt maker of 111 S. Spring St. (MU. 1589.) He alters old and new shirts; does repair work and makes to order the finest fitting shirts your husband could ask for.

To kill worms in flower pots, water the soil with strong soapsuds, or use a teaspoonful of ammonia in a quart of water. Any worms which are not killed will come to the surface for air and can be destroyed. Use several times taking care not to get it on the plant. A small funnel will be found excellent for this or for ordinary watering of house plants.

A new discovery that properly prepared coffee is a great aid in hastening convalescents to the return of full health and vigor, is shown by the letter below. In taking advantage of this discovery, however, it must be borne in mind that such results are only accomplished by the use of the proper healthful coffee-making appliances and the coffee which has been specially adapted in every way for making a healthful beverage with those appliances.

Joannes Corporation,
Gentlemen:

I believe our day would be incomplete and everything go wrong, if we were to begin the first meal with anything but Ben-Hur Drip Coffee. It has become such a pleasure and privilege to make this coffee and with such ease and economy. Truly it is like playing house and no chance to have anything but a delicious "that's it" cup of coffee.

Its color, flavor and appearance, which after all counts a great deal, is absolutely correct. It may grace the table of a most fastidious and particular hostess, with dignity and is always reliable and brings forth many compliments. Personally I have been besieged for "that coffee method," and imagine how surprised they are to know it's the easiest, simplest, most perfect way and best of all, so economical.

Our family jokingly call it "fool and bride proof" and we all are adepts at making Ben-Hur Drip Coffee, but try to vie with each other for perfection . . . and it can't be more.

In the sick room it is most indispensible and personally I have had a great deal of experience in administering a good cup of coffee in various instances. The weakest stomach becomes most friendly toward Ben-Hur Drip Coffee and after fevers, when one is quite below normal, it has acted as no other stimulant could, brought back vitality and the general condition has improved remarkably under its gentle, harmless stimulating action. I have seen it coax the most listless and careful and suspicious eater just by its aroma and rich color, then, of course, the battle is won, when they "just taste it, please."

Oh, but the Laura C. Scudder famous Mayflower potato chips are delectable with sandwiches on Sunday night or any other time for that matter. You only have to try them once to be convinced that they are most superior! Their freshness and crispness have an instant appeal. Remember, Mayflower potato chips are sold at all the better stores.

For cracks in furniture—Fill the cracks with beeswax slightly softened to make it pliable, press it firmly in and smooth the surface with a thin knife; then sandpaper the surrounding wood, collect the dust and work it into the beeswax in the crack. After staining and varnishing it the repair will scarcely be noticeable.

Won't you give all your clothes you no longer want, as well as articles of all kinds you do not need, to the Children's Hospital Salvage Department at 712 Maple ave.? They can utilise everything of the sort and you will be assisting a most worthy charity. Suppose you make up a bundle for them this very day. Oh, yes, their phone number is TUcker 1203.

For scratched furniture—Mix beeswax and turpentine to the consistency of syrup; pour a little on a woolen cloth and rub it well into the scratches; then polish quickly with dry flannel and the scratches will disappear or nearly so.

The account you, of course, are going to open in the Woman's Department of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association, is going to be the best investment you could possibly make. Not only will it be profitable to you in saving but the advice you receive, the counsel given by no other than Miss Grace S. Stoermer (the gracious head of this department,) will be in itself priceless.

When potting flowers or preparing window boxes, scatter some old nails through the bottom layer of soil; then fill with rich soil and plant the flowers. The nails will rust through watering of the soil and result in more sturdy plants.

Today's recipe for fish is a great favorite. Naturally it calls for a Guasti product—why, do you know that after once using, say Guasti Cooking Sherry or Guasti Sauce a la Berey, your viands taste flat when you don't have any to put into them? Fish loaf, you will be told how to prepare this time, and oh, but it is good!

BAKED FISH WITH RICE

Two cupfuls of cooked fish (any kind,) two cupfuls boiled rice, two tablespoonfuls chopped bell peppers, two tablespoonfuls chopped parsley, one tablespoonful chopped onion, two tablespoonfuls melted butter, one-quarter cupful water, one-quarter cupful Guasti Sauce a la Berey, or Guasti Cooking Sherry, two eggs, pepper to taste.

Simmer onion and bell pepper in water about five minutes, add to rice. Marinate fish in wine before adding to the rice. Stir in the butter and unbeaten eggs. Put in individual buttered cups and sprinkle with parsley. Set cups in pan of water and bake in moderate oven for thirty minutes. Serves four.

Let me remind you, by the way, that all better stores sell Guasti products, including Guasti Cooking Sherry. If you have any difficulty buying it, call the Italian Vineyard Company of 1248 Palmetto street, (MUtual 2124) and they will give you the name of your nearest dealer who can supply you with what you desire.

What a host of new ideas we gather with the advent of spring! The very first thought which comes to mind is to bring about some changes in the home furnishings—change the appearance of Nancy's room we'll call it—give Phillip a new or altered-in-appearance bedroom set; paint the old breakfast-room furniture some gay, cheery color. Well, with that idea settled upon, your next step is a visit to Mathews Paint Company's store which is nearest you. There you will find alluring wallpaper for Nancy—paper she will simply adore—and for Phillip you may decide on the color lacquer paint he would like best. You will find Pratt & Lambert's "61" lacquer paint dries in a jiffy—and goes on smooth as glass. It's quite the most perfect paint for your breakfast set, you know.

Now for Mathews's three convenient addresses: One is at 1345 S. Hill; a second is located at 1309 N. Vine, Hollywood, while there is a third at 740 E. Green, Pasadena.

Don't take life too seriously—you will never get out of it alive.

Why not decide now to have some new fluff rugs made? Then, having made that decision, phone the Hoffman Rug Works, 2914 W. Jefferson st. (EMpire 2048) to call at your house for the old carpets to have them made out of. Their prices are very small and they do beautiful work.

To make new plants from ivy, loop back one of the long shoots of the ivy into the pot and pin it down with a hairpin at a point where the little feelers have already been sent out; these feelers in contact with the soil develop into roots; leave it attached to the main stem until the new roots are well grown, then cut off the new plant and plant it in another pot. With care five or six plants can be grown from the original one.

It just seems as though everybody was going down to Agua Caliente for the Agua Caliente Handicap to be run tomorrow! Now may I not urge you to stop on the way down at Travaglini's Cafe San Clemente, at San Clemente, Cal., which is just half way to San Diego, on the Coast Highway.

You will find the food of the utmost deliciousness: The atmosphere charming, while the hospitality shown and attention given you by no other than Mr. Travaglini himself will leave nothing to be desired. In other words, the happiness of your entire day will be complete by stopping at Travaglini's Cafe both going down and coming back.

For water marks on furniture—Mix with a tablespoonful of powdered pumice stone enough linseed oil to make a thin paste; rub this on the spots with soft cloth till they disappear; then wife off carefully and rub the spots and the entire article of furniture with a soft cloth moistened with furniture polish.

Woman Pilot Rewarded for Finding Plane

Juanita Burns, diminutive Garvey Airport pilot, was rewarded yesterday by Western Air Express for locating the airliner whose crash cost the lives of three men in the San Bernardino Mountains, it was learned on her return from Las Vegas, Nev., where she has been carrying on an air search for Maurice Graham, missing air-mail pilot. Mrs. Burns refused to divulge the reward paid her.

Accompanied by Dudley Steele, chief of the aviation department of the Richfield Oil Company, she will return to Hiko, Nev., Monday to continue the quest.

Mrs. Burns scoffed at the opinion expressed that Graham's ship may have been shot down by bandits when he flew away into a storm from Las Vegas on the night of January 11, last. She said that he had fuel to last only forty-five minutes after he was sighted over Hiko and that she and Steele believe his ship will be found between Hiko and Death Valley.

Air Line Lists New Low Rates

New low one-way and round-trip excursion rates over Pickwick Airways line between Los Angeles, Mexicali and Nogales, effective from now to June 20, were announced yesterday by L. S. Neal, general traffic manager in Los Angeles.

The one-way fare from Los Angeles to Mexicali or Calexico is cut from $22.45 to $16 and the round-trip fare from $40.40 to $28.80. The Los Angeles-Nogales one-way fare is cut from $49.50 to $40 and the round-trip fare from $81 to $75.

Adjustments in express rates to San Geronimo will be placed in effect within the next few days, Mr. Neal said.

THE FEW AND THE MANY

Grand Duke Alexander declares 130,000,000 Russians are being ruled by 1,000,000 Communists. Some of the largest American cities have experienced the ignominy of millions of people being ruled by a handful of politicians. And in some centers of population they still seem to like it.

COMMANDING RESPECT

The Old World has laughed at the American penchant for putting the "Almighty Dollar" above culture. But it was the gifts of men who hoarded those dollars that have put this country in the lead in scientific research. In the astronomical field alone, American scientists have made their European brothers look like claiming platers in a stake race.

MARY E. WILKINS FREEMAN

In the demise of Mary E. Wilkins Freeman this country loses one of its keenest literary minds, though the wealth of wholesome realistic fiction she left will live as a faithful delineation of the life she knew best—that of rural New England.

No other writer ever painted with more stark, uncompromising realism those phases of that life which Mary Wilkins, as she was first known to the reading world, so subtly interpreted. She was not a ready writer, but one who loved to brood over the infinite possibilities of language.

Most of the early stories of this gifted woman, such as "The Adventures of Ann," "A New England Nun," were of the vivid order of De Maupassant. Like that great French realist, she had a fondness for very short sentences, which gave the finished product a crisp, staccato effect that was cumulative in its power and kept even a careless reader alive to the action and purport of the story.

Mrs. Freeman's work was highly admired by English as well as American critics and particularly by Howells. She wrote more than a score of books exclusive of her numerous short stories and magazine articles. Her novels, including "Pembroke" and "Jane Field," have met with wide acceptance. Even up to her last days, despite ill health and a harrowing spiritual tragedy, she kept to her writing, but now her busy pen is laid aside forever.

THE POWER AGREEMENT

An agreement between the Metropolitan Water District, the city and the Southern California Edison Company for division of the California share of Boulder Dam power is good news for those who have been hoping for early action on actual dam construction. The power controversy was not the only hurdle in the way, but it was a big one and apparently it has been surmounted.

Incidentally, the fear of those who have been purporting to worry about handing over Southern California to a mythical "power trust" or some other bogy of equal actual dimensions, should be dispelled by the allotment figures. The Metropolitan Water District is to receive 36 per cent of the power, the city of Los Angeles and other municipalities 19 per cent and the Southern California Edison Company only 9 per cent, the figures totaling up to California's 64 per cent share of the firm power. The Metropolitan Water District will be given first call upon any surplus power (which means firm power not taken by Nevada or Arizona, plus secondary power,) and any remaining unused power, firm or secondary, is to be divided evenly between the city of Los Angeles and the Southern California Edison Company.

Both the city and the Edison company have agreed, it is understood, to underwrite the power development. Each will have charge of its own generating equipment, under a supervisor named by the Secretary of the Interior, who will presumably umpire any disputes.

This will not, of course, satisfy the extreme municipal-ownership contingent, especially the Socialist division of it, which has been insisting that the Edison company should be left out entirely. As matters stand, however, the Edison company's will be the only valid and enforceable signature the government will have on its contracts, until the voters of the city and the Metropolitan Water District provide the necessary financing, and the Secretary of the Interior could hardly convince Congress that repayment of the government's expenditures is assured if he had only the city and district signatures. And without such assurance Congress would not appropriate the money to start work.

Further, the Edison company is just as much or more a publicly owned enterprise as the city's power plant. Through its tremendous list of stockholders, it is owned by the people, chiefly those of Southern California, and as such is entitled to a just share of this power. Its customers are entitled to any benefits there are to be had from Boulder Dam power, in proportion to their number, just as much as are the customers of the city plants.

More than that, it will be the only publicly regulated enterprise taking power from Boulder Dam, as the State itself has a hand in its management through the State Railroad Commission. Neither the Metropolitan Water District nor the city power plants are under this supervision. To give these politically managed enterprises an unregulated monopoly of Boulder Dam power would be most unwise, as there would then be no check on their operations, no opportunities for comparison, no yardstick for their efficiency. So-called "municipal ownership" has its advantages when it can be closely watched and politicians can be kept from using it for patronage. But since such plants do not report to the Railroad Commission, the only real hold the public has over them is through the competition of the plants under business management. Given such competition, the municipal plants may not be as efficient as they should be, but at least they cannot run hog-wild.

With the power contracts signed, which is expected to be done in a few days or weeks, the way will be cleared for Secretary Wilbur to ask Congress for the initial appropriation for dam construction, and if Congress acts at this session work can start within a few months, unless successful court action by Arizona prevents.

Such court action can be avoided only by an agreement with Arizona which ought to be possible now that the Metropolitan Water District and the Imperial Irrigation District have settled their quarrel. Negotiations ought to be resumed to this end.

DRY FORCE MORALE

The wet press has indulged in so many wild statements, has played up so many stories of prohibition enforcement to disparage the character and methods of Federal officers, that it is well for the public to learn direct from headquarters just what type of men and just what manner of methods the Federal authorities are employing to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment and the provisions of the Volstead Act.

In no branch of the government service is greater care exercised in the selection of officers or more attention given to their training and instruction. Not only is the dry force taught what it may do and should do but it is specifically drilled on what it may not do. The keynote of instruction is: "Enforce the law in a legal manner with due regard for the rights of all citizens, in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution." Incidentally, in learning their duties dry-law enforcers are warned against any infringement of the Fourth or Fifth amendments.

The policy and attitude of the Bureau of Prohibition is one of fair play. District administrators are frequently admonished that the law must be enforced within the law. New men and veterans in the service are brought together regularly for intensive drill and instruction so that they may have a full understanding of their duties and the limitations under which they work.

As for the personnel of the men selected, its average is of as high a type as will be found in any crime-detection organization. Many of the agents are college graduates; others have been successful business men, farmers, merchants and bankers. A large part of the force is made up of men who have been in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps. These are all good, representative American citizens, who either own or are buying their homes, are all voters and taxpayers and some are sending their sons and daughters through college.

They have to pass character and temperamental fitness tests; their past is thoroughly investigated; enforcement duty demands a maximum of physical energy, courage, stamina and self-restraint. No man who cannot stand up to these rigid requirements is placed on active service in enforcement work. They must be cognizant of the law as it applies to gathering and submitting evidence. They must possess a technical knowledge of the laws of fermentation and the measurement of alcoholic contents.

This training of mind and body has developed an esprit de corps which is cementing the prohibition-enforcement organization into an effective barrier to the criminal. Every year their record improves. In 1926 the percentage of convictions was 68; in 1927, 70; in 1928, 75.5, and in 1929, 77.

A manual of instructions has just been prepared by the Commissioner of Prohibition for the use of agents and officers in the field clearly and succinctly setting forth the methods and rules to be observed in enforcement work. A well-bound and well-printed pocket edition is issued to each agent, who is required to carry it with him for continual reference. The manual not only covers explicitly the procedure he must adopt in specific cases, but lays down laws for governing his general conduct.

One paragraph illustrates the tenor of these instructions. "It is better to report one good case, possibly requiring extended investigation, than to report many cases in which evidence is incomplete. Suspicion is not evidence. Hearsay is not evidence. Get the facts." As to the conduct of agents the manual says: "His moral conduct should be of the highest character, and he should avoid doing anything which might in any way reflect on his reputation. The fact that he is a public officer makes his personal conduct a public matter."

To any fair-minded citizen a knowledge of the type of men sought by the government for enforcing the prohibition laws and of the strict and severe regime under which they are held responsible for their acts should be a complete answer to the irresponsible attacks promulgated by the wet press.

BEST SHOW IN TOWN

That the California Land Show now on at Hill and Washington streets is the best show in town from the standpoint of those who want to get a bird's-eye view of California is generally conceded by those who have seen it. There is no other way in which so much may be learned about this great State in so short a time.

This is particularly interesting to tourists, few of whom have the time to visit all parts of the State and who will ordinarily see nothing in the least off the beaten tourist path. The Land Show gives them a chance to visit the back country vicariously and to fill in the outline idea which they will otherwise have of this Pacific Coast empire.

Mayor Rolph of San Francisco is quoted as saying this is the best California exhibit he ever saw, and as an enthusiastic Californian the Mayor has seen about all of them. The show gives a maximum of information in a minimum of time.

OUR FUNNY POLICE COMMISSION

April 1 is still a week away, but the Police Commission could not wait to celebrate it. In its efforts on behalf of Charles W. Burke, that body has outdone even its own past performances. Mr. Burke has been hired and fired, indorsed and repudiated, sustained and over-ruled, installed and ousted with such whirligig rapidity in the last few days that not even practiced observers of Police Commission procedure will venture a guess as to what is his present status.

Last Monday the commission took formal action employing Mr. Burke for an indefinite period at $500 a month as an "expert for the reorganization of the police department."

On Tuesday the commission formally rescinded this action and, instead, instructed Chief of Police Steckel to employ Mr. Burke as a "secret operative," also at $500 a month, to reorganize the department.

On Wednesday the commission was advised by Chief Steckel that he could not employ Mr. Burke at $500 a month or any other sum, in the face of a formal opinion by the City Attorney that he, Steckel, would be personally liable for any moneys paid from the secret service fund for services other than those contemplated for that fund.

On Thursday the commission took it all back and decided not to appoint Mr. Burke to anything for the time being. The Mayor issued a formal statement in which it is sadly set forth that "the plans so far presented are not entirely satisfactory; and no doubt any reorganization policy finally decided upon will embody various features now before the commission."

To those whose sense of humor is sufficiently developed the Police Commission is a useful institution.

THE MODERN TREND

Becoming a republic, China permitted its men to cut off their queues. Then they emancipated the women. Two women bandits have appeared to give China a modern look and soon we may expect to see big feet, sun-back bathing suits and galoshes on Chinese maidens as a sign of the advanced civilization.

PAUPER PRINCESS

Mrs. Ida M. Flagler, 81-year-old widow of the Standard Oil pioneer, is one of the richest women in the world. However, she is obsessed with her poverty and is confined in a sanatorium which she thinks is a poorhouse. We know some folks who are poor and think themselves rich. After all it is largely in the mind.

THE most interesting spot in downtown Los Angeles, and the most historic in the city, is about through washing its face and getting ready to receive company. Until a few weeks ago it was a dirty alley, unpaved, a little unsavory and threatened with becoming an unofficial public dump. Yet it was the main street into the Plaza when Stockton and Kearney and Fremont came here to establish the sovereignty of the United States, the first families of California had built their homes along it, the house which Stockton chose as his headquarters—the oldest house in the city—faced it and the zanja madre, the mother ditch, which supplied water to the old pueblo, ran through it.

Yet one could hardly see it for the dirt. The yard of the old Abila adobe, the oldest house, was being used as a neighborhood dump. The adobe itself had been condemned by the health department and was about to be torn down. The street—Olivera street—was used only as free parking space. When tourists and visitors passed it they exclaimed: "Good heavens! Think of such an unsanitary spot in the very shadow of the City Hall!"

But April 20 that long abandoned area will reopen as a spot every tourist will want to visit; a place in which the school children of Los Angeles will learn their own town's history, a Spanish market colorful and romantic. And you won't have to walk through mud or dust to reach the most historic house in Los Angeles. You will walk on a street paved with tiles.

Marks City's Birthplace

As soon as you glance toward Olivera street—now to be known as Paseo de Los Angeles—from the Plaza you realize you are looking at historic ground, for a cross—the first thing erected in every old Spanish settlement in California—stands in the center of the street. And on the cross is engraved:

El Pueblo de Nuestra
Senora la Reina de
Los Angeles.
Felipe de Neve
September 4, 1781

A little beyond that cross, one comes to the old adobe, restored and furnished with things typical of the period in which it was built, so that a visit to it gives a good idea of how the Spaniards lived here. Across the street from it Senora Consuelo Bonzo is fitting up a charming Mexican restaurant, "La Golondrina;" the Yale Puppeteers are installing a puppet show which will tell the history of Los Angeles; a flower shop like those in the public markets in Mexico and in Spain will be in a near-by building, a Mexican artist is in another, and in another E. G. Johnson, who has been collecting Indian relics for the Smithsonian Institution for years, has opened a curio shop. In that one may learn much of the history and customs of the California Indians, as Johnson is a sincere and thorough student. And his collection is more than interesting.

He can even show you that the medicine women who were tribal priestesses here centuries ago carried "compacts," little receptacles for the colors with which they streaked their faces. Banked against all the blank walls will be the stands of venders of Mexican pottery, bead work, drawnwork, tortillas and fruits. And in the other end of the little street, under the olive tree, is an ancient stone watering trough, hand-hewn by the Mission Indians at Rancho El Escorpion when that was part of the domain of the San Fernando Mission, and brought in lately from Chatsworth as a gift from the Bureau of Water and Power. There is also a fountain in that end of the street, from which Mexican girls in costume will carry water in ollas. And right past the fountain a streak of differently tiled paving will show the true course of the old zanja madre.

Historic Buildings Utilized

In this old street, which time has changed so little, several of the buildings have the iron-barred windows typical of Spanish America. The cafe is in the old Casa Pelanconi. Wherever historic value attaches to any part of that street it is to be preserved.

In grading the street many relics were brought to light. One workman found a diamond ring of ancient pattern, another found a handsome pair of bracelets, and numerous household articles were unearthed which bear mute testimony to the fact that the little street once was strolled by haughty dons and stately senoritas.

Why Give Up?

An interesting story attaches to the cross in the end of the street facing the Plaza. Florence Walker, who carved the cross, is a woman past 70 years of age. Rudolf Valentino was greatly impressed by her skill as a wood carver and ordered a carved chest from her, on which she was working at the time of his death. The simple dignity of the cross in Olivera street has impressed so many observers that the little studio of the unconquerable old lady, at 4565 Santa Monica Boulevard, is filled with orders, and it looks as if the success for which she has been working many years will finally be hers.

THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Under the Direction of Dean Rockwell Hunt

XII

THE SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

BY DEAN LESTER B. ROGERS

No school or department of the University of Southern California has shown more rapid growth than has been enjoyed by the school of education. As early as 1895, the board of trustees authorized the offering of courses in education—or pedagogy, as it was then called—and Dr. James Harmon Hoose was asked to give this work.

Dr. Hoose continued to conduct the classes in education until the year 1909-10, when Dr. Thomas Blanchard Stowell, president of the Potsdam (New York) Normal School, was invited to join the faculty of the university as professor of education. Dr. Stowell organized the work in education as a department comparable with the offerings in other departments of the university. During the first year the following courses were given: Principles of education, history of education, philosophy of education, health and development, esthetics, school administration, education for defective and feeble-minded children and practice teaching.

Shortly after Dr. Stowell's appointment steps were taken to secure accreditation for the training of high school teachers in California. The request was presented to the State Board of Education in session at Riverside, April 23, 1910. President Bovard outlined the position of the university and indicated a willingness on the part of the board of trustees to make any revisions necessary to meet the conditions for accreditation. A committee was appointed by the State Board of Education to investigate conditions at the university and submit recommendations outlining conditions under which accreditation might be granted. The committee recommendations having been met, the State Board of Education at its session in Sacramento, authorized the University of Southern California, on February 10, 1911, to issue teachers' credentials on the same basis as the University of California and Standford University. Thus the local university became the third institution in the State and the first institution in the Southland to be accredited for the training of secondary teachers.

The gaining of this recognition not only laid the foundation for the further development of the school of education, but also contributed much to the development of other phases of the work of the university. Between Seutember, 1911, and June, 1919, the university trained and issued recommendations for the high school teachers' credential to 733 candidates. During this period the scope of the department of education was extended. In 1917, the department was authorized to issue recommendations for the special secondary credential of the manual and fine arts type, the technical arts type and the physical culture type, as well as the miscellaneous type. The University of Southern California thus became one of the three institutions of the State accredited for the training of teachers in all types of work offered in elementary and secondary schools of California.

So greatly enlarged had been the work of the department and so heavy were the demands upon it, that the university trustees in June, 1918, authorized the organization of the school of education. In recognition of his distinctive service, Dr. Thomas B. Stowell was appointed dean of the new school, whose purpose was to meet the needs of the following: (1) College graduates intending to become teachers in the secondary schools of California; (2) normal school graduates who are qualifying for greater efficiency in the elementary schools; (3) experienced teachers who seek to familiarize themselves with current educational thought and methods; (4) teachers preparing for school administration; (5) students preparing to teach in the upper grades and intermediate schools.

The academy, which had been maintained until this time, was reorganized as the university high school to provide facilities for observation and student teaching under supervision. During this same year, the university established the teacher appointment office to assist prospective teachers in locating positions on the one hand, and to provide school officials with full information regarding candidates recommended, on the other hand.

At the close of the year 1918-1919, Dean Stowell resigned because of failing health and was made dean-emeritus. He had done his task well, and his dream had come true. He had launched the school of education upon its career. W. Franklin Jones was selected to succeed him, but remained only one year. In 1921, Lester Burton Rogers of Lawrence College, Wisconsin, was appointed dean of the school, which office he holds at the present time.

In 1923 Mrs. Stowell offered the personal library of Dr. Stowell as a foundation for a library in the school of education. The idea met with favor and during the year 1924 a campaign was launched for the endowment of the Stowell Research Library. Since that time, the library has acquired many volumes, due largely to the gifts of Mrs. Juliette Blake Koepfli and others. When the Administration Building was completed in 1921, the south wing was dedicated as the Thomas Blanchard Stowell Hall of Education, in honor of the man who played such an important part in the development of the school.

Until 1923 the work in education was maintained as a department in the college of liberal arts. Students could major in education for both the bachelor of arts and the master of arts degrees. During the spring of 1923 the work of the school of education was reorganized on a more definite professional basis. Curricula were outlined leading to the degree of bachelor of arts in education and master of arts in education, the graduate work for the latter being administered under the general regulations of the council on graduate study and research. The first degree of bachelor of science in education was awarded in February, 1924. The first degree of master of arts in education was granted in June, 1924.

Each year the curriculum of the school was enlarged, and in addition to the work offered for the degree just mentioned, curricula were maintained leading to recommendations for the following credentials: Elementary, junior high school, general secondary, special in various types, school administration, school supervision and educational research and guidance.

In response to growing demands, the university during the year 1924-25, took steps to organize three-year graduate curricula leading to the degree of doctor of philosophy. In June, 1927, David Welty Lefever, a graduate student in education, had the distinction of being the first to receive the degree of doctor of philosophy at the University of Southern California.

As enrollment in the school of education increased need for greater facilities for observation and student teaching became imperative. To meet the situation, the Board of Education of the City of Los Angeles co-operated by opening near-by public schools to the students of the university. In 1925, all student teaching in the elementary grades was centralized in the Thirty-sixth-street school. Later similar arrangements were provided for candidates for the secondary credential. The high school was discontinued, however, in 1928, and all observation and practice teaching was transferred to the Manual Arts High School and James A. Foshay Junior High School, which were opened for this purpose for the students of the university.

While the requirements for the different types of State credentials have been revised and advanced from time to time, the school of education has been able to keep abreast of the changes. The part that the school plays in the training of teachers in California is indicated by the fact that during the year 1928-29 a total of 934 recommendations for credentials of various types were issued. Of these 446 were of the general secondary type.

At the present time the school of education, under the authorization of the board of trustees, June, 1928, is organized and administered as a strictly professional school. To meet the increased demands for advanced professional study, the faculty organized a three-year graduate professional curriculum leading to the degree of doctor of education. The program leading to this degree is equivalent to the program leading to the nonprofessional degree of doctor of philosophy.

The program of the school of education has been promoted by two honorary fraternities in education. The charter for a chapter of Phi Delta Kappa was granted and the chapter was installed at the close of the year 1921-22. Alpha Epsilon chapter is a flourishing organization and its members have already made places for themselves in State and national alumni groups. The women of the school of education, appreciating the value of such an organization, organized a local educational fraternity for women during the second semester of 1922-23. In June, 1924, they received a national charter of Pi Lambda Theta. The ideals emphasized by these fraternities are research, leadership and service.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Book-keeping?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times.]

A free two-year course in book-keeping is offered by the San Pedro Evening High School, 1221 South Gaffey street, San Pedro. For those finishing the whole course, there are many positions in and near San Pedro. The class meets on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, 7 to 9.

The instructor, L. T. Dobyns, who has seven years' experience as book-keeper in Los Angeles, is in a position to offer much practical advice to his students. This class is free to people of all ages and the only expense is the supply of business blanks, which come to about $1.50 for a year. Newcomers to San Pedro and people in the surrounding vicinity are given as hearty a welcome as old residents and there is no charge for anyone who enters this class.

There is free instruction in typing on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, 7 to 9 p.m., and in stenography on Mondays and Wednesdays.

War Lines Changed

The increasing number of men who are visiting the old war lines in France report that they find them obliterated and the neighborhood entirely altered. Trench maps and air photographs, once so secret but now available, are often necessary to determine locations.

PEN POINTS

Ships won't help Preparedness unless she can also maintain parity with the flatiron mark.

The look of literary genius in newspaper portraits are usually awful, is a dumb and puppy look.

No wonder age is talkative. Its memories are more generous than people realise the show is over.

Happy thought! It might cost six feet to the pedestrian's life if an auto horn could hiss like a snake.

Habit is hard to break. Europeans robbed the Americans they saw.

The German scientist's pill that prevents snoring kills new idea. Hick-town barbers have that kind of medicine too.

No wonder modern families are smaller families. Quints, we would, too, if they were in cigar boxes.

Middle-class people are those who have no broken glass or cigarette burns on the rug after a party.

And many a wallflower blossomed this spring behind the new foliage covers her.

Americanism: Feeling gratified by the cruelty of burros in furnishing Spain nearly all the cheap horses the bulls kill.

"Manufacturers will spend $50,000,000 to scrap old machinery." It seems a great extravagance when locomotives and telegraph poles work for nothing.

A hearty slap on the back will give you new courage, as Bacon says, but seldom enough to suit your first impulse.

How to become an efficient executive: Hire a bright man to do the work and keep out of his way.

A "popular air" is one that causes men at the other desks to reach absently for a paper weight.

Post-card photos from Florida indicate that the catch of wooden fish is normal.

You never realize the full possibilities of the word "collegiate" until you see a high school "senior" in full bloom.

Every free man has a right to discuss public questions, but he can't add to his dignity by crowing with a hen after he has laid.

Fortunately, the spring search of words to rhyme with "sluah" sooner or later ends in "hush."

Correct this sentence: "Now when the old boy's will was read," said the heir, "every one of us was satisfied."

Dominion Male Quartet o Program at KHJ

The Times Forum, KHJ, 1:30 p.m.; Peggy Hamilton, fashion authority, assisted by L. Oleet, tenor; world-wide news at 12:30, 6:45 and 10 p.m.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

With a long list of seats in the House of Representatives and Senate to be filled next fall, politics is coming into its own on the air, particularly in the East. Members of Congress who seek re-election are expected to make greater use of the radio in the coming campaign than ever, according to advices from Washington.

This is particularly true of Senators who are voted upon by entire states and not by districts, as are members of the lower house. A Republican voting on tariff and farm relief in conformity with the views of the people of his particular district, be it industrial or agricultural, is just where he stands, but a Senator who is voted upon not only by the industrial population of the cities but the farmers as well is in a far more difficult position.

TWO MAJOR ISSUES

The November elections will show definitely how the voters of the country view the accomplishments of the administration. The Farm relief bill and tariff measure, if passed by Congress and sent to Washington, will form the major issues of the campaign in many States.

While the greater part of the campaign will be purely local in nature, it is understood that the Congressional campaign committees of the two chief parties are giving consideration to nation-wide appeals to the voters. These appeals, if undertaken, will be delivered by radio and are to be made by nationally prominent figures.

LAST RITES FOR PIONEER TO BE TODAY

Mrs. Anna C. Johnson Noted Philanthropist, to be Laid to Final Rest

Friends of Mrs. Anna Craven Johnson, widow of O. T. Johnson, will pay their final tribute today when funeral services will be held for the pioneer resident at the family residence, 445 South Irving Boulevard at 3 p.m. Rev. Hugh K. Walker, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will officiate at the rites, assisted by Rev. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of Immanuel Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Johnson was well known in Southern California for her religious and philanthropic activities. She made large contributions to Occidental College where the Hall of Letters was the gift of herself and Mr. Johnson and she was also a large contributor to the Florence Crittenton Home. Shortly before the death of her husband in 1916 he founded the Anna Craven Johnson Home for Widows and presented the property to the city. This institution consist of a number of small but completly furnished apartments which are leased at a nominal sum to dependent widows.

Mrs. Johnson was born in New York State in 1847 and after her marriage to her husband in Galesburg, Ill., in the early 80's, the couple moved to California, and came to Los Angeles in 1890. She had been a member of Immanuel Presbyterian Church since her arrival here forty years ago.

One son, Frederick O. Johnson, and a daughter, Mrs. Katherine Johnson Flint, in addition to a number of grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Martin Hoover of Riverside, survive.

Following the services at the home this afternoon, interment will be in the Inglewood Park mausoleum.

Fire Chief Urges New Inhalator Law for County

A proposal that all maternity homes, hospitals and sanatoriums located in county territory outside of incorporated cities be required to maintain inhalators was placed before the Board of Supervisors yesterday by County Fire Warden Turner, who requested that an ordinance requiring the inhalators be adopted by the board.

According to Turner, all divisions of the county fire department have inhalators and respond to emergency calls, but the department does not have enough men to answer to all calls for inhalators and still give adequate fire protection to the various districts.

Two Held for Theft of Mail

Solution of recent apartment-house mail-box thefts may result, police say, from the arrests yesterday of two men, one of whom was taken in custody at a Long Beach hotel, the other in an apartment at Sunset Boulevard and Parkman avenue. The suspects are Alfred Cote, alias H. O. Johnson, 32 years of age, and Jack Wright, 31. Both are held on suspicion of robbery.

Cote was arrested, according to the report, as he attempted to cash a forged check at the Long Beach hotel. Police are trying to link him with the robbery of mail boxes in more than 150 apartment-houses in the Hollywood and Wilshire districts. They say also he is wanted by authorities in Washington, New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

Wright was taken in custody here by Detective Lieutenant Lloyd and postal inspectors.

OIL ADVERTISING ACCOUNT AWARDED

In accordance with a widespread plan of aggressive business expansion and development, General Petroleum Corporation of California, marketing Violet Ray gasoline throughout the entire Pacific Coast, has appointed Smith & Ferris, Los Angeles advertising agency, to direct its advertising.

OXY TO DEBATE OREGON

Occidental College debaters will meet two squads from Oregon colleges this week-end. Oxy's team, composed of Ural Johnson of Glendale and Perry Ellis of Riverside, debates Willamette College, Salem, this afternoon at Occidental.

Opposing Oregon State College, Corvallis, Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Hollywood Presbyterian Church will be Earl Harvey of Glendale and Guyman Martin of Pasadena.

FEDERAL JURY NAMES SIXTEEN

Malt-House Man Accused of Liquor-Candy Sales

Two Bank Workers Indicted for Fund Shortages

Another Pair Charged With Rifling Mail Boxes

In sixteen true bills returned yesterday by the Federal grand jury, twenty persons were indicted for various violations of Federal statutes. Among these is Victor Menacker, head of a malt supply house at 303 Aliso stret, accused in the indictment of violating the national prohibition act by selling candy containing liquor. Bond was fixed at $2500. Menacker now is at liberty on bond.

Edgar L. Switzer was accused of misapplication of bank funds of the Second and Spring-street branch of the United States National Bank of Los Angeles.

Percy Seligman, a teller of the Beverly Hills branch of the Bank of Italy, was accused of embezzlement of about $750 of bank funds. His bail was set at $2500.

Three men, Glenn T. McBee, Frank E. Taylor and Gee You, were accused of violation of the immigration act by the asserted smuggling of four alien Chinese into this country from Mexico. The jury reported two true bills against Alfred L. Cote of Long Beach and Jack L. Wright of Los Angeles, separately accused of rifling mail boxes. Several other charges, including violations of the Dyer Act, the immigration act and the tariff act, were filed by the grand jury.

Golden Joins Contest for Assemblyman

Milton M. Golden, local attorney, yesterday announced his candidacy for Assemblyman from the Fifty-fifth District, which comprises Hollywood and the northwest part of the city.

Golden is a graduate of the Ohio Northern University and was a member of the bar in the State of Ohio. He came to Los Angeles more than seven years ago and has been practicing law here since that time. He is the nephew of I. M. Golden, chief deputy District Attorney of San Francisco.

Golden is well known among legal, business and club circles of Southern California.

Headquarters have been established in the Roosevelt Hotel.

Three Neighbor Women Held as Store Thieves

Three young women neighbors were arrested yesterday in a downtown department store on charges of suspicion of burglary and petty theft. Detectives asserted that while two of the women, who are plump, acted as screens for the activities of the third, the latter pilfered a score of small articles from store counters. The three are Mrs. Ruby Clark, 22 years of age, of 2764 Hubbard street; Mrs. Juanita Mestes, 25, of 732½ Kohler street, and Mrs. Dumitila Llanes, 22 of 732 Kohler street.

Detective Lieutenants Williams and McCready of the bunko squad arrested the three and reported that upon searching Mrs. Clark's handbag they found two powder puffs, a baby's cap, a child's suit and fifteen handkerchiefs.

Ina Claire Back in Jack's House

Hollywood guessed wrong about John Gilbert and his wife, Ina Claire, it appears. When the couple announced several months ago their decision to live in separate homes temporarily the screen colony took it for granted they had come to a parting of the ways.

Yesterday it became known that Miss Claire has moved back to "Jack's house on the hill," in Beverly Hills and that she plans to give up the place she rented as soon as her lease expires within several weeks.

"We're happier than we ever were," Gilbert said yesterday. "At the time Miss Claire took the house we explained our reasons and said then we were not separating."

Miss Claire, former New York stage actress, has been making pictures for Pathe and she and Gilbert married following a whirlwind courtship. Yesterday indications were seen that Miss Claire is to leave Pathe and is said to be negotiating with several other studios and considering several offers to go back to the stage.

MARILYN MILLER FILM PLANNED

Noted Actress Coming West Sooner Than Expected

Mel Brown Will Direct New R.-K.-O. Picture

Fairbanks Switches Story; Uncertain About Next

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Marilyn Miller is to come west much sooner than was expected. She will be here early next month, we learned yesterday.

MARILYN MILLER.

And when she comes she will at once start work in her next starring vehicle for First National, an original operetta written by Otto Harbach and Jerome Kern. So far the work is untitled.

The locale of this musical is India, with Miss Miller playing an Oriental dancer, so that it appears there will be more drama than is usual in the screen musicals.

Miss Miller, instead of starring in three First National pictures, as originally intended, will star in five instead, with at least one to be made each year. It was due to the tremendous success of "Sunny" that Miss Miller's contract has been extended.

It was originally intended that Miss Miller should appear in Florenz Ziegfeld's production, "Tom, Dick and Harry," in New York, but this production has been postponed or canceled, which enables First National to avail itself of Miss Miller's services sooner than expected.

MEL BROWN DIRECTS NEW R.-K.-O. FEATURE

To Melville Brown has fallen the important task of directing Rex Beach's "The Silver Horde," for R.-K.-O., it was announced yesterday by William Le Baron.

MELVILLE BROWN.

Announcement that the story had been purchased was made some time ago, but it wasn't until yesterday that the name of the director was made known.

The picture will be filmed in Alaska during the summer, according to present plans, on the exact locale where the story takes place, at the fishing grounds and canneries which are the background of the beach tale. Of course it will be a talker, and there is talk of making it in color, at least partially.

At present Brown is rehearsing Arthur Lake and others in "Tommy," so that he has not had time to think of his cast.

Lucille Brown With Fox

Yet another stage beauty has been drafted into the movies. She is Lucille Brown, declared by New York theatergoers to be one of the most beautiful blondes on the stage of the metropolis. Miss Brown has just signed a long-term contract with Fox Films, it was announced yesterday by Sol M. Wurtzel.

Just what will be Miss Brown's first vehicle is not yet revealed. But it is known that the newest member of the large and growing Fox-Movietone contract family has been on Broadway only two years, and has scored heavily. She attracted special attention through her work in "Jarnegan," featuring Richard Bennett.

Fairbanks Shifts Stories

According to word received yesterday, we understand that Douglas Fairbanks will not start in the California story which he has been preparing, after all.

At present, according to information received, his plans are again in the air.

Lupita Tovar, who was to have been Fairbanks's leading lady, is, therefore, released for other engagements, for which she has, it is said, several offers.

Hugh Trevor In It

That pleasing young actor, Hugh Trevor, has another nice role bestowed on him by R.-K.-O.

HUGH TREVOR

He will play the juvenile lead in "Half Shot at Sunrise," which co-features Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey. At present Trevor is playing the leading role opposite Betty Compson in "Hawk Island."

Trevor, who was the first player put under long-term contract by R.-K.-O., has played numerous leading roles in the last year, including "Night Parade," "The Cuckoos" and others. His contract expires next month, although it looks as though it is certain to be renewed.

Katherine De Mille Cast

A very modest, and we must say, a very honest young lady is Cecil B. De Mille's newest actress in "Mme. Satan."

She is Mr. De Mille's own daughter, Katherine.

Miss De Mille has her own ideas about getting into pictures. She scorned to use the power of her father's name and influence. Instead, she went about it very quietly to make her debut. This debut was secured by getting a chance to slip into a scene, as an extra, in a studio other than Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, where her distinguished father is under contract. Not until the scene was finished did she tell her father about it, and implore him to see her "rushes." She appeared to such good advantage that she is to be seen in the ballroom sequences of "Mme. Satan."

RESERVE OFFICERS GET READY FOR CONVENTION

A general committee and twenty-eight sub-committees, under Maj. E. P. Hanson, are perfecting plans for the eighth national convention of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States, to be held here April 21 to 24, next, it was announced yesterday by Capt. Carl W. Marks, general secretary of the Los Angeles chapter. The convention will be the first one ever held west of Kansas City.

All business sessions, as well as the annual stag banquet, will be at the Biltmore, which is to serve as general headquarters of the delegates during their four days here. Los Angeles chapter headquarters will be at the Alexandria. The entertainment program includes a visit to the Breakfast Club, trips to the studios, an air meet, a Chamber of Commerce luncheon and a closing recepion and ball. A review of the Reserve Officer Training Corps units of the schools, with prize awards, will be among the military functions.

Assisting Maj. Hanson as vice-chairmen of the general committee are Lieut.-Col. George H. Chase, Lieut.-Col. Joseph W. Sutphen, Lieut.-Col. R. I. Follmer, Lieut.-Col. Irving Hellman, Col. Carl R. Gray, Jr., of St. Paul, and Maj. W. W. Breite of San Francisco.

Orchestra to Arrive Today

Bringing with him his entire musical organization of Commanders Irving Aaronson, orchestra leader, will arrive in Los Angeles this morning over the Southern Pacific.

IRVING AARONSON

A delegation of film folk and others will be on hand to greet the musicians who are coming to play a return engagement in the Roosevelt Hotel.

This orchestra was featured previously in the Blossom Room of the hotel for several months last year.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN AND WIFE CELEBRATE

Honored by their daughter last night at a celebration of their fifty-eighth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, 86 and 78 years of age, respectively, are receiving the congratulations of their friends. The party was given at the home of Mrs. Frank G. Carlisle, 1543 Sixth avenue. Mrs. Carlisle is the wife of the general installation supervisor of the Southern California Telephone Company. Mr. and Mrs. Hall came to Los Angeles from Illinois in 1906. Mr. Hall is a Civil War veteran and was a pioneer farmer in Danville county, Illinois. He was born in Maine, and Mrs. Hall in Ohio.

FILM SHOWS NEW STUNT WITH GLIDER

First Water Take-off, in Tow of Plane, Pictured by "Times"-Universal News

An airplane is shown lifting a glider from the water to the air for the first time in the latest issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel to be exhibited soon at many local theaters. Capt. Frank Hawks, holder of the coast-to-coast round-trip record, handled the plane which pulled the glider into the air and sailed it around for a half-hour.

Other interesting subjects shown in this issue of the Times-Universal Newsreel include Helen Madison breaking the world's 500-yard free swimming record for women, Kaye Don trying to smash the motor speed record, the newest launching of Old Ironsides, and preparations in India for Gandhi's march. These and other novelties in motion-picture news are described by Graham McNamee, the talking reporter of the Times-Universal Newsreel.

GREET ADHERES TO TRADITION

"Much Ado" Presented in Formal Manner

Effective Portrayals of Company Notable

"Everyman" Majestic and Colorful Pageant

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The Elizabethan and pre-Elizabethan art of the theater was exemplified in two productions given by Sir Philip Ben Greet and the Ben Greet Players yesterday at Philharmonic Auditorium. The veteran interpreter of Shakerpearean and other classics sponsored a performance of "Much Ado About Nothing," in which he himself appeared as the comic constable, Dogberry, of the fifteenth century morality play, "Everyman."

It was with the latter poetical and semi-religious drama that Mr. Greet uniquely came before American theatergoers a matter of twenty-five or more years ago—and "Much Ado About Nothing" was, I believe, in his repertoire during that and subsequent visits. It is a good twenty years, I should say, since his last tour hitherward in a presentation of "Midsummer Nights' Dream," with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, of which Modest Altschuler was then director, rendering the incidental Mendelssohn music.

Mr. Greet has evidently retained his adherence to the Elizabethan tradition through the years. His productions are given in the formal manner of that period, with here and there only the suggestion of a scenic setting, and with very few interruptions in the action. At most the curtain fall but for a few minutes to permit the moving of furniture upon the stage. The costumes are of the traditional type, but are appropriately varied during the unfoldment of the play. I am speaking, of course, now of "Much Ado About Nothing."

What Greet has brought to the theater is a history in itself, and for that reason what he does merits the approval that goes to any well-founded institution. His presentation of "Much Ado About Nothing" was effective and interesting, and he introduced a particularly competent Benedick in this play in the person of Russell Thorndike. The role of the determined bachelor was both colorfully and humorously enacted by Thorndike, and applause was definitely a tribute to him at the close of several scenes.

The company was in general, exceedingly well-balanced, with authority, akin to that of the Stratford-Upon-Avon company, evinced in the reading of the lines. Some of the speeches were not as clearly spoken as might be by certain cast members, but on the whole, the work of the principals was unusually commendable. Those appearing included Thea Holme, as the peppery Beatrice; Kynaston Reeves as Leonato; Arnold Walsh as Claudio; Alison Pickard as Hero; Bruno Barnabe as Don Pedro; Stanford Holme as Don John; Arthur Sircom as Anton; Walter Greer as Borachio; George Hart as Verges, in addition to Mr. Greet in the Dogberry role.

"Everyman," the symbolic morality play of the fifteenth century, attracted a good-sized audience in the evening. The Ben Greet Players presented this slow-moving but impressive pageant, speaking the lines in verse with clear enunciation and majestic bearing. The theme is familiar, dealing with Everyman's preparation for his death journey. His friends, Fellowship, Kindred, Goods, Beauty, Strength and Discretion all take their leave of him and he is left with Good Deeds and Knowledge as his only companions. They, too, must bade him farewell and Everyman finally sinks in his grave alone.

It is interesting to note that Everyman has been portrayed by a woman on Sir Philip Ben Greet's former appearances here. This time the character is enacted by a man.

BARTLETT-FRANKEL QUARTET HEARD

Biltmore Scene of Brilliant Gathering That Listens in Candlelight

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Mrs. Cecil Frankel presented the Bartlett-Frankel Quartet in the last recital of its Biltmore evening musicales last night. The program of Beethoven, Roussel and Schumann was enjoyed in the old world atmosphere of the ballroom foyer in the light of tall tapers and the audience was grouped comfortably in informally arranged chairs. It is a manner of presenting a concert which might be emulated by others and afford the habitual concert-goer much pleasure.

The new work by Paul Roussel, a young French musician who was sacrificed to the war, was all too short. It is of the impressionistic type and Roussel managed to put colorful emotion and exceptional interest in the two movements Modere, tres expressif et Vif. The tenderness of a young poet and the skill of a well-trained musician are behind this fragment of a beautiful quartet.

Schumann was not in his most brilliant nor his briefest mood when he wrote the Quartet Op. 41 but the work is in Schumann's beautiful lyric train of thought and even with some surprisingly rough passage work and occasionally imperfect intonation, it was a worthwhile closing of an interesting series. Mrs. Frankel's gesture in memory of her distinguished father, Albert Griffith Bartlett, has been appreciated by a large number who love chamber-music and will doubtless be more widely enjoyed next season.

MODERNIZED 'CAMEO KIRBY' SEEN

Sound is decidedly an embellishment, though in the case of "Cameo Kirby," it has destroyed that virility which characterized the silent version released, if memory serves, about 1922. The present Fox festival of songs and music of the Southland shows at the Boulevard and features J. Harold Murray and Norma Terris. John Gilbert was the star in the silent production.

As it is now, redecorated, "Cameo Kirby" has the frills, bravado and gestures of the operetta. Directed by Irving Cummings, it stands halfway between the realistic and the idyllic. The story bows back in deference to the musical exposition. The difference in the two films might be told by the instance of a duelling scene in the earlier picture. It was rather impressive and quite believable. The present one is exquisitely set in fog and ferns, and looks as though it came out of a fairy tale.

All those traditions built around old southern days are to be found in "Cameo Kirby." There is the Mardi Gras, during which Murray and Miss Terris surprisingly meet and instantly love. There is a following scene showing Kirby, the gambler, teaching pokah to a gentleman on the rivah. He wins every one of the man's worldly goods; and, before, he can sign them back in a burst of generosity, southern honor prompts the loser to blow his brains out. He turns out to be Miss Terris's father, at that.

And there is the villain, mistuh Monroe, and the race between him and Kirby to get the old plantation overflowing with customary southern hospitality and surrounded by customary crooning darkies. Slander from Mistuh Monroe forces Miss Terris to suppose that Kirby killed her father. A duel is the only way to right matters as quick at the trigger as he is at cards. Kirby shoots Monroe down.

The big denouement is the reuniting of the lovers and Kirby's confession of card craving. He looked suspiciously like a song at the moment, and one thought of "I'm a Gambler, Aren't We All!" but he chose instead "Romance," the really pleasing theme song.

Mr. Murray is a singer, and he knows how to put over his baritone with feeling. He is always singing, whether of his dreams, or love, or just the way the South makes him feel. But it is all very nice. The songs are unusually good.

Miss Terris hasn't much to do but flutter about the old plantation.

Douglas Gilmore shows what the well-dressed villain must wear and carries a sneer with elegance.

Myrna Loy seems miscast in the role of Leah, a jealous vixen who makes a lot of trouble. Stepin Fletchit brings himself to warble a verse or two.

A Charlie Chase comedy, Lynn Cowan and his band with the Boulevard beauties offer light and musical entertainment.

Whispers in the Wings

BY MURIEL BABCOCK

"AMONG THE MARRIED," the sophisticated Vincent Lawrence comedy which Edward Everett Horton did so successfully last winter, is going to be revived in Los Angeles.

Dudley Ayres, former Belasco leading man, of late a stock company star, and Charles King, well known as a stock producer on the Coast, are sponsoring the revival.

They will start the play in Long Beach on the 31st inst., staying seven days there and going to San Diego for the week following. On Easter Sunday, April 20, they will bring the production into the Vine Street Theater in Hollywood, whence it will travel to the Curran in San Francisco.

Robert Frazer will be starred in the role which Edward Everett Horton once had. Alma Tell will have the Florence Eldridge characterization, and Miami Alverez the Mary Astor. Ayres, Howard and Virginia Thornton are other members of the cast.

More Vaudeville for Estelle

Although there has been considerable talk of Estelle Taylor appearing on the local stage, first in a new musical and later in a revival of "A Bird of Paradise," it looks now as if she will finish the vaudeville tour begun last winter before tackling anything else. Miss Taylor came home before completing her contract and she has some four or five weeks of variety appearances yet to fill.

Her present schedule will necessitate her taking to the road in about a month and will put her into the R.-K.-O. Theater in Chicago the last week in May or the first of June. She has been studying diligently with her vocal teacher and will have four new songs for fans in the Middle West, she says.

Fay Marbe in San Francisco

According to a report from San Francisco, Fay Marbe, who staged her one-girl revue at the Windsor Square in Los Angeles recently, will start a one-week engagement at the Curran next Monday.

"It's A Wise Child" Due in August

"It's A Wise Child," from which David Belasco has been collecting profits ever since the play opened in New York last August, will arrive here this August, according to the most recent predictions. Belasco has decided to keep the comedy running at his New York theater until July, at which time the production, intact, or practically intact, will be jumped to San Francisco. From that city, it will come here to the Belasco.

Chevalier on Stage

From the East comes a message that Maurice Chevalier, of "The Love Parade," which happens to be showing at the Million Dollar Theater here this week, is going to make a series of personal appearances. They will be under the auspices of Charles Dillingham, through arrangement with Paramount.

Chevalier starts Monday, the 31st inst., at the Fulton Theater in New York to stay two weeks. He played briefly last year in the Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic," but since then has been in pictures.

Sharland a Cricket Player

Reginald Sharland, who has one of the leads opposite Lenore Ulric at the Belasco in "East of Suez," was a cricket player before he came to America from England and learned about football. He was once a member, it was divulged yesterday, of a famous British team sponsored by Sir Gerald Du Maurier.

Sharland concentrated on farcical roles on the English stage. His final appearance there was at the Criterion Theater in "Cartoons." He went to Australia in a traveling company of "Hit the Deck" and "The Girl Friend" and from Australia came to Hollywood.

Crowds Attest Popularity of Lenore Ulric

Since the premiere of Lenore Ulric in "East of Suez" at the Belasco Theater, the house has played to the largest attendance in its history, box office figures show.

"Miss Ulric, although she has not been seen here in some time," said Edward Belasco, "has at once attained the popularity out here that she has in the East. It is something unusual in the history of the Los Angeles theater.

"Never has a player leaped into such an immediate popularity as has this charming girl. We plan to bring her West for a Belasco engagement whenever she can find an opportunity to come."

Engagement of "New Moon" to Close in Week

Lillian Albertson's production of "The New Moon," with Perry Askam and Josephine Houston in the leading roles, goes into its tenth and last week at the Majestic Theater tomorrow night.

"The New Moon" is an operetta by Sigmund Romberg. Almost every voice heard is of near-opera caliber, it is said. Settings are colorful and massive.

Seats for the announced revival of "The Desert Song," with most all of the original California cast, go on sale Monday. Perry Askam and Josephine Houston head the company of 100.

WORK STARTED

Joseph Cawthorn has many weeks of work ahead of him in "Dixiana" for Radio Pictures, as the role he plays runs all through the production.

MURDER BY HIEROGLYPH DEPICTED

Mystery Thriller Opens at Warners' Downtown; Hour of Twelve Fatal

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

"Murder Will Out," which might have been lifted whole from a paper-backed thriller, was presented yesterday as the new screen attraction at Warners' Downtown Theater. It is a Vitaphone adaptation of a story by Murray Leinster called "The Purple Hieroglyph;" and so broadly has it preserved the essential qualities of its origin that, whether you accept it as farce or melodrama, you can't lose.

The audience last night chose to take it seriously. Well, there were dirty doings afoot, in all sooth. Claud Allister, poor chap, was the first on the list; I mean murder. But before it happened, he developed a first-class case of blue funk, and sent for Jack Mulhall to see him through it. Midnight was the time set by the purple hieroglyph for his demise; and there sat the two of them, waiting. A watch ticked the seconds at them from the screen. The audience held its breath.

Twelve o'clock came and went; and Mr. Allister lived on. He mopped his brow relievedly, shook hands with Mr. Mulhall, and stepped into a taxi. The taxi took him for a ride he wasn't expecting. Just then a great big clock boomed out the hour of midnight.

Mr. Allister's watch had been fifteen minutes fast.

The plot is worked out with more or less ingenuity from here. If the actors, the direction and the dialogue had been as ingenious, "Murder Will Out" would have been a good picture on all counts. As they were not, the spectator necessarily focused his attention on the ensuing events per se; and once again, thanks to the magic of the moving picture, was rewarded with an involuntary sensation or two. Especially in the denouement, far-fetched as it seems, in the cold gray light of the mourning after.

This denouement brings Mr. Mulhall, slightly discomfited, in a motor boat to the "last buoy" in New York Harbor, with the $230,000 which he hopes will buy the life of the girl he loves (Lila Lee.) Picture his astonishment when, just as he is about to hand over the money to the three masked desperadoes in another boat, a submarine lifts itself insouciantly out of the brine. It is the United States Navy.

Besides the players already mentioned, Noah Beery, Malcolm MacGregor, Tully Marshall, Alec B. Francis and Hedda Hopper are in the cast. None of them is required to do any acting except possibly Mr. Allister—and filmgoers are so accustomed to seeing him in a silly-ass characterization that by the time they realize he isn't fooling, he is dead.

Clarence Badger directed, from J. Grubb Alexander's adaptation.

Warners' Downtown is also showing "Contrary Mary," a tabloid revue in color; Sylvia Clark in "Seeing Sarah Off;" Jim and Betty Brown in "Let's Elope," and a news reel.

FILMARTE SCREENS WITCHCRAFT FILM

Christensen Presents Detailed Study of Black Magic in Olden Days

BY ELENA BOLAND

Through the dark ages swept a strange and fearful plague, superstition. It was the time of sorcery and witchcraft and torture and no part of Europe escaped.

Benjamin Christensen made so thorough a study of this period in history that he wrote and directed a film expounding the various tales and the punishments involved. He has called it "Witchcraft Through the Ages" and it is the weekly interest at the Filmarte.

It is an absorbing picture, excellently made and credibly authentic. From the detailed explanations given in the subtitles it takes on more the form of an illustrated lecture than that of the average program picture.

Several ghost stories are depicted with the information that they are actually found in the town records. Interspersed with these are picturized the existing belief as to the formation of the earth and heaven. There are also close-ups of torturous instruments and graphic shots of them in use. A note forewarns the audience that censors are to be thanked that some of these scenes are cut short.

Ignorance was the predominating evil during the Middle Ages. The sky was thought to be made of steel, heaven of glass and therein God sat surrounded by nine choirs of angels. In the center of the earth was hell and thence it was believed devils and disembodied spirits issued forth to roam the earth and take possession of common folk. No home was complete without its ghostie. No person was safe from the curse of witchcraft. It is recorded that 9,000,000 persons were done to death in the name of justice because of such a suspicion.

Old women were the most endangered. It didn't pay to scoff at them, for no one ever knew when one of them would point a withered finger and the person would be left standing with his mouth fixed open for the rest of his life.

It is shown, also, how they mixed and brewed vile and potent draughts to cast or relieve spells. The practice was illegal and therefore shrouded in darkness and secrecy.

Christensen has established an atmosphere heavy with the spirit of the Dark Ages. He has kept it consistent and it compels attention.

Out of the early Mack Sennett files comes "Pills and Perils," featuring Charles Murray and Louise Fazenda.

An interesting travelogue of the frozen North is "Airways of the Arctic."

OLD SONGS REVIVED

Western fans are promised a revival of three old cowboy songs in Ken Maynard's picture, "Song of the Caballero," which he has just completed. The production marks his eighth western talkie for Universal.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

WHEN YOUR NOSE KNOWS

A woman who was unable to smell went into a basement where a gas main was leaking. She remained until she was unconscious, when a relative happened to smell the gas, hunted for it, and found her. Most of us could have easily detected the faintest gas leak. Indeed, the nose often warns us of dangers even though we do not regard the sense of smell as very important. It is very easy for us, for example, to detect the odor of burning wood or cloth.

Most of us take the sense of smell as a matter of course until we get a cold and then we find that many foods do not taste quite right. This is because the sense of smell is closely tied in with the sense of taste. It is said that one with a total loss of smell can detect very little difference in the flavor of an apple from an onion. The sense of smell is vitally bound up with the appetite. A dish that smells good to us when sitting down to the table starts a flow of the digestive juices in the mouth and stomach which in turn aids a lazy digestion.

Sometimes doctors have such a delicate sense of smell that they can determine the different odors of the skin in health and disease, and can often determine the disease from the odor alone. Whenever one has a foul perspiration, there is sure to be some diseased condition of the body accompanying it.

The more civilized a man is the less likely he is able to smell keenly. It is said that the snake-eating tribes of Queensland are able to follow the trail of the boa for many miles, as they particularly prize this reptile in making their snake stew.

The wet-nosed animals, such as the dog or cat, can recognize the direction from which an odor comes but before a man can do as well he has to wet his finger in his mouth and then hold it up and he can then tell that the odor comes from the direction that his finger is coldest.

The emotions are very closely related to the sense of odor and smells, and can cause pleasantness or depression or delight. This is the origin of the use of incense in churches. Many perfumes are known to have the effect of stirring up the wooing instinct. The fragrance of flowers is not for the purpose of pleasing or displeasing man. It is more definitely designed to please the butterfly, the moth, or the bee which is going to cross-fertilize the blossoms. It is said that there are so many romances in the springtime because of the many fragrant odors in the air at that time. Male butterflies are said to have a peculiar perfume which is said to attract the female. Among human beings, this seems to be reversed for although most men have a better sense of smell than most women, it is the women who use the most of the perfume.

There are two important smells which are known as racial smells. One of these is the smell from the wood fire, another is the smell of roasting or searing meat. These two odors have a greater appeal to all men at all times than that of any other odor.

Although man has invented countless devices for aiding his sense organs, such as the sight and hearing, he has failed to make anything which will intensify his ability to smell. It is very interesting to observe, however, that many patients, while undergoing a fasting and cleansing regime, will notice a renewed sensitiveness with the sense of smell, and I have seen a number of patients who, before a fasting regime, were entirely devoid of this sense, afterwards experience a great delight in testing one odor from another—odors which are quite common and unappreciated by most of us.

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

FRUIT PUDDING

Mix one cupful of fine white bread crumbs with two-thirds of a cupful of hot cream, and allow it to cool; add to this one-half a cupful of finely chopped kidney suet, two tablespoonfuls of sifted flour, one-half a cupful of rolled, stale macaroon crumbs, one-half a cupful of chopped seeded raisins, one-half a cupful of finely chopped candied cherries, the grated rind of one lemon, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of nutmeg, mix this all together well, then add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs and one-half a cupful of orange juice or cooking sherry, pour into a well-buttered pudding mold. Cover tight and steam for two and one-half hours, turn out on a hot serving dish and serve with orange sauce.

ORANGE SAUCE

Beat four tablespoonfuls of butter to a cream, and gradually beat into it one and one-fourth cupfuls of brown sugar and beat until smooth, add while beating two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and one-third of a cupful of milk; mix all together, and pour into a double boiler, cook and stir until thick and smooth; beat the whites of the eggs stiff, and beat them into the mixture as soon as it is removed from the fire.

FINNAN HADDIE WITH CHEESE SAUCE

One and one-half pounds of finnan haddie, one cupful of macaroni, three tablespoonfuls of butter, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half a cupful of grated cheese, place the finnan haddie in a shallow dish, add half a cupful of water, and bake until tender, cook the macaroni in boiling water and when tender drain; make a white sauce of the butter flour and milk, season with salt and pepper, and cook until thick, then add the cheese, remove the finnan haddie from the dish and flake it, removing all skin and bone. Place it in the center of a warm platter, surround it with the cooked macaroni and pour the sauce over it. Dust with paprika and garnish with parsley.

HOT CABBAGE SALAD

Remove the outer leaves from a small head of cabbage, cut out the hard core, and shave the cabbage fine, place it in a damp cloth and put in a cool place, place in a saucepan one-half a cupful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of dry mustard, one teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cayenne pepper, three level tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of onion juice three tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar and one slightly beaten egg, mix all together, let come to a boil, then reduce the heat to simmering. Add three chopped pimientos, and eight stoned and chopped ripe olives. Slowly add the hot dressing to the cabbage and stir until well blended, serve on a bed of lettuce leaves and sprinkle over the salad the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs, pressed through a sieve. Use the chopped whites for a garnish.

FAILURE TO UNDERSTAND CHILDREN CAUSES TRAGIC SITUATIONS

As the result of reading letters from mothers for many years, we build up some strong convictions. One firm belief is that the chief and avowed purpose of most step and foster-parents is to make over the children in their charge—to erase every defect, to twist and pound them into molds which are personally pleasing to these parents without any thought for their victims. This is done with a real conscientiousness, a do-or-die spirit that would be admirable if it weren't so tragic for the children. Such a spirit makes for conflict and defeats the very purpose of the parents.

The following letter is such a human interest document that we hope every adult rearing a child not her own will take time to read and ponder over it:

"My husband and I are both orphans. Having been little loved, the love we discovered for each other is a miracle of wonder. There must be others like us, orphans, stepchildren, children of divorce, growing to maturity, minds and hearts bruised by indifference, dislike, even hatred, shunted about, their faults discussed before them, belonging to nobody, defended by nobody, loved by nobody, eyed with hostility and with no one to resent all this but themselves.

"Every indignity is heaped upon them by people who would readily avenge themselves on anyone intimidating their own children. Suffering in cast-off clothing, shoes that cripple their feet, and listening to the never-ending chant of relative, 'You ought to be grateful for what is being done for you.'

NATURAL TARGETS FOR ABUSE

"The feeling that they have a right to probe and question every thought and action and the child too timid to withhold the slightest secret. Tattled about by relatives and the child nauseated by the distortions of fact. If he tries to defend himself he is quickly put in his place by whomever is uppermost at the moment.

"The most decent-seeming people treat him as a natural target. Even those who profess to take the greatest interest in the child often bruise him the most, as he is so thankful for their show of interest. The promises for coveted things that are never kept, a party, a vacation, a pet, desires that are normal to all children. Sometimes in a rush of gratitude he confides his innermost thoughts, only to have them become common property. People are more callous and indifferent than really mean to these step-children of the world."

And to add to this, one must say they are lacking in understanding of children in general. A stepmother or foster-mother or one who rears the children of relatives has little trouble, if she simply offers them the warm security of her affection, good will and understanding and does not try, except by her own good example, to force them in any direction. When she just lets the child grow, nourished and warmed by her affection, the child in his gratitude makes a real effort to become the ideal child. We seldom get the child's viewpoint, and your letter interested me because of that angle.

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 3 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, pyes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WHEN THE SANDMAN COMES

by THORNTON W. BURGESS

BOWSER INTERFERES

With danger present it is clear
'Tis friendship's right to interfere.
—Bowser the Hound.

Flip the Terrier was so excited that it seemed to Bowser the Hound as if Flip would turn himself inside out. You see, Flip was having a new experience. He had found over in the Green Forest a queer fellow. Anyway, it was a queer fellow to Flip. Bowser the Hound saw nothing queer. He merely saw an old acquaintance. You see, that queer fellow really was Prickly Porky, the Porcupine.

However, Flip had never seen him before and hadn't even heard of him. He never had seen anyone at all like Prickly Porky. You see, there is no one else who is at all like Prickly Porky. Just now Prickly Porky had his head under a log. The thousand little spears, which you know are called quills, were standing out in all directions. Flip thought these quills were simply stiff hairs. He thought them very funny hairs, but hairs just the same. Flip also thought that because Prickly Porky had his head under a log he thought himself hidden.

Now, Flip was getting braver and braver. He could see no reason why he shouldn't jump right on the back of Prickly Porky and seize him by the back of his neck. Flip is a very courageous little dog. With Bowser looking on, he wanted to show how very brave he was. He wanted to show that he wasn't afraid, even if Prickly Porky was such a big fellow. He ran back and forth from side to side, barking at Prickly Porky, but keeping a short distance from him. As Prickly Porky did not move, Flip gradually drew nearer. His courage was growing every instant. Bowser stood watching him. Flip didn't notice how closely Bowser was watching him.

You see, that queer fellow really was Prickly Porky the porcupine.

At last Flip made up his mind to attack Prickly Porky. His bark changed to a snarl and he started a rush at Prickly Porky. Something happened! Something hit Flip so hard that it knocked him right over on his back at some little distance away. It was so unexpected that it frightened Flip more than it hurt him and he yelped right out. That something that had hit him was Bowser the Hound. When Flip discovered this he lost his temper completely. "What do you mean by that?" he snarled.

"I mean," replied Bowser good-naturedly, "that you are to leave that fellow alone."

"Why?" demanded Flip. "Is he a friend of yours?"

"No," replied Bowser, "he's no friend of mine. I should say not!"

"Then what do you want to interfere for? Are you afraid of him?" demanded Flip.

"Yes," replied Bowser quite frankly. "Yes, I'm afraid of him. Would you attack Jimmy Skunk if you should meet him?"

Flip remembered the experience he had had with Jimmy Skunk. "No," he replied promptly. "When I meet Jimmy Skunk I give him the path."

"Well," replied Bowser dryly, "when you meet this fellow you'd better do the same thing. This is Prickly Porky the Porcupine. I think I would rather tackle Jimmy Skunk than Prickly Porky."

Flip's eyes opened very wide. In his surprise he quite forgot that he was angry with Bowser for interfering. "Why," said he, "I don't see anything to be afraid of in that fellow. He is the slowest-moving, stupidest-looking fellow I ever saw."

"Sometimes it isn't wise to judge others by their looks," replied Bowser. "You leave Prickly Porky alone or you will be the sorriest dog that ever visited the Green Forest."

DRIVER FACES DRUNK TRIAL

Four Others Bound Over on Same Charge With Three More Complaints Filed

James Childers, 38 years of age, chauffeur, would rather serve a jail term for reckless driving than be tried for drunk driving, he told Municipal Judge Ballard yesterday at the conclusion of his preliminary hearing on the more serious charge. He requested that he be sentenced on reckless-driving charges, to which he pleaded guilty.

Surprised, Judge Ballard refused to grant his request and ordered him held under $500 bail to await trial for drunk driving. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Stahlman, who prosecuted, Childers is now on probation following a conviction for reckless driving last year. He also served ninety days in jail last year for reckless driving after an additional drunk-driving charge was reduced to that offense, Stahlman declared. Police Officer Larbig testified that he arrested Childers at Ninth and Alameda streets after following him for seven blocks. Childers was driving slowly and refused to yield the right of way, he said. Police Surgeon Lopizich reported Childers was drunk when examined.

Judge Ballard also held Harry W. Cone, 30, electrician of 106 East Sixty-seventh street, Harold F. Bonordi, 31, of 243½ East One Hundred and Thirteenth street, and Ben Stoneman, 39, 235 East Ninety-eighth street, for Superior Court trial on drunk-driving charges under $500 bail each. Cone, according to witnesses, barely missed striking a street car and running down three pedestrians at Sixty-sixth street and Broadway on the 18th inst. After being overtaken and arrested by W. R. Duncan, 247 East Fifty-sixth street, a bystander, he struck the latter with his fists and struggled with him until police officers stopped him, Duncan said. Bonordi, Officers Acker and Flaherty reported, was arrested by them when they observed him driving erratically at Broadway and One Hundred and Twentieth street. Stoneman was arrested after he struck another automobile at the intersection of Main and One Hundred and Sixth streets.

Municipal Judge Wilson bound James G. Gady, 21, taxi driver, over for Superior Court trial on drunk-driving charges on $1000 bail. Witnesses called by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Holland declared that Cady's taxi-cab struck a truck on Alameda street. He was drunk, according to police surgeons. Cady resides at 6043 Mariabar street, Huntington Park.

THREE CHARGED WITH DRUNK DRIVING

Three men are charged with driving automobiles while intoxicated in complaints issued yesterday by William McKay, chief of the District Attorney's complaint department.

Those named in the complaint are Alfred Pointer, accused of colliding with a parked car at 1101 Del Valle street; Pus Provencio, arrested on Whittier Boulevard while driving in an erratic manner, and Guy E. Griffin, who is reported to have collided with an automobile driven by Jack Albino of 1060 South Roland street.

Many Reports Put in Library

Nearly 1050 government and municipal reports from controllers and auditors in leading cities of the United States have just been received by the new government research library of the school of citizenship and public administration of the University of Southern California.

The material includes State budget, utilities, water commission, police department, civil service commission, auditor, public works commission and city manager reports.

VISITORS DENIED TO TRAEGER

Quiet Ordered for Sheriff, Whom Physician Regards as Slightly Improved

Visitors yesterday were ordered barred from the sick room of Sheriff Traeger in the California Hospital. Although his condition was regarded as slightly improved over that of the previous day, the order was deemed necessary because of the numerous friends who sought to visit him throughout Thursday, his first day in the hospital, Dr. Charles F. Sebastian, attending physician, stated.

The Sheriff yesterday was permitted to sit up in bed for a short period to sign papers requiring his signature. His room was banked with floral gifts.

Dr. Sebastian said yesterday that the congestion in the Sheriff's lungs was somewhat lessened and that he was undergoing treatment for a dropsical condition of the legs resulting from a heart disorder. He is in a weakened condition and has been ordered to have absolute quiet, the physician said.

Spouse Out on Count of Nine

Mrs. Marjorie Nadine Hahn told Superior Judge Archbald yesterday that she thought it was time to get a divorce after her husband, Andrew Hahn, a salesman, had scored nine knock-outs on her. A decree was granted.

Under questioning of her counsel, Lance D. Smith, Mrs. Hahn said that one day the baby was crying, when he came in and he picked up the child and slammed it on the table, saying she ought to have more consideration for him and not let it cry.

EVIDENCE ENDED IN RAIL HEARING

Western Trunk Lines' Case Concluded

Date of Brief Filing Set for October 1

Northern Roads Defend High Charges

Gathering of data on all phases of trans-Missouri freight divisions was completed yesterday by Examiner Disque of the Interstate Commerce Commission at a hearing at the Alexandria on an application of western trunk lines, operating between the Missouri River and Chicago, for an increased share of the divisions.

J. G. Morrison, general freight agent of the Northern Pacific system, and P. B. Beidelman, freight-traffic manager of the Great Northern line, offered the final testimony. Examiner Disque set October 1 as the final date for the filing of initial briefs and October 15 as the deadline for reply briefs.

RULING BY JANUARY

The commission is expected to announce a decision before January 1, accompanied, it is anticipated by an announcement of the commission's findings on the request of the western trunk lines for a greater part of transcontinental divisions, a hearing on which was conducted previously. Initial briefs on the transcontinental proceeding must be filed by September 1; reply briefs, by September 15.

Yesterday's session was concerned largely with through rates to and from Montana, which, it was stated, were made on a peculiar basis, apart from the trans-Missouri divisions, and which the two Northern lines, it was asserted by both witnesses, Morrison and Beidelman, wish to see retained.

Under the present Montana divisions, Morrison said, the western trunk lines receive in many instances full local rates, or practically so.

NEED FOR HIGH RATES

The witness introduced exhibits to emphasize what he said was the necessity of Northern lines having relatively higher rates on so-called high-class traffic than the western trunk lines, owing to small population, motor-vehicle competition and consolidation of less than carload shipments.

Beidelman said that Morrison's testimony applied with equal force to the Great Northern. He testified briefly, supplementing Morrison's statements with information applying particularly to the Great Northern in certain areas. He declared that the present basis of divisions is fair and reasonable.

MITZIE, youthful rooster, narrowly escaped death on three occasions at the hands of irate gardeners until rescued by Peter the Great, Jr. The dog now is guardian of the orphaned fowl. They are inseparable. Like Mary and her lamb, everywhere that Peter goes, so goes Mitzie, and on a special perch carried by Peter, himself.

There is another member of the trio, Queenie. She rides on Peter's back. They can be seen walking down Hollywood Boulevard most anytime. They live with John Stiglitz at 11000 National Boulevard, Palms.

Mrs. Madge B. Simpson Dies from Injuries She Suffered Week Ago

Mrs. Madge Burson Simpson, wife of Theodore A. Simpson, assistant trust officer of the Title Insurance and Trust Company, died yesterday at the family home, 444 South Gramercy Place, from injuries received a week ago in a traffic accident.

Funeral service will be conducted Monday at 2 p.m. at the chapel of Rosedale Cemetery with Dr. John Matthews, pastor of the Radio Church of the Air, presiding.

Mrs. Simpson died from concussion of the brain. She received the injuries last Saturday while she was riding with her husband and their automobile was struck by a street car.

Mrs. Simpson was born in Vermillion, Ill., and had been a resident of California for many years. She was a member of several social clubs.

She leaves her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Nina Pearl Warrack; two sisters, Mrs. Marietta Scott and Mrs. Gertrude Boyle, and a grandson, Jack Burson Ketchum.

The Central and Southwest chapters of the Radiant Club, national organization dedicated to service, assembled at the Alexandria last night for the formal presentation of their respective charters. Orra E. Monnette, banker and head of the Los Angeles Board of Library Commissioners, made the presentations and also addressed the members. Superior Judge Fleming also spoke. A banquet preceded the ceremonies.

Organized about two months ago, the Central Chapter embraces about forty and the Southwest Chapter about fifty-five professional and business men. The respective presidents are J. P. Patterson and Lee D. Matthews, both attorneys. Regular meetings of the Central Chapter are held at the City Club and those of the Southwest at Roberts's Market.

Arrest in Ohio Helps to Clear Hold-up Here

Under arrest in Akron, O., Frank Demare, 25 years of age, yesterday was quoted in dispatches from there as having confessed participation in robbery of the Bank of Italy branch, 6722 South Western avenue, June 26, 1928.

Police reports here show the robbery netted two bandits $3000. The pair locked a woman clerk, Eleanor Essig, and the manager, E. B. French, in a vault, and escaped in an automobile. One dropped a gun in flight, but fingerprints taken from it failed to solve the robbery.

In addition there will be free performances in the auditorium at 10 a.m., 11 a.m. and 2, 3 and 4 p.m. by a magician performing wonderful feats for the kiddies. These programs will be a Saturday feature, culminating in a daily program Easter week.

CITY HALL ALL SEWED UP

Skillful Seamstress Models Municipal Building in Dress Materials

A new City Hall made of cloth instead of iron, cement and marble was exhibited to City Councilmen yesterday by Mrs. Vanita Moore of 519 South Flower street.

The model, patterned after the City Hall and requiring three months to make, is 52 by 36 inches in dimensions and weighs ten pounds. It is lined with voile and fringed with shining silken cords.

"I used forty-five yards of woolen cloth, silk and eiderdown to make the sky, the California bear and Lindbergh's plane," said Mrs. Moore. "The windows of the hall required 1750 yards of thread."

LOYALTY TO FATHER WINS WILL BEQUEST

Because Hugh E. Vickroy, son of the late Hugh K. Vickroy, had remained associated with his father and had helped accumulate his fortune, the elder Vickroy's will left two-thirds of the $160,000 estate to his son, according to the document. Mary Edna Vickroy, a daughter, gets the other third.

WIFE TELLS ABOUT INDEPENDENT SPOUSE

Douglas Warth Clino told his wife Ruth she could not give him the third degree and that he would go with whom he pleased and when he pleased, Mrs. Clino complained yesterday before Superior Judge Archbald in her action for divorce. Clino is now an engineer with a copper company at Santa Rita, N. M. Clino's declaration of independence helped his wife to win her freedom. Represented by Attorney Griffith Jones, she further testified Clino called her a "bum scout" because she refused to drink. She also said he stayed away from home with another woman two nights before their baby was born.

SOUTHLAND GOODS HIGH IN FAVOR

Los Angeles Styles Now Recognized Everywhere, Declares Morton May

Los Angeles-made goods are found everywhere, declared Morton May, president of the May organization, yesterday, on his arrival here from headquarters at St. Louis. He will remain ten days. He brought news that Los Angeles is becoming recognized as a style center and that his organization sent its eastern buyers to the recent Los Angeles style show in Chicago to get latest modes.

Business conditions not only are getting better but are better, May announced, discussing the recovery from the autumn stock market depression. It was only a scare, as far as sound business is concerned, he explained. Customers are buying freely, and retail prices are lower than since before the war, he said.

Comprehensiveness of style today is stimulating trade, he said, because fashions are not so narrowly restricted as formerly. Mr. May stressed that women today can wear long skirts, short skirts or medium skirts and still be in style. Such latitude leads to more general buying and a better pleased shopper, who does not feel that styles are being forced on her, he added.

MR. RUFF ROUGH, ASSERTS WIFE

Divorce Won From Husband Whom Spouse Likens To His Name

David Ruff lived up to his name, according to his wife, Mrs. Mamie Ruff, who went before Superior Judge Hazlett yesterday and was granted a divorce on the grounds of mental cruelty.

Mrs. Ruff testified her husband threw her about the room so many times she had to run to the bathroom of the home and lock herself in for protection.

The wife also stated Ruff had a habit of seizing her by the wrists and twisting them until they were black and blue. A decree was granted.

CONTEST GAINS MORE ENTRIES

Constitution Orators Bid for Rostrum Honors

Long Beach School Officers Stimulating Interest

Local Contests Revealing Large Field of Talent

It becomes apparent, as the contest progresses that the early estimates of the number of high school students entering the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution, in the Pacific Southwest division, will have to be revised upward.

Polytechnic High School at Long Beach is an illustration. Its manner of handling the contest is worthy of special mention for the benefit of other schools, in showing what a school can do when its administration has proper interest. The student body reflects the enthusiasm of Principal David Burcham and Coach Arthur R. Jamison.

INTEREST KEEN

"So much interest has been aroused this year," said the coach, "that we have encouraged the public speaking and oral English classes to hold class competitions as a first preliminary elimination of students desiring to enter the contest."

The semifinal was held yesterday afternoon. Those who contested were Cecilia Peterson, Sara Rouse, Barbara Dean, Kenneth Miller, Leroy Coleman, Ralph Clinton, Frank Cron, Ven Fahrney, Jack Reynolds, Viola Heinen, Al Perrish, Lois Griffin, Delphine Wagner, Esther Hogan, Edie Wright, Hazel Killian and Eugene Nida. In addition to their set speeches each contestant was required to make a two-minute extemporaneous speech upon a specialized topic.

The six speakers chosen were Odie Wright, Frank Cron, Eugene Nida, Ralph Clinton, Lois Griffin, Barbara Dean, ranked in the order named.

The judges were Ralph E. Oliver, Charles F. Seymour, and Louis H. Jamison, all heads of departments of Polytechnic High.

As the Long Beach Press-Telegram and the students' paper, the "High Life" are giving publicity to the oratorical contest on the Constitution, several thousand persons are expected to hear the final contest April 9, which will decide the best orator of Polytechnic High.

MARION KENNEDY

St. Mary's Academy held its local contest yesterday, and out of sixty-five who wrote orations on the Constitution, the six best delivered their orations in competition before an audience. The winners were: First, Marion Kennedy, who spoke on "Modern Youth's Debt to the Constitution;" second, Rose Marie Arena, whose subject was "American Youth and the Constitution."

ROSE MARIE ARENA

Judges were Rev. Francis J. Donovan, S. J., Boston; Lillian Fitch, Mount St. Mary's College, and Maybelle Sullivan, secretary of the Newman Club, U.C.L.A.

Fairfax chose the following as its six best orators from a list of thirty entrants: Bonita Beamer, George Bevis, Frances Brady, May Hobart, Arthur Pettler, and Tom Sherlock.

LEADERS IN SCHOOL

Of the thirty entrants this year at Fairfax High School are to be found seven members of the Promethian or scholarship society of the school. Led by William Roberts, president of this society, are Bonita Beamer, Mary Hobart, Arthur Pettler, Florence Wallace, Carol Jane Thornton and George Bevis, commissioner of safety. Then there is Richard Swift, president of the student body; Anne Henderson, president of the girls' self-government; Fred Becker, president of the class of 1931; Joe Gaudio, vice-president of the class of 1930; Robert Lazarus, former commissioner of oral arts, and Betty Roberts, vice-president of the Girls' League.

Others were Lois Voshell, winner of the American Legion patriotic essay contest; Robert Millar, president of the History Club; Theodore Sherlock, Theodore Sawyer and Esther Odell, classroom presidents; Blanche Hudson, Girls'-League representative; Georgie Small and Marco Thorne, interscholastic debaters, and Frances Brady, commissioner of lockers. The other entrants were well-known students: Clare Crowford, Betty Fraser, Ann Toth, Velma Ripetto, Trudy Lawrence, Yoanda Mautern, Atlee Haldemas, Robert Sommers, Anna Lee Erdman, Phillis Rosen, Eleanor De Vicq, Jannette Hickman and Joan Stein, the latter a newcomer from Alabama, where she won school and county awards in the contest on the Constitution.

WINNERS CHOSEN

Phineas Banning High held its local contest yesterday. Thirty or
